SPALDING OFFICIAL, WIFE AND CHILD DIE AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

R. J. Hellawell and Family Victims of Accident at Dangerous Crossing.

WERE ON HOLIDAY JAUNT

Left New York Two Weeks Ago and Were on the Way to Scranton.

HIT BY PASSENGER TRAIN

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—R. J. Hellawell, secretary of A. G. Spalding & Brothers of 126 Nassau Street, New York, his wife, and his 12-year-old daughter were instantly killed at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Newberry crossing of the Erie Railroad, in the town of Kirkwood, ten miles from this city. This point is known as "Dead Man's Curve."

Mr. Hellawell is believed to have been on his way from Binghamton to Scranton. At the Newberry crossing, which is so situated that an approaching train from either of two directions cannot be seen until the track is reached, he saw too late a passenger train speeding at forty miles an hour.

He turned his steering wheel. The sedan in which he was riding and in which he had been on tour from New York since two weeks ago Friday, careened. The engine rushed by, baggage and other cars tore past. The last two cars of the train, however, struck the tilted top of the sedan with tragic results.

The top of the auto hurtled into a nearby field. Mr. and Mrs. Hellawell were tossed a short distance. Their daughter later was found stretched across the steering wheel.

There was no doubt about the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Hellawell had been killed. They had been torn to pieces by the onrushing train. It had been thought, however, for a few moments that the little daughter was still living. When surgeons arrived they said she was dead.

The bodies were removed to Cornell's Mortuary in this city and Coroner F. H. Goodwin has begun an investigation.

The Newberry crossing here has been the scene of many automobile tragedies. The Public Service Commission frequently has insisted on its elimination.

It is on the main highway between here and New York and is looked upon as one of the most to be feared on the route. The approach on the Binghamton side descends a steep hill and crosses a deep cut just before reaching the railroad right of way. The sides of the cut hide the tracks from the view of a motorist until he is almost upon the crossing.

A recent order of the Public Service Commission directed the elimination of the crossing. When Mr. Hellawell and his wife and daughter rode to their death material for the construction work that would have changed the crossing from grade to one overhead was lying beside the road. Workmen were expected to begin their task within a few days.

When Mr. Hellawell and his wife and daughter came rolling over the smooth turnpike this afternoon, so far as is known they had no knowledge that the sharp dip down a hill led them on to a railroad track.

The only witnesses of the accident were members of a freight crew of an Erie train that was shunted on a siding there. Their statements agree that so far as they could tell Hellawell drove down the hill apparently not noticing the approach of the train. They said it was clear that he recognized his danger too late and that he swung his car at right angles to the train. The sudden twist tossed the automobile over to one side. It leaned in toward the train and the last two coaches hit it.

Mr. Hellawell and his wife were thrown far ahead of the auto before the engineer could bring the train to a stop. Their bodies were badly mangled. After the engineer had stopped the train a party went back and found the body of the daughter over the steering wheel. She looked to them to be alive. Surgeons, however, said that she had been killed as instantly as had been her parents.

Julian W. Curtiss, Vice President of A. G. Spalding & Bros., said last night in Greenwich, Conn., that Mr. Hellawell, when he started on his holidays last July 15, said that he was going to make a long tour of the country north of New York City. Mr. Curtiss said that he should be careful.

"I knew that Mr. Hellawell was one of the most careful automobile drivers of my acquaintance," Mr. Curtiss said, "and when I told him to be careful it was more or less in the nature of a joke."

"And he said: 'You needn't worry about me. I am very careful. And there is nothing that I leave undone to look out for the safety of my family when we are riding.'.

"You can imagine," Mr. Curtiss added, "what a shock it was to me to learn of this terrible tragedy.

"Mr. Hellawell was about 45 years old. He had worked for us for about twenty years. He was one of those estimable persons who come into a busi-

Two Chicago Women on Trial For Frauds at City Primary

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Lillian Howe and Mrs. Mary O'Brien have just been put on trial on a charge of election fraud.

Mrs. Howe and Mrs. O'Brien were clerk and judge, respectively, in the Seventh Precinct of the Fifth Ward during the Mayoralty primary of Feb. 25, 1919. With James B. Downey, the other clerk, and Ellsworth Parker and William C. Krumbein, the other judges, they are being tried for conspiracy to falsify the tally sheets and make fraudulent entries of the returns.

This is the first of a series of election cases ordered to trial this month.

SPURRED BY WESTERN VOTE

Woodbury Tells Nominee That Moses Can Be Beaten in New Hampshire.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Governor James M. Cox today called upon ex-President Taft to come out in the open and demonstrate where he stands in regard to the League of Nations as a campaign issue.

The Governor said that Mr. Taft could do this, and also render a great service to the cause of the League of Nations, if he would use his influence to defeat, in Republican primary contests, candidates who stand with Senator Harding.

By taking such a stand, it is urged, Mr. Taft would work against the cause of the irreconcilables and help nominate Republican candidates for Senator who believed in the principle of the League and were prepared to vote for it as it stands, or at any rate with reservations.

The question as to Mr. Taft came up today in a discussion of the primary contests in Oklahoma and Missouri, where Democratic candidates, Senator Gore in Oklahoma and Judge Priest in Missouri, who are opposed to the League, were defeated and Democrats who favor the League were nominated.

Governor Cox also received word from New Hampshire that there was every prospect of a Democratic victory there next Fall, which would carry with it the defeat of Senator George H. Moses, Republican, in the event that Moses, who is a radical anti-leaguer, was renominated by his party.

Expects Taft to Take Stand.

In reference to the Senatorial primary contests and the part which he believed ex-President Taft might play in them, the Governor said:

"We have every expectation that Judge Taft will urge Republicans in any State where a primary contest is on for the nomination of a candidate for United States Senator to support the man or men who are in favor of the League of Nations. By so doing he can consistently remain a Republican in the face of his statement that the position of his Presidential candidate on this question is wrong."

There is no request by Governor Cox that Mr. Taft bolt his party to support the Democratic candidate for the Senate. It is simply that Mr. Taft work with that element in his own party, which, where the primary elections are concerned, appears favorable to the League of Nations.

The fight over the renomination of Senator Moses is a case in point. Moses, who has been one of the bitterest opponents of the League, has a sharp contest on his hands, and Mr. Taft, it is held, might be able to turn the scales and help nominate a candidate who is less extreme in his views. To accomplish this, of course, Mr. Taft would be forced to talk to the voters in favor of the adoption of the League of Nations, and to that extent to differ from Senator Harding.

Reports concerning a trend to the Democratic Party in New Hampshire which promises to end in victory there were brought here by Gordon Woodbury, who came as the representative of that State on the Notification Committee. Woodbury said that there had been a sharp reaction against the stand taken by Senator Harding, and that the Democrats of his State were in a happy frame of mind. He asked Governor Cox to speak in New Hampshire, and received the promise of at least one address between Aug. 20 and Sept. 15.

It is probable that Governor Cox will go to New England soon after he addresses the Ohio Democratic Convention at Columbus on Aug. 17. He has a tentative engagement in Connecticut and may go to New Hampshire on the same trip.

Sound Amplifier Tested.

Governor Cox and Chairman J. Spriggs McMahon of the Local Committee on Arrangements inspected today the sound amplifier to be used on the occasion of his acceptance speech Saturday. The instrument was found to be so powerful that the tick of a watch was audible in all sections of the grandstand many yards distant, while spoken words were heard by workingmen at the National Cash Register buildings, hundreds of yards distant.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his wife and daughter will arrive in Dayton Saturday morning, and will go to Trail's

STRIKERS BATTLE IN DENVER STREETS; RIOT IN ILLINOIS

MOB THREATENS CITY HALL

Plant of Denver Post Wrecked —Strikebreakers Take Refuge in the Cathedral.

CALL TROOPS IN ILLINOIS

Mob Seizes West Frankfort in War on Foreigners—Three Dead, 40 Injured—Houses Set Afire.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 5.—One man was killed and more than thirty persons were injured here tonight in riots caused by an attempt by striking street car employes to prevent the operation of cars by strikebreakers.

Finally a mob began marching toward the City Hall, shouting, "Wreck the hall!"

At 9 o'clock the rioters stormed the Denver Post Building and completely wrecked the business offices and editorial rooms. They demolished or carted away furniture and other equipment and left the rooms bare.

The mob attempted to demolish the big presses, but was only able to put them and the linotype machines out of commission.

After completing their work at the building of The Post, which has been against the strike in its news and editorial columns daily the members of the mob took up the march to the Tramway Central barns, presumably to wreck the cars that are housed within the enclosure.

Mob Beats Strikebreakers.

Four men were shot and others were badly beaten when the riot started, shortly before 6 o'clock. At that time a car was stopped by an automobile at Fifteenth and California Streets. More than a thousand strikers and their sympathizers, who had marched in a body to the City Hall while a committee from the Denver Trades and Labor Assembly called on Mayor Galley, were parading after the conference and had just reached there when the collision took place.

The strike sympathizers, who had been joined by several hundred additional union men after the demonstrators left the City Hall, immediately surrounded the car and began breaking in the windows to get at the strikebreakers. Within a few minutes several thousand people, shouting and fighting, jammed the streets. Stones and bricks were hurled at the car, which was smashed open so that the rioters were able to get at the crew.

Three strikebreakers were hauled from the car and severely beaten, according to spectators. Armed guards opened fire when they saw that the car crew was at the mercy of the mob and at least four men were shot.

The police patrol accompanying the car was powerless, and three riot calls were sent in to Police Headquarters, bringing five automobile loads of police to the scene. Seven men alleged by the police to have participated in the riot were taken to the city jail and locked up. Some of the men had been severely beaten and required emergency treatment from the police surgeons.

Shots Fired in the Outbreak.

The mob had virtually its own way for several hours. After it had wrecked two of the cars and been dispersed from Fifteenth and California Streets it marched about the city staging demonstrations in front of the tramway building, where bricks were thrown through the windows and two shots were fired. Strikebreakers who were brought into the city late in the afternoon were stoned by another crowd of strike sympathizers and several of them were slightly hurt.

Two men were left for dead in one of the battered cars by the mob. One, who was still unconscious upon his arrival at a hospital, was found lying with his head badly battered, in the aisle of the car near the motorman's controller. The other, who was also badly beaten up, had been jammed into the box-like seat which ran along the side of the old-fashioned car.

When the crowd was dispersed at Fifteenth and California Streets it moved over to the Tramway Building at Fourteenth and Arapahoe Streets. As the crowds grew thicker, and more menacing, blinds on all windows in the building were drawn. Some one in the crowd threw a brick through a plate-glass window and two shots were fired in return. Police reserves were called.

Chief Armstrong Injured.

Chief of Police Hamilton Armstrong was struck on the head with a stone and severely injured at 8:30 tonight, when rioting was renewed at Fifteenth and Arapahoe Streets. A mob of more than 1,000 persons had surrounded a car and was rapidly destroying it. William Humes, a policeman, was shot and

IRISH CRIMES BILL EXCITES COMMONS

CAN'T GIVE DOMINION RULE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Ireland and the never-ending problem of its government provoked something like a pre-war partisan spirit in the House of Commons tonight in the debate on the Restoration of Order in Ireland bill (Crimes bill), which was read a second time after a series of passionate demonstrations and counterdemonstrations, including altercations between Mr. Asquith and the Premier.

Bonar Law moved the resolution to regulate the debate on the bill, and during his speech he made a statement which evoked loud ministerial cheers. After giving the number of policemen and civilians killed and wounded in Ireland during the year ended July 31, he said that in this country there were smoldering fires of resentment at these cold-blooded murders. This might easily be fanned into a devouring conflagration of real hostility to Ireland.

"We are determined to use all our powers to put down this reign of terror in Ireland," he said.

There was a lively outbreak when Mr. Asquith charged the Government with responsibility for the present state of things. He talked of self-determination, and he had no fear, he said, of the spectre of the Irish Republic.

"Take the Irish people into your confidence by a convention or some other procedure," he concluded, "and associate them, if you can, with the liberation of their country and the preparation and development of a large and generous scheme of self-government on Dominion lines."

No Prospect for Dominion Rule.

Premier Lloyd George followed immediately, and promptly challenged Mr. Asquith to give authority for his belief that Dominion home rule would be accepted in Ireland.

Mr. Asquith had to confess that he was only expressing his own opinion.

Mr. Lloyd George declared the fundamental fact was that there was no proposal which the British Government could bring forward which would be acceptable to any party that could speak with authority in Ireland. He said deliberately that he could not see at this moment any fair prospect of a satisfactory measure of conciliation which would be acceptable to all parties.

Great Britain was prepared to make great sacrifices, and Ireland must also be prepared to sacrifice some of her extravagant demands. If that were done, as he thought it would be eventually, a satisfactory settlement would be reached.

In the meantime it was the duty of the Government to protect life and property, and to maintain authority. He pointed out that the Irish Republican Brotherhood had declared war on the British Empire, and they could not complain that conditions of war had been applied to them.

Finally came a firm and emphatic rejection from the Premier of the Sinn Fein demand for a republic. No Britisher, he said, could concede such terms.

There were many opposition interruptions during his speech, and the Speaker was obliged to appeal several times for order. There were boisterous cheers when the bill was carried by 289 to 71.

Angry Altercations of Leaders.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Associated Press)—After a debate which developed great heat and a personal scene between Lloyd George and Herbert H. Asquith, the Government at 11 o'clock tonight defeated the motion of John Robert Clynes (Laborite) for rejection of the new Irish Crimes bill.

At the very opening of debate the days of Parnell were recalled. Mr. Asquith started an angry duel with the Premier by declaring that the situation in Ireland needed Cromwellian treatment, but he could see no Cromwell in the Government. The Premier retorted by describing Mr. Asquith as Cromwell when he was in power.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, opened the discussion by explaining that it was not intended for the bill to supersede the ordinary courts. It would only apply to disturbed areas, at the discretion of the Irish Government, and would not be operated in a revengeful spirit.

Mr. Asquith then spoke, blaming the Government for the present position in Ireland. This met with angry cries of dissent. He declared that he was not scared by the spectre of an Irish re-

ALLIES MOVE TO PROTECT POLAND; SOVIET SENDS ANOTHER EVASIVE NOTE; GERMANY REFUSES TO LET TROOPS PASS

BERLIN VETO ON PASSAGE

SOVIET TREATY REPORTED

London Hears Full Agreement with Germans Is in Force—Paris Gives Details.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—The German Government is determined to prevent by all means the Entente from sending troops through Germany to help Poland, according to a declaration made in the Richstag today by Dr. Walter Simons, the Foreign Minister.

Dr. Simons intimated that if the necessity arose, Germany would fight to prevent such a "violation" of German territory.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The contingency of Germany having to fight to resist a possible attempt by the Entente to send troops through Germany to help Poland was mentioned in the Reichstag today by Dr. Walter Simons, says a wireless message from Berlin.

Declaring that he was not aware whether the Entente actually intended to march troops through Germany, the Foreign Secretary said it would obviously be to their interest to do so and the German Government must take measures accordingly.

Dr. Simons referred to the report that preparations were in progress in occupied territory to transfer troops to the East.

"If this is true," he added, "it constitutes a violation of German neutrality, for the territory, although occupied, is German, and the agreement provides that no district belonging to a neutral power may be used for military operations.

"The German Government will make use of any weapons in order to remove these difficulties, although we hope it will be possible to achieve the end desired by persuasion and mutual understanding, and that cause for the use of arms will not arise.

"I ask you to avoid anything which might render more acute the already strained situation, which I will do my utmost to prevent from resulting in an outbreak."

Another wireless dispatch from Berlin says that the Bavarian Traffic Council has decided to issue a proclamation to the postal and telegraph employes, calling on them to prevent the conveyance of Entente troops, of arms and munitions by all means, paralyzing, if necessary, the whole of the Bavarian transport system.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Soviet Russia concluded a secret treaty with Germany concerning Poland a few weeks before the great Polish offensive began, says a correspondent of The London Times. He asserts that he has secured the information from "excellent authority."

The treaty, it is asserted, contained the following provisions:

Russia, without interference from Germany, would be allowed to appropriate all of Poland's arms, munitions, rolling-stock and foodstuffs.

After the conquest of Poland, permission would be given Russia to send a number of Bolshevist Commissioners into that country to control the export of Polish supplies of all kinds.

Russia would then undertake to completely evacuate Poland in favor of Germany, which would hold the country as a guarantee against future credits to Russia in return for German goods and German labor.

"Russia," the correspondent adds, "intends to try to avoid the terms of this treaty by the creation of a Polish Bolshevist army, the first steps in the formation of which are now being taken in occupied areas of Poland. When Russia withdraws from Poland she will leave this Polish army, permitting Germany to take such steps as she can to face the situation. The Bolsheviki are convinced England will not materially aid Poland, and will wage their next campaign against Rumania in Bessarabia."

M. Krassin, the Bolshevist Minister of Trade, informed the Government today that there was no truth in the report that a secret agreement had been reached between Russia and Germany.

Hungary Formally Offers an Army to Aid Poland; Rumania Reported Massing Army on Russian Border

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WARSAW, Aug. 5.—Hungary today formally offered aid to the Poles and has expressed willingness to send two divisions of cavalry and two divisions of infantry against the Reds immediately.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Rumania is concentrating troops on the Russo-Rumanian frontier, says a wireless dispatch from Moscow.

GENEVA, Aug. 5.—Nikolai Lenin, Premier of the Soviet Government of Russia, has ignored the recent Rumanian ultimatum to withdraw his troops from Rumanian territory, according to the Bucharest correspondent of the Journal de Génève.

The correspondent describes the exterior and interior situation of Rumania as extremely serious. Bolsheviki have invaded Galicia, he says, and in Bukowina a quarter of a million discontented Socialist workmen are ready to join the invaders.

He adds that, while Russian and German Communists are operating for a junction at Warsaw, Bulgarian, Russian and Magyar Bolsheviki are preparing to meet at Bucharest, with Constantinople as their ultimate goal.

TALK OF AMERICAN ACTION IN POLAND

EXTRA SESSION SUGGESTED

Congress Would Have to Take Action if Substantial Help Was to be Rendered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—According to the official viewpoint here, the Polish situation is grave in the extreme, not only on account of the danger to Poland's political and territorial integrity, but also from the danger to the peace of the world. Great concern is felt in official circles here. Officials think that it is not too late to save Poland, but are said to feel that military measures by the allied nations will be necessary.

So strong is the feeling here that the Bolshevist triumph in Poland is a menace to civilization that a pronounced sentiment exists in favor of military assistance from the United States to stop the Bolshevist advance. Poland must be saved, it is contended, to prevent the Soviet Government at Moscow from imposing its doctrines upon a large part of the world.

It is admitted, however, that the Government is powerless to act without the authority of Congress. That high officials have been considering the matter of urging President Wilson that Congress should be called in special session is inferred from what was said today.

The obvious measures of assistance to Poland are military operations, extension of credit to the Warsaw Government to enable it to obtain military and other supplies, and shipment of munitions of war, food and clothing. Officials are convinced that none of this help is possible without the consent of Congress, which will not meet until the first Monday in December, unless President Wilson calls an extra session.

There is no evidence that President Wilson has been urged by members of his Cabinet to summon Congress, but some Senators have openly expressed themselves in favor of that step. It is said that they were sending up a trial balloon in behalf of the President to test public sentiment. The attitude of the United States seems dependent upon action taken by the Allied Powers.

The significant statements made in the House of Commons today by Lloyd George have not been lost upon officials here. Thus far, however, the Government has no definite knowledge of what may be done by Great Britain. A news dispatch from Paris saying that the Allied Council of Ambassadors, in which the United States is represented by Ambassador Wallace, had been called into session, and that Wallace had been asked to return from his vacation, is all the information that the State Department has on the subject.

It has been indicated that if the Moscow Government accepts Great Britain's proposal for a conference with the Soviet Government over Poland and the European situation, the United States will insist upon being represented, as a principal or observer. But it is conceded that the President is helpless to act in Poland's behalf in any material way and could give no assurances in the Council of Ambassadors or a general conference that would mean our military help if the situation required. Officials are chagrined over the position in which the Government is placed.

The United States, it is admitted today, has not been asked "directly or formally" to render military aid to Poland. There is ground for believing, however, that there have been informal diplomatic exchanges that look to American assistance to Poland.

The suggestion of the Polish Government that the United States declare its moral support of Poland has not been acted upon, mainly because the Administration looks upon any such declaration as futile. That force, and force alone, will aid Poland should the Moscow Government decline to make concessions to that country and seek to weaken or destroy the political and territorial integrity of the new Polish nation is the apparent conviction of the generality of Washington officials.

BRODY RETAKEN BY POLISH FORCES

NORTHERN DRIVE SLOWED UP

Warsaw-Danzig Supply Railroad Said Now to be in No Immediate Danger.

WARSAW, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The Bolshevist offensive against the Poles along the Bug River, between Brest-Litovsk and the confluence of the Nurzec, has been stopped. The Polish counteroffensive north and south is developing successfully, and the new Polish Army concentrated between the Nasew and Bug Rivers has driven the enemy back to the edge of the province of Grodno, notwithstanding the pressure of the Bolshevist forces which crossed the Narew opposite Lomza.

In Volhynia the Polish position upon the Upper Styr, on the Stochod and in the Pripet Marshes are holding well.

Enemy cavalry continues advancing along the Prussian frontier in the direction of the Danzig-Miawa-Warsaw Railroad, but, in view of the small number of effectives employed, this movement, aimed at the Thorn region, constitutes for the moment at least only an extensive demonstration against Polish Pomerania.

With the Bolsheviki virtually knocking at the gates of Warsaw the populace has been aroused to the highest pitch of patriotic fervor. The entire press declares that Warsaw must not surrender to the invader.

Fresh drafts of conscripts and many volunteers are moving toward the front, many of them boys of 14 and 15 years of age. The Government in its extremity has called to the colors the classes of 1890 and 1895 from the district between the Rivers Vistula and San for the defense of this section.

Today's official statement issued at General Staff headquarters declares the Poles have retaken the town of Brody, near the Galician frontier, and have forced the Bolsheviki back into Russia in the region of Radziwilov, northeast of Brody.

American aviators fighting with the Kosciusko Squadron are battling against General Budenny's cavalry and infantry along the Sereth River, where the Soviet forces have not made any headway. Parts of this squadron were engaged all day yesterday near Miklicze, where they met Cossacks and Bolshevist infantry. The losses suffered by the enemy in this district were very heavy, today's official statement saying 1,600 Bolsheviki were killed and large numbers wounded.

Poland strained every ounce of her reserve power yesterday to checkmate the enemy in the game on the result of which depends the fate of the new republic. Men in whose hands rests the destiny of Poland assembled at various conferences throughout the day, and taking a leading rôle in all decisions were the British, French and Italian missions.

Munitions recently unloaded at Dansig by the British were arriving during the day, and tanks, rifles and artillery from France were rushed to the front. French officers are arriving daily to act as technical advisers at Polish General Headquarters in the preparations for Warsaw's final stand against the invaders.

The Municipal Council has appointed a Council of Defense. A Warsaw home guard has been formed, taking its stand on the right bank of the Vistula River, prepared to defend the bridges and banks.

The newspapers are still confident and express great hopes in the volunteers now facing the enemy. Some wounded men from these detachments have already arrived here, many of them being boys who left school when the country called its men to arms against the Soviet armies.

PARIS, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Inspired by a wave of patriotism in the rear and encouraged by the arrival of arm and ammunitions, the Polish armies seem to be stiffening in their defense against the invasion of the Bol-

COMMONS BACKS PREMIER

Labor Party Opposes Intervention—Henderson Urges Demonstrations by Workers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 6.—That the Allies have no idea of being swerved from their position regarding Poland and contemplate military intervention on her behalf was made clear yesterday afternoon by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons. His utterances on the subject evoked loud cheers.

Preparations to deal with the situation are in fact under way, according to reports in authoritative quarters, and the political correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says that he has good reason for stating that orders have been given to the British naval commanders to reimpose the blockade on Russia.

The Premier and Mr. Bonar Law impressed the gravity of the situation in such forceful language on Wednesday when the Soviet envoys were summoned to meet members of the Cabinet at Mr. Lloyd George's official residence that Leo Kameneff, President of the Moscow Soviet, is said to have sent a message to his Government urging that the original British proposals for an armistice with Poland be accepted immediately.

Messages from the Soviet.

Meanwhile the Soviet Government today sent a wireless message in code to Kameneff, conveying their answer to the British notes as to the invasion of Poland and the armistice. They also sent a wireless message from Tchitcherin to the British Cabinet stating that they were replying through the Russian delegation. Kameneff's staff decoded the message they received from Moscow tonight, and it is being conveyed to the Government.

It is gathered, though not from Government sources, that the reply will again be found rather ambiguous. The chief points made in it are:

1. The Soviet Government is ready to make separate peace with Poland.

2. It is willing to recognize the independence of Poland and give Poland better frontiers than were given her by the Allies.

3. The Russian military operations must continue until the Polish Parliamentaries return to the Russian lines with what the Soviet Government regard as proper credentials; i. e., with credentials to conclude peace as well as an armistice.

4. That the Soviet Government have no intention of raising their peace terms on a sliding scale, according to the effectiveness of their military operations now in progress.

It is understood that the British military authorities are in possession of information showing that Warsaw has been the objective of the Russian Government from the beginning of the campaign.

Concerning this latest note The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent writes:

"The reply, I understand, in pressing the willingness of the Russian Government to make an armistice and peace seems to suggest that the Allies have already accepted this position of the Soviet Government in declaring their willingness to resume negotiations immediately the Polish Parliamentaries return with credentials.

"They desire to insist that as a result a Polish peace must then be made; that is to say the conference on Polish peace in London is denied.

The Soviet Government asked the British Government apparently to recognize that all precedents in similar cases sanction continuance for the moment of the Russian military operations. They add that subject to Polish peace being concluded in the circumstances stipulated the Soviet Government are perfectly willing to proceed with preparations for the London conference with all the Allies with a view to a general peace being established.

"The position of the Allies in the event of war with Russia is that Britain would take the blockade in hand, for which the navy is ready at this moment. No question of sending troops has been before the Cabinet. The immediate supply of munitions might be a matter for disposal. France is now considering what additional munitions she can send."

The British blockade of the Russian Baltic ports was partially raised in November, when the fleet was withdrawn. This was a reversal of the policy announced a month or so earlier by the Allies to the neutral Governments and Germany. These measures were:

1. Permission to sail refused to every ship proceeding to a Bolshevist Russian port and permission to enter other ports refused to every ship coming from such port.

2. Similar measures in case of all goods intended to be forwarded in any other way to Bolshevist Russia.

3. Passports refused to every person going to or coming from Bolshevist Russia. (exceptions in individual cases by agreement).

4. Banks to be prevented from conducting business transactions with Bolshevist Russia.

5. Every Government will refuse to its subjects any facilitating of communication with Bolshevist Russia whether by post or by wireless telegraphy.

Government's Suspicions Aroused.

Mr. Lloyd George in his speech to the House yesterday said that he and Mr. Bonar Law had impressed upon Krassin and Kameneff in their talk with the Soviet envoys on Wednesday that the Moscow Government's failure to conclude an armistice on fair terms had roused suspicion of its sincerity and that the British Government in view of the invasion of ethnographical Poland would "take effective steps to remove obstacles in the way of transmission to Poland from Danzig of military supplies." He added that he would make a full statement on Monday as to "such further naval or military action which it may be necessary to take should unfortunately our suspicions be confirmed."

Mr. Lloyd George's statement was followed by a volley of questions from Colonel Wedgewood, Lieut. Commander Kenworthy and a few other active members of the Opposition. They raised the question of Winston Churchill's recent newspaper article discussing the possibility of Germany helping to oppose the Bolsheviki, but their intervention met with little support from the House.

Protests were shouted as they suggested that the Soviet Government could not be blamed for being suspicious of Entente diplomacy and the Premier was warmly cheered as he characterized as "ludicrous" the idea that Mr. Churchill's article had produced a change in British policy.

Replying to Sir Donald MacLean, acting as leader of the Opposition, he promised to give the House immediately any information he might receive before Monday, as he full yrealized the anxiety on the subject.

Soviet Says Armies Would Not Halt.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 6 (Associated Press).—The Russian Soviet's reply to Great Britain's call for a halt of the Bolshevist advance in Poland is a refusal, according to The London Times. The newspaper says the ground taken is that the armies would not obey an order to halt, and will only be content when they reach Warsaw, which has been promised to them for loot.

The Herald, the laborite organ, says today that the British North Sea squadron has been ordered to the Baltic Sea and that instructions have been issued to reimpose the blockade against Russia.

An official statement issued last night declares there is no truth in a report printed in the newspapers that large quantities of war materials are being sent to Poland and that the War Office would be able to send four divisions of troops there in the next few weeks.

Arthur Henderson, the leader of the Laborites in the House of Commons, is seeking by a circular to the local labor parties throughout the country to rally the Labor Party into organizing demonstrations against intervention in Russia or supplying men or munitions to Poland. The circular favors the immediate raising of the blockade against Russia and resumption of trade relations with that country.

In view of the known intense hostility of the Labor Party to military aid for Poland it is believed that the Government will limit any needful action to economic pressure on Russia.

Premier Lloyd George was closely pressed by questioners in the House of Commons yesterday, with a view to obtaining assurance that Great Britain will not become involved in war with Russia without the consent of Parliament, but he could be drawn no farther than to promise a full statement of the situation Monday. He added the hope that it would not be necessary to act, but said that the Government would take action if this were found to be necessary.

Asked whether the Allies contemplated tightening the Russian blockade, the Premier said:

"I hope it will not be necessary to take steps to tighten the blockade; that must necessarily depend on an answer reaching us."

The Premier, raising another point, said, "the best guarantee which Soviet Russia could have against the armistice being abused for the purpose of rearming and re-equipping Poland for offensive purposes would be a fair understanding with the western powers."

He was asked whether pressure was being applied by the Allies or Great Britain to Czechoslovakia to assist Poland with men, an army or munitions against Russia. The Premier replied:

"Everything depends on the answer we receive. If it is unsatisfactory, of course we shall bring pressure to bear on everybody to give the necessary support to Poland."

Replying to a question as to involving other countries in a new war, Premier Lloyd George said: "You don't go to war necessarily when you allow the transit of munitions."

Asked whether in case the Soviet answer was unsatisfactory the House could understand that no pressure would be applied to Czechoslovakia or other border States to use armed intervention in favor of Poland, the Premier replied:

"If the answer is unsatisfactory and if it becomes quite clear that the Soviet authorities mean to destroy Poland I certainly could not give any undertaking of that kind."

The Premier's reply brought out cheers.

French Press Tells of Preparations.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—England has taken steps to rapidly mobilize two divisions for service in Poland, according to the Matin, which adds that plans for the transportation and revictualing of this force have been prepared.

Negotiations between France and England for the purpose of devising means for aiding Poland are being pushed actively, other papers assert, and the bureau which has been liquidating war stocks has canceled certain previous engagements.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 5.—A battalion of French riflemen quartered in Luxembourg have received orders to hold themselves in readiness to start for Poland, according to the Berlin Vossische Zeitung.

PUZZLE FOR GOVERNMENT

Uncertainty as to Best Method of Giving Support to Poland After Army Is Raised.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The more the French Government thinks of the Polish problem the less it seems to like it. The changing tone of the semi-official press reflects alternatives of hope and fear, hesitation and half decision. One day there is a note of optimism that Poland can hold out and that all she requires is a supply of guns and munitions. The next it is reported that the Polish Government is about to flee to Cracow and that the disorganization of the Polish Army is too great for resistance.

But the real source of French difficulty is nearer home than Poland. It is right here in Paris. The fact is the French do not know what to do. It is that fact which is responsible for the temporizing, shilly-shallying policy of the Allies far more than the reluctance of Lloyd George to follow French suggestions. It is not only the thorny problem of raising anything like an adequate force of troops for service in Russia should it become necessary. The crux of the whole difficulty is what to do with the said troops when they are raised. In other words, it is not so much a question of whether the Allies should give the Poles military support against the Bolsheviki, but how on earth that support is to be given. Obviously until the latter question is satisfactorily answered the former one is hardly worth consideration, except platonically, which already has been done.

There are two obvious routes which an expedition could take—by sea to Danzig and overland, either on the northern route through Germany or by the southern route through Austria and Czechoslovakia to Cracow. Danzig is not an ideal base of operations. It lies in a country bitterly hostile to both Poland and the Allies and there is hourly probability that the Danzig-Warsaw railroad will be cut by the Bolsheviki. There is evident objection of a similar character to sending troops by the northern route through Germany. The southern route is hardly more satisfactory. There is already talk of an Austrian boycott and the Czechs, who hate the Poles wholeheartedly, probably would be equally opposed to troop transport.

In fact, with one small exception, it seems as though the only way to give the Poles military assistance is with the co-operation of the Germans, as Winston Churchill suggested. The French would not stand for that—not yet, anyway, though the world may still see an Anglo-French-German crusade against Russia. There were no less startling changes in the days of Napoleon. The hope that is still entertained in some quarters here of a combination of the small border States against the Reds with the Allies' help is built on sand.

Finland and the Baltic States will not be persuaded to cross their own borders. The reactionary rulers of Hungary might be willing enough, but they probably need what forces they can raise to protect them against their own masses, over whom they have established a reign of terror. Rumania has no taste or heart for extravagant adventures, and at best could do little more than support an operation of which others were bearing the brunt.

The small exception is General Wrangel, and it is not very clear how the augmentation of his forces is going to be much direct aid to the Poles, if the latter can save enough from the Red tide to be a rallying point for the future, and if the Bolsheviki decline to give terms that are acceptable to the Allies the end of the Summer might see the inception of an allied campaign based on the Crimea.

Wrangel at least is the first of the anti-Bolshevist Russian leaders who has shown genuine liberalism in administration. He is a skillful General who rules honestly without fear or favor. When he took over command of the remnant of Denikin's army they were a demoralized rabble. His unflagging courage and energy—not to mention a few judicious executions of influential rogues—has changed them into an efficient force that has been consistently victorious against greatly superior numbers.

Nothing succeeds like success, and not only is Wrangel getting support from the Cossack and Ukranian loyalists, but the French are beginning to wonder whether his easily accessible situation and his own qualities might not make him a trump card in the anti-Bolshevist game.

POLISH PEACE ENVOYS START FOR MINSK

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The Polish armistice and peace delegation left Warsaw for Minsk today, according to advices received here.

WARSAW, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Poland's Council of Defense has sent a wireless dispatch to Moscow informing the Soviet Government that Poland was ready to send a peace delegation to Minsk. Two conditions were laid down by the Council. They were: That Polish delegates be permitted to communicate freely with the Warsaw Government, and that the Soviet Government agrees to accept in principle the terms Poland will propose.

The Polish Commission arrived here yesterday morning from Baranovitchi, where it was confronted with the Soviet's demand for the initiation of peace conversations. It at once reported to the Council of Defense and the Cabinet and narrated the story of its experiences at Baranovitchi. It was immediately decided to accede to the Bolshevist demands and send the commission to a peace conference.

The Government has asked the members of the Franco-British mission to return respectively to Paris and London, lay the real situation in Poland before their Governments, and give their opinion as regards suitable aid.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—It was semi-officially announced here today that Lord D'Abernon, head of the British mission to Poland, and J. J. Jusserand, head of the French mission, would leave Warsaw before the end of the present week.

OUR WARSAW LEGATION MAY GO TO GRAUDENZ

Polish Capital Is Being Evacuated by the Civilian Population.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The members members of the American Legation staff are ready to leave Warsaw and Secretary Colby has cabled them permission to do so. Hugh Gibson, the American Minister to Poland, has been recalled from California, where his mother is seriously ill, and will return to his post.

In a cabled message to the State Department J. C. White, the American Chargé d'Affaires at Warsaw, said that on account of the approach of the Red army he was prepared to move his legation and its effects to Graudenz, Poland, 110 miles north of Warsaw in the direction of Danzig.

Colonel Robert E. Olds, American Red Cross Commissioner to Europe, cabled national headquarters today that all Red Cross stores at Bialystok, Poland, 177 carloads, had been safely removed to Cracow. The same disposition is being made of supplies in Warsaw. Hospital equipment at Vilna also was reported safe. The Bialystok orphanage was removed to Kalisz.

From 30 to 40 per cent. of the personnel of the Red Cross Commission to Poland has been ordered to Paris, the others remaining in Poland for the time being, Colonel Olds said.

WARSAW, Aug. 4 (Associated Press).—The American, British and French Legations will probably withdraw from Warsaw when the Polish Government is forced to leave. While the Poles have considered the question of a withdrawal of the Government, as yet there is no official announcement concerning the time it will leave nor where it will go. There are no indications that the Government is moving its records.

Members of the American Consulate staff and persons connected with the American typhus expedition have moved their baggage to Camp Gruppa, on the lower Vistula near Graudenz, which is the headquarters for the typhus expedition.

Most Americans, excepting welfare workers and others having business here, will have departed from this city by tomorrow night, it was announced by the authorities late today. More than 200 left for Danzig tonight, and the American Legation has arranged for 300 seat reservations on trains leaving tomorrow.

The majority of the French civilian population has left Warsaw. There were about one thousand in the French colony prior to the Bolshevist offensive.

A cable dispatch from Warsaw received yesterday at the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association, 600 Lexington Avenue, stated that all Y. W. C. A. Secretaries in Warsaw are to be withdrawn if the armistice is not signed. They will probably go to Danzig with the members of the American Relief Association, with whom they are allied. There are thirty-seven Y. W. C. A. representatives in Poland.

Wrangel Keeps Promise to Jews.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Fulfilling the promise that General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, recently made to the Jewish people he is now reported to have issued an appeal pleading that all pogrom agitations should cease. He has also taken steps to deal with the anti-Semitic press, as a result of which Colonel Vlasiev, one of the censors, has been dismissed, while Colonel Ignatieff, chief censor, has been severely rebuked. The Russkoye Pravda has been suppressed.

just before the start of the Red offensive. By the terms of this draft Germany would receive large commissions for reconstructing the economic life of Russia, and the Russians would by their offensive obliterate the Polish corridor to the Baltic and work for German interests in negotiations with the Allies.

The Petit Parisien gives the following substance of the accord.

"On the economic side Germany shall first undertake to complete the reorganization of the Russian railroads. She shall immediately deliver several hundred locomotives adapted to the Russian gauge, of which a large number are already assembled in depots at Koenigsberg and Insterber, East Prussia. Germany shall send to Russia a staff of technicians, engineers, foremen and important contingents of qualified railroad specialists and workmen. German industry shall also furnish material for mining and oil industries. Finally large stocks of medical supplies shall be forwarded to Russia immediately the German treaty is signed.

"In return for this economic assistance from Germany, the Bolshevist Government will expel the Poles from the Danzig corridor and the Germans will occupy this region, formerly German. The Bolshevist Government in its peace negotiations with the Entente will demand the admission of Germany to conferences and defend not only Russian interests, but German interests also, in all questions interesting Germany. The re-establishment of a common Russo-German frontier and suppression of more or less camouflaged border States also are provided for, and Russia will even demand restitution to Germany of her colonies."

The French are inclined to believe that Germany's neutrality proclamation and her declaration that she would not allow allied troops to pass to Poland are part of this scheme.

While there is no positive proof here that such an accord has been signed and put into effect it is perfectly well known that Germany is fishing in troubled waters, and the French are determined to prevent her drawing any benefit. It is hourly expected that Germany will send a note declaring that, in view of the Red advance, it is impossible for her to live up to the disarmament agreement signed at Spa.

"Without doubt the Germans fear the Bolshevist peril and revolutionary contamination. But this fear is overshadowed by their enraged desire for revenge against the Allies. Besides, all Germans, without exception, wish to regain possession of Posnia and Upper Silesia. Therefore, they are ready to enter into any and all combinations with the Soviets which offer this chance.

"The Allies not having at their disposal sufficient effectives to halt the Bolsheviki in Poland, and the Danzig-Warsaw line being on the point of being cut, it is hard to see just what is to prevent German and Soviet co-operation. The Allies have only two effective means of preventing this co-operation, and they are their armies of occupation in the Rhineland and their fleet in German-Russian waters. Their duty is plain. They ought with redoubled vigilance watch the fulfillment of Germany's disarmament engagements. No more delays.

"Furthermore, the German Government should be notified that any co-operation, open or concealed, with the Soviet will be construed as action against the Entente and will be followed on land and sea by appropriate measures."

The Temps says that from the declaration of Foreign Minister Simons it is evident the German Government does not fear Bolshevism. It argues that all prohibitions upon exportations to Poland are aimed to aid the Russians, since Germany is not exporting to Russia. After reviewing the reported accords between Berlin and Moscow the Temps concludes that it looks suspiciously as if Germany were trying to use the Red success to break the Versailles Treaty.

"Here," it says, "is the policy of Germany toward the Soviets: The German Government does not fear for its country the danger of Bolshevism. It favors the Russian offensive. It hopes to use it to weaken or destroy Poland and to create by an alliance between Germany and Russia a new situation which will enable Germany to destroy the treaty of Versailles and wreak her revenge."

GERMANS OBSTRUCTED BEFORE

Halted Supplies Via Danzig Till British Fleet Appeared.

The only way that the Allies can directly aid Poland is over the railways used by the German Army on their drive beyond Warsaw in 1915, or by the corridor, leading through East Prussia south from Danzig. In the south the Carpathians divide Poland from Czechoslovakia, which, although sympathetic with the Polish cause, is itself hemmed in by Austria and Hungary.

Ever since the outlet to the sea was given to Poland the Germans, at first by force of arms and then by obstructions of all sorts, prevented supplies being transmitted through it until a British squadron anchored off Danzig and an allied armed mission occupied the city and established patrols along the railway.

Debates in the Assembly and then in the Reichstag during the last eighteen months have emphasized the fact that the Germans would permit no armed aid to be given to Poland without opposition. Trains in transit, containing food and medical supplies, were frequently held up and sidetracked, even when under escort, but without any obvious military plan to do so.

By the terms of the treaty of Versailles Germany was to have kept only 100,000 men under arms and to have abandoned conscription. At Spa she agreed to reduce her armed force to 200,000 by this Autumn and to the maximum allowed by the following February. Meanwhile, she is supposed to have an army in being or ready to mobilize of 300,000 to 600,000. Only a week ago Ludendorff, in a long statement, offered to take command of the army and defeat Russian Bolshevism. He then pointed out its dangers, not only to Germany, but to Western Europe, to the world.

This was not the first attempt of Ludendorff to get in touch with the Bolsheviki. When the Kapp rebellion broke out in Berlin in February, he had started with a staff for Moscow, his avowed intention being to negotiate for the return of 80,000 German prisoners of war, captured by the Russians before the revolution. It has been reported that fully 50 per cent. of the men he was intending to repatriate were fighting in the ranks of the Soviets. Apparently there is no doubt that the former German General Blücher has a high command in the army of Lenin and Trotsky.

A German mission was invited on July 8 to visit Moscow. It was organized with the consent of the Berlin Government, under the leadership of Felix Deutsch of the Allgemeine Electricitäs Gesellschaft, and included August Müller, one of the first Socialists in the Cabinet before the revolution; Herman Quessel, Majority Socialist, and Hollmann, an Agrarian politician, who is accompanied by a staff of experts. Hollmann and his experts are said to be former army officers.

SAYS TENANT SOVIET HAS SEIZED HOUSES

INTIMIDATION IS CHARGED

Affidavit Recites That Tenants Have Captain and Warn Applicants Away.

A tenants' Soviet has taken complete possession of a block of houses in Brownsville and is administering the property, choosing the tenants that are agreeable to the Soviet and ejecting those who do not find favor in their eyes, according to Max and Rose Guttes, owners of the houses at 851 and 853 Stone Avenue, Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Guttes obtained from Supreme Court Justice Squiers in Brooklyn yesterday an injunction to prevent the alleged work of destruction of the tenants in the Guttes houses and an order requiring the tenants to show cause on Aug. 9 why the injunction should not be continued.

In an affidavit submitted with their application for relief the Guttes declared that Soviets had taken complete control of the houses on Stone Avenue between New Lots Road and Lott Avenue and that block parties were a nightly occurrence, the tenants being harangued from soap boxes by agitators who denounced "the capitalist system."

Not only landlords but grocers and other tradesmen come in for a share of the abuse, the affidavit said, for during one of the celebrations a speaker urged that the "capitalists be strung up to telegraph poles."

Among the specific acts charged against their tenants by the Guttes was the hanging from the fire escapes of signs advertising a strike of tenants and other placards intimidating prospective tenants and threats to throw the newcomers' household goods on the streets following the ejection of the tenants themselves.

A milkman who had been blacklisted by the Soviet in the Guttes houses was attacked and driven away, the affidavit stated. Last month a prospective tenant called at one of the Guttes apartments and engaged it, the statement continued, but he met with such a hostile reception from the leaders of the Soviet that he fled in fear of his life.

According to the papers, the Soviet of tenants is ruled by a captain, who calls regular meetings, Meyer Fishbein and eleven others are named in the papers.

The trouble began several months ago when the owners of the houses obtained warrants of dispossess against the tenants on the ground that they were undesirable. Under the new rent laws a stay was granted until Sept. 15.

In an affidavit filed with the papers, William Baumann asserted that when he went to engage an apartment from Mr. Guttes he was surrounded by pickets and informed that he would be beaten and thrown out of the window if he took the apartment and that the storekeepers in the neighborhood would refuse to sell him food.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of Junius P. Wilson, a lawyer of 302 Broadway, to the post of counsel to the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering. Mr. Wilson has been associated with the work of the committee as advisory counsel for some time and takes the place of Leo Kenneth Mayer, who resigned several days ago.

MOSCOW-ARMENIA BREAK.

Peace Delegates Returning to Erivan, Constantinople Hears.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 4.—Relations between Moscow and the Armenian Government are at the breaking point. The proposed treaty between the two Governments has not been negotiated, and the Armenian delegation which was on its way to Moscow for the purpose of signing the treaty is understood to be returning to Erivan.

Foreign Minister Khatissian is quoted as declaring that "the Bolsheviki apparently are planning to walk over Armenia's dead body to join Mustapha Kemal."

GOMPERS ANSWERS HARDING

Collective Bargaining Essential to Industrial Peace, He Says.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—"Collective bargaining is the first essential to industrial understanding, agreement and peace," Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, said today, commenting on the declaration of Senator Harding at Marion yesterday that "industrial peace is America's first need."

President Gompers added that organized labor was ready to meet any political party or nominee more than half way in achieving permanent peace in industry. He declared that if "collective bargaining" was denied there would probably be a continuance of discordant unrest.

"Industrial peace can be obtained in this country, providing the right of workers to organize in trades unions and to be represented by persons of their own selection in all matters directly concerning them and their interests as wage earners is conceded," he stated. "The American Federation of Labor stands back of that and is ready to meet halfway any movement from without its membership to effect industrial peace along that line."

PHILIP A. LAING WON'T RUN.

Designee for Attorney General Says He Does Not Want Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Philip A. Laing, designated by the Democrats at Saratoga as their candidate for Attorney General, does not want the nomination and will not run, he said today. "The designation was made without my consent and against my wish," said Judge Laing.

Democratic leaders were tonight trying to persuade Judge Laing to change his attitude toward the nomination. It is said that his designation was decided upon at the suggestion of Governor Smith himself, and that the Erie County leaders did not consider the possibility that Justice Laing would refuse to run.

Justice Laing was appointed to the Supreme Court two years ago upon the death of Justice Herbert P. Bissel. A non-partisan movement to keep him upon the bench failed and a Republican was elected in his stead. Governor Smith then appointed him to fill the unexpired term of Justice Edward K. Emery, who died several months ago.

Justice Laing has been expected to seek re-election to the Supreme Court bench this Fall.

WOMAN TAKEN OFF LINER

Would-Be Stowaway Wanted to Continue Art Education in France.

After the Baltic Line steamship New Rochelle left her pier in Hoboken yesterday for Danzig the purser in checking up her passengers found in one of the cabins a well-dressed, good-looking young woman who, although she had a passport, had no ticket. Apparently she was endeavoring to stowaway on board. When the vessel was on the way down the upper bay the purser tried to persuade the unlisted passenger to go ashort in a tug, but she refused. The captain notified the police by wireless and soon after the New Rochelle reached Staten Island the new police boat John F. Hylan was racing after her.

The woman was taken off the vessel and brought back to Harbor A, at the Battery, where she was questioned by Inspector Halleck and William Greiner, the Marine Superintendent of the Baltic line. As attempting to stowaway is not an offense, she was not arrested. The police said the woman stated that she had been a student of art in New York, and had hoped to get to France to continue her studies there.

BLAMELESS, SAYS PARKER.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Aug. 5.—William C. Parker, who has been named the defendant in a $100,000 alienation suit begun by Charles B. Chisholm of 87 Beaumont Place, Newark, today denied the assertions concerning his alleged relationship with Mrs. Chisholm.

Mr. Parker said that his attorneys, Lum, Tamblyn & Collier of Newark, would file an answer to Chisholm's declarations. He denied that he was in any way instrumental in changing the relations between Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm. He refused to discuss the case further.

GORE STILL FAR BEHIND.

Ferris 24,680 Ahead for Oklahoma Senatorship.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 5.—Although late returns from Tuesday's primary cut down somewhat the early lead piled up by Representative Scott Ferris for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, the Representative still had a lead of 24,680 over Senator Thomas P. Gore, on a tabulation of unofficial returns from 2,115 of the 2,708 precincts of the State. The vote stood: Ferris, 94,278; Gore, 69,590.

In a signed statement issued at his headquarters Senator Gore declared he had "run a handicap race and lost" in the contest with Representative Ferris. The Senator said he would continue to work for the success of the Democratic Party.

Long Victor Over Reed's Man.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Unofficial returns of Tuesday's primary show continued gains for Breckinridge Long and Senator Selden P. Spencer, candidates, for the Democratic and Republican Senatorial nominations. With 2,600 precincts out of 4,488 heard from the totals are for the Democrats, Long 53,165 and Priest 37,465. Spencer has 70,596 and Davis 51,854. Long's election is conceded by Priest who had Senator Reed's backing.

ness wielding a broom and end up in an executive capacity with the faith and confidence of everybody in the concern. He was one of the most trusted and efficient officers of the firm.

"There is no one who had more of the respect of his associates in business than did Mr. Hellawell. His sudden death has overwhelmed me and I believe that we should try to find if that crossing at Binghamton is as dangerous as it has been represented in press dispatches.

"Mr. Hellawell has two brothers and he used to live in Brooklyn. I have known him for more than twenty years and have been very fond of him. It has been a great hardship for me ever since I received the first dispatch announcing his, his wife's and his child's death that I did not know more about him and his family. I have been trying for hours to make some connections with relatives, but have been unsuccessful.

"Mr. Hellawell was a splendid example of a most efficient employe, a most pleasant companion and an excellent executive. He had all those qualities that make one man in business admire and respect another."

Mr. Hellawell was Secretary and a Director of the American Sports Publishing Company.

FARMER-LABOR HEAD DENIES I. W. W. RULE

Christensen, Presidential Candidate, Replies to "Forty-eighter's" Charge.

Charging that the newly formed Farmer-Labor Party is a radical organization, Allen McCurdy, Secretary of the Committee of Forty-Eight, announced yesterday that the committee planned to sever all connections with it. This action came after George Crosby, Utah State Chairman, had accepted the resignations of State Vice Chairman H. A. McCollem and Charles A. Weaver, who declared that the Farmer-Laborites were controlled by the I. W. W.

Just before he left last night for Tennessee to urge the Legislature to ratify woman suffrage, Parley Parker Christensen, the party's candidate for President, issued a statement denying that the I. W. W. ran the party. He said the organization was made up simply of "everyday Americans." Incidentally, Mr. Christensen challenged Senator Harding and Governor Cox to go to Nashville and personally argue for passage of the suffrage amendment.

Middletown Mayor for Congress.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Ross Lynn M. Cox, Mayor of Middletown, N. Y., has been selected by the Democrats of the Twenty-sixth District to be the candidate for Congress. Miss Anna G. W. Dayley of this city had been prominently mentioned for the place, but she has withdrawn and it is stated that she is likely to receive the designation as candidate for State Senator to oppose James M. Towner of Putnam, the Republican incumbent.

severely wounded in this rioting. According to bystanders, the shot was fired from the car, and accidentally struck the policeman, who was attempting to disperse the crowd.

At 8:45 another riot broke out at Colfax Avenue and Logan Street, where three cars had been held pending clearing of the downtown streets. Meanwhile a mob was storming the east side car barns, and another completely destroyed two cars at Fortieth and High Streets.

MOB SEIZES TOWN, THREATENS FOREIGNERS

Special to The New York Times.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 5.—This town is in the hands of a mob of between 3,000 and 4,000 persons, following the finding yesterday of the bodies of two murdered boys.

The mob, which had been forming in every section of the town all day, has taken charge of the telegraph and telephone wires and has disarmed the police.

Tonight a photographer from Valier, Ill., attempted to take a picture of the mob. He was knocked down, his camera smashed and he was trampled to death, according to a report by telephone. Two other men are reported killed in affrays.

At a late hour tonight the mob began setting afire houses at Frankfort Heights, occupied by foreigners.

It is reported also that armed men in large numbers are arriving in town in automobiles.

Mayor Fox, all of the city policemen and the Sicilian population have received twenty-four hours' notice to leave town or suffer the consequences.

Forty persons injured by the mob have been removed to the hospital here, and some of the injured have been taken to Marion, several miles away. Four of those hurt are not expected to survive. They were beaten with clubs and struck with stones.

Shots were fired by members of the mob in all parts of the town during the day, but no one was reported to have been hit by a bullet.

State's Attorney Roy Martin of Franklin County implored the mob to disperse, but without success.

"We have decided to drive every foreigner out of this section of the country," some one in the mob, presumably the leader, called out. "If they don't leave peacefully they will be driven out."

During the day places of business were closed and the clerks and managers joined the mob.

The mutilated bodies of Amel Calcaterra, 14 years old, and Tony Hemphill, 20, with bullet wounds in their heads and their throats cut from ear to ear, were found buried in woods on the northern boundary of Williamson County yesterday afternoon by a hunter.

Governor Lowden ordered five companies of the 9th Infantry to proceed at once to West Frankfort under command of Major Wilbur E. Satterfield of Mount Vernon.

The youths were heard to say recently that they knew important facts about the series of crimes which netted a band of robbers more than $325,000 late in 1919. Authorities in the coal regions here and about Marion think the boys were slain to silence them.

Members of the families of the two youths assert that warnings had been received that harm would befall the youths if they persisted in talking about the robberies. The families thought the threats related to kidnapping and disregarded them.

Settine de Seanis, a Sicilian, arrested Wednesday night in connection with the kidnapping and murder, was taken to Marion last night and placed in the county jail. An hour later a mob of 150 persons in automobiles arrived from West Frankfort. Before they came the prisoner was taken from the jail and spirited to a town near the Indiana line.

Two other men were arrested this afternoon in connection with the crime. They were taken to the jail. As soon as the mob learned of the arrests they surged to the jail and demanded the prisoners. This was refused. The leaders of the mob then demanded that a committee, picked from their number, be allowed to talk with the prisoners. This was granted by the jailer.

One of the prisoners, a chauffeur, told of driving the two boys from West Frankfort to Royalton Monday in company with Settine de Seanis. He said that he did not know the boys had been kidnapped or for what purpose they were being taken to Royalton. The other prisoner is said to have had knowledge of the crime.

When the committee returned to report to the mob, the two prisoners were spirited out of the rear door, placed in an automobile, and rushed out of town. It is believed that they also were taken to the Indiana line.

Foreigners are leaving West Frankfort and Marion by every road. Many of them are taking such household goods as they can carry.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 5.—Governor Frank O. Lowden at 10:30 o'clock tonight received a call from West Frankfort for troops. The message was from Mayor Lon Fox of West Frankfort and Sheriff Robert Watkins of Franklin County and read:

"Race riot here. Italian people are being assaulted and their property destroyed. The situation is out of control of the city and county officials. Troops are needed at once."

Roast Veal At $1.50 a Pound

When you are run down the first thing your friends say is, Why don't you drink plenty of milk?

Why don't you?

OF course when you buy roasting veal you only pay, say, 35 cents for a pound. You discard 25% in the bone and other waste tissue. What you have left contains 70% water, giving you a net of 22½% of solid food, for which you paid at the rate of $1.50 per pound. If you want veal that's what you pay. But if you want nourishment, strength, vigor, health, you can buy three times the solid food for that $1.50 if you invest it in Sheffield Milk at any of the 190 Sheffield stores.

As for the children, no other food, no matter what the price, gives them the same body building materials that you get in milk. Children could not live on meats, which are one-sided foods. They thrive on milk.

sheviki, who are virtually at the gates of Warsaw, Poland's capital.

Although but vague and somewhat contradictory reports have reached Paris today, it is regarded here tonight that the Poles still have a chance of stopping the Red drive and limiting the extent of the disaster. They apparently have not altogether abandoned the line of the Bug River. The Brest-Litovsk forts at last accounts were still in the possession of the Poles, and denial is made that the Bolsheviki have reached Ostrolenka. The Polish Staff even has been able to launch two counteroffensives, in the north in the region of Lomza and in the extreme south in Galicia.

Another factor held by military observers to favor the Poles is that in view of the imperfect transport of the Bolsheviki their rate of progress necessarily must decrease as the length of their line of communication increases.

The Allies have not yet, as far as is known, decided on what course to pursue in the Polish situation, but exchanges of views were going on all day today between the Paris and London Governments.

An official statement issued in the Polish capital last night and received here this morning says:

"South of the Bug River from Drohiozyn as far as Brest-Litovsk heavy fighting is going on.

"In the region of Janow, northwest of Mlawa, our troops attacked Bolshevist groups which had succeeded in crossing to the south bank of the river, and the struggle against enemy cavalry continues. A detachment of General Lucznaki's forces defeated the 18th Soviet division, which had crossed the Narew near Drozdow, taking 500 prisoners, 6 cannon and 400 railroad cars. Heavy fighting continues between the Narew and Bug Rivers along the line through Sambrov, Jablonki and Ciechanowiec. Near the latter town, which is northwest of Siedlce, the first division of Lithuanian and Ruthenian troops took 200 prisoners, 8 machine guns and the wagon train of an infantry regiment in a violent counter attack.

"In the region of Brody, northeast of Lemberg, aviators report the enemy is retreating and being pursued by our troops. Along the Sereth River sector Polish troops have taken important booty. Further south, near Mikiicze, our troops are heavily engaged with the enemy, who is trying to advance westward at any cost."

The Bourse closed this morning in near panic when the Polish mark showed a big decline. The dollar unofficially was quoted at from 250 to 260 marks, and the franc at 20 marks. It was not announced how long the Bourse would remain closed.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Closer approach of the Soviet armies to Warsaw is reported in Wednesday's Russian official statement, received here from Moscow today. The occupation of Lomza and of points on the Warsaw-Bialystok railroad and its neighborhood within sixty miles of Warsaw is reported, as are further advances by the Bolsheviki southeast of the Polish capital. The statement reads:

"On Wednesday we occupied Lomza, Mazovietskie and also Shepetovo Station and a number of points further westward.

"After fierce fighting we occupied Telechanovicts, eighty-eight miles southwest of Grodno, and advanced toward the Bug and the mouth of the River Nurets. In the direction of Siedlce we have broken the enemy's fierce resistance. In the Tarnapol and Chertkoff regions we are driving back the Poles to the River Stripa."

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—Fighting is now going on virtually on the plains before Warsaw, says the Tageblatt's special East Prussian frontier correspondent. If the Red Army succeeds in breaking through the Chorzelle-Puitusk line, he adds, it will have arrived before the forts of Warsaw.

Chorzelle is about seventy miles north of Warsaw, while Pultusk lies about thirty-five miles north of the

HARDING DEMANDS NO FOREIGN RULE

AIDED CUBA 'FOR HUMANITY'

But This Country's Defense of Its Own Rights Was the True and Just Cause, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 5.—A plea that America reserve to itself the decision when its sons shall be called to fight, and a further suggestion that it was for its own rights that this country had waged in Cuba the world's "first war for humanity," were among the themes drawn from both the Spanish-American and World Wars by Senator Harding today in an extemporaneous address to members of the 4th Ohio Infantry Association, composed of veterans of '61, '98 and 1917.

Senator Harding declared at one point that the United States, in the Spanish-American crisis, "would not have made war for humanity's sake if treachery had not blown up the battleship Maine."

He had been criticised, he remarked later, for what he said about America's part in the World War, "though I believe we have played our part in upholding democracy throughout the world," he added. "The simple, honest truth is, we did not go to war until American rights had been violated, and then we went to war to defend American rights."

The veterans cheered the Senator's words vigorously, and he was interrupted by more cheers when he said:

"I do not want a council of foreign powers at any time, for any reason, to summon the sons of America to battle."

"We do not need any one to tell us what our obligations are," Senator Harding went on. "In the Philippines we did more for human progress and human development in twenty years than had been accomplished in 300 years before."

No speech was scheduled for Senator Harding when he motored to Lincoln Park to meet the veterans and their families, who had come to Marion for their annual reunion. When he reached the platform, however, the Senator was called upon for a speech.

In delivering his first extemporaneous utterance of any length since his nomination at Chicago, Senator Harding said in part:

"If any of you ever have the fortune to run for office, you will discover that sometimes you are taken by surprise. But I am not going to find fault with anybody. I was very greatly honored to have an invitation to come and join you for a little while; but the honest truth is, it was said I could have the pleasure of meeting you and the added pleasure of having no speech to make.

"Nevertheless, I am glad to stand before you for a few moments and offer tribute for the service you have rendered our common country.

Sees Sections United by Former Wars.

"I remember when the 4th Ohio went out in the war with Spain, and I have never yet been able to describe the emotions in my breast the day the boys from Marion marched away.

"I remember also when the Maine was sunk. Shortly thereafter I was returning to the North and stopped in the City of Atlanta, and in the show window of one of the shops of that city was a picture of the reunited North and South, eager to defend the flag.

"And I like," the Senator continued, "to recall from that incident that the Spanish-American War did one thing for this country that could never have been done by any other process. It healed the gaping wounds that remained from the civil war and put an end to old-time sectionalism in the United States and really left us one country, one people, one flag.

"I have always liked to believe that the sons of America who went to the relief of stricken Cuba fought the first war for humanity in the world.

"We have heard a good deal in the last several months about war for humanity's sake, but I know, as you do, that never before had this Republic found itself so much impelled by desire to relieve suffering humanity as you relieved it in that short conflict.

"It was not such a war as that which saved our Union, nor was it comparable to the World War—the supreme tragedy of all civilization—yet I may say to you veterans here that the service you rendered was no less patriotic than that of any of the greatest wars.

Says We Had Cause to Aid Cuba.

"There is a curious contradiction in the Spanish-American War. We would not have made war for humanity's sake if treachery had not blown up the battleship Maine. That was the incident which set America aflame. The great impelling spirit was the defense of America and American rights. We had the right to send a friendly battleship to Havana.

"America was right to go to the defense of the stricken people of Cuba, and I tell you men that that is the spirit that will always save the United States of America.

"I know I have been criticised for what I have said about our part in the World War. Though I believe we have played our part in upholding democracy throughout the world, the simple, honest truth is we did not go to war until American rights had been violated, and then we went to war to defend American rights.

"If you will only keep that in mind we can know that more than 100,000,000 people will give their all, all of treasure, all of soul, all of life, to defend this great Republic.

Cites His Vote for Ex-Soldier.

"I glory in the part the sons of America played in the Spanish-American war. May I stop to say that I glory in the part I played in voting to prove the gratitude of this nation for its sons who fought in the war with Spain?

"I think America must always be grateful to the men who left their firesides and families to go out to make the supreme sacrifice. Let it not be said that ours is an ungrateful Republic. We are 140 years old. The story of the development of America is the story of the development of American conscience and maintained American patriotism.

"I want to hold the American conscience strictly and solely American. I want America to play its part in the world. I do not want a council of foreign powers at any time, for any reason, to summon the sons of America to battle. We do not need any one to tell us what our obligations are. In the Philippines we did more for human progress and human development in twenty years than had been accomplished in 300 years before.

Chinese Boxer Case Recalled.

"While our men were in the Philippines, the Boxer uprising started in China, and we joined the powers in suppressing it. To all the powers that participated were awarded indemnities, which China must pay. We received our indemnity—and then returned it to China, besides paying all expenses of our part in putting down the rebellion. For that we earned the gratitude and confidence of China, which we have ever held since.

"Let us maintain the Republic as independent, free, self-reliant America, unafraid of enemies without, determined to stamp out enemies within, and go forward serving America and humanity."

Ohio papers this morning printed dispatches from Columbus to the effect that union organizers are to be sent into Marion in the effort to break the open-shop and to "put it up to Harding" as to where he stands on the question of organized labor. Marion has a number of large steam shovel plants, steel mills, motor engine works, and agricultural machinery plants, and virtually all of them are operated on the open-shop basis.

One of the few union establishments in the city is Senator Harding's paper, The Marion Daily Star.

Elmer E. Blazer, Secretary of Marion Typographical Union No. 675, in commenting on the Columbus dispatches, said that apparently the suggestion of stirring up the labor situation in Marion came from sources that expected to produce something embarrassing for Harding.

Employe Says Harding Helped Labor.

"If they knew about the Senator's consistent attitude toward union labor ever since he has been in business, and long before he was in politics, his enemies would avoid stirring up this issue," Blazer declared.

"Mr. Harding early in the war," he added, "gave orders that the office management was at all times to make wages keep pace with the advancing cost of living. There have been six or seven increases in wages since then, every one of them without friction or difficulty. The result is that today the employes are receiving from $728 to $884 per annum above the union scale, according to their line of employment."

J. G. BLAINE, JR., NAMED EASTERN TREASURER

Grandson of Former Candidate to Manage Finances Here of Harding's Campaign.

Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican Presidential candidate, will not abandon the so-called "front porch" method of campaign originally laid down for him by the Republican leaders, it was decided yesterday at a conference of these leaders with National Chairman Will H. Hays at the headquarters of the Republican National Committee. At the same time, it is expected that he will make several speeches in some of the large cities.

"Since Senator Harding announced at the time of his nomination that he would make his fight a 'home campaign,' neither Chairman Hays nor any other officials of the national organization has tried to influence his decision," said one of the Harding managers. "It is understood, however, that this determination does not preclude the possibility, or even the likelihood, of Senator Harding making speeches in some of the large cities. He has been repeatedly urged to do this, but the decision that there will be no 'barnstorming' and no 'swing around the circle' has not been changed."

At yesterday's conference at the National Committee headquarters there were present, besides Chairman Hays, Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, Senator Harding's campaign manager; Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman for New York and member of the Executive Committee; National Treasurer Fred W. Upham of Chicago, former Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, member of the Women's Committee of the National Committee.

Another decision arrived at was the appointment of James G. Blaine, Jr., of Providence, R. I., as Eastern Treasurer of the National Committee. It was announced that Mr. Blaine would immediately assume charge of the New York office. For more than a month there has been speculation at Republican headquarters here regarding the probable selection for the post. Several prominent Republicans were mentioned as possibilities, but the selection had been left to National Treasurer Upham and his choice was Mr. Blaine.

Mr. Blaine is the grandson of the Republican candidate for President, James G. Blaine of Maine, who opposed Grover Cleveland in the 1884 election. He is the son of James G. Blaine who served with the American Red Cross in France during the war. He is Vice President of the Liberty National Bank of this city and served during the war as director of the Department of Development of the American Red Cross, having charge of virtually all the activities of the Red Cross in this country, with headquarters in Washington. Mr. Blaine graduated from Harvard in 1911 and has been active in Rhode Island Republican State politics. He served two terms as a member of the Providence City Council.

Mrs. Livermore, one of the seven women members of the Republican National Executive Committee, yesterday announced her plans for action as regional director of women's activities for the Eastern Division, including the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

As Chairman of the Women's Division of the State Mrs. Livermore has New York women well organized as a result of holding campaign schools in all counties. At present a flying squadron, including the Chairman of Women's Activities and an organizer, is touring the counties in Maine, organizing women for the primaries next week. Both Rhode Island and Massachusetts women are also well organized, Mrs. Livermore said.

A straw vote taken Wednesday night of the night class on finance of the College of the City of New York, it was announced, resulted as follows: Harding, 25; Cox, 15; Christenson, 4; Debs, 2.

8,000 HEAR MRS. BASS SPEAKING FOR LEAGUE

Special to The New York Times.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—What was regarded as the opening gun in the women's national campaign in behalf of the Democratic Party and ticket was fired at Chautauqua this afternoon. Mrs. George Bass, Chairman of the woman's division of the Democratic National Committee, was the principal speaker.

Outlining the work of the woman's division, Mrs. Bass proceeded with a vigorous discussion of the Democratic national platform, reviewed in brief the Wilson Administration, discussed at some length the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty, as negotiated by the President, and told of the work of Governor Cox in the State of Ohio.

Mrs. Bass left no doubt in the minds of her hearers that, so far as she and the women she represented were concerned, the League of Nations was the vital issue in the campaign. She regarded it as a movement to relieve the world of war and secure arbitration of international problems in place of an appeal to arms.

Speaking of the enfranchisement of women and the influence for good that it would have upon the Government, she said it was an appeal for justice rather than party, an appeal for the establishment not only of equality between the sexes, but equality of opportunity for all.

She paid a high tribute to the character of Governor Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt and criticised the speech of acceptance of Senator Harding as avoiding the great national issues of the campaign, "a speech 'of platitudes rather than principles or promises," she declared.

The address was heard by an audience that filled the big amphitheatre, with a seating capacity of 8,000.

LONGWORTH TO STUMP IN MAINE CAMPAIGN

H. L. Wilson, Foss and Shaw Also Among the Republican Speakers Going There.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Plans for the Republican campaign in Maine, where the general elections are to be held this year on Sept. 13, were laid today at Republican national headquarters in Chicago.

Four speakers from the Western bureau here will be among those sent into Maine to speak for Harding and Coolidge. They are Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, Henry Lane Wilson of Indiana, former Ambassador to Mexico; George E. Foss of Illinois, former member of Congress, and Leslie M. Shaw, ex-Secretary of the Treasury.

The Maine election, occurring nearly two months in advance of the balloting in the rest of the country, always is watched with interest by politicians as indicating the trend of sentiment.

HARDING RESUMES HELP TO SUFFRAGE

APPEALS TO STATE LEADERS

Cox Considers Visit to Discuss Matter at First Hand with Members of Legislature.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Further influence for ratification of the woman suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature was exerted today by Senator Harding in telegrams to Republican and suffrage leaders at Nashville.

To Senator John C. Houk, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, the nominee wired as follows:

"With the approach of a decision by the General Assembly of Tennessee on the matter of ratifying the suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution, I would like to be advised as to poll of Republican members. I cling to the belief that the Tennessee Republicans are in a position to serve both party and country by effecting ratification. Will welcome advice as to whether I can aid in securing this act of justice to the women citizenship of our nation."

He also sent a telegram of encouragement to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, in response to a joint appeal for help from her and Mrs. George Fort Milton, President of the Tennessee League of Women Voters. The message to Mrs. Catt follows:

"Your telegram received. No discouragement is voiced from here. On the contrary, we are continuing to encourage the Republicans of the Tennessee General Assembly to join cordially in the effort to consummate ratification."

It was said at Harding headquarters that today's telegrams to Tennessee were sent after the Republican National Committee headquarters had made a canvass of the suffrage situation at Nashville and had reported in detail to Senator Harding.

Previously the nominee had refused to take direct action in the absence of definite word regarding the basis of the opposition among Tennessee legislators. He made public today the following telegram sent to the Harding and Coolidge Club at Washington, D. C., in response to an appeal for help before the National Committee's data had been completed:

"You can understand why I cannot consistently urge Tennessee legislators to vote for ratification without knowing their reasons for such commitals as they may have made. The situation is being reported to national headquarters, where it will be given attention at once."

Women Say Harding Changes Tactics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Information sent from Marion to the headquarters of the National Woman's Party today indicated that Senator Harding had altered his tactics and had decided to take a more active part in the fight for suffrage ratification in Tennessee.

Yesterday the National Woman's Party exhibited a telegram from Senator Harding in which he said he "could not consistently urge Tennessee legislators to vote for ratification without knowing their reasons for such commitment as they have made." Today, however, the National Woman's Party announced that following an interview in Marion, with Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political chairman of the woman's party, the Senator "began to take an active part in the suffrage fight in Tennessee."

In addition to a telegram to State Senator Houk of Tennessee Senator Harding told Mrs. Baker, so the suffragists say, that he would wire Congressman Sells and Congressman Taylor asking them to do everything possible to aid ratification in their districts. He also stated that he would wire his personal representative in Tennessee and secure a poll of the Republican members of the Legislature. He further agreed to wire the Republican candidate for Governor, Jesse Littleton, urging him to help in securing a solid Republican vote.

State Senator Patton, a Republican, who lead the fight for the Presidential Suffrage bill in Tennessee, has written all Republicans in the Legislature, stating that the situation is serious and urging them to do everything they can to win a large Republican vote for the amendment.

The Republicans have further secured an opinion from Judge T. Ansberry Wright of Knoxville, upholding the legality of ratification by the present Legislature, which they have sent to all Republicans in the Legislature in an effort to overcome any hesitancy on their part because of the constitutional question involved.

Cox Considers Visiting Tennessee.

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 5.—The suffrage situation was again to the forefront today in the Cox headquarters, and there was more talk of the wisdom of Governor Cox making a trip to Tennessee and discussing the matter at first hand with the members of the State Legislature. Governor Cox said today that no plans had been made, but he reiterated that "anything is possible," and would not deny that a trip to the Tennessee State capital was in his mind. He discussed the line-up with Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political director of the National Woman's Party, and admitted that while things looked gloomy they were not hopeless. He said that no definite call had been issued for a special meeting of the Tennessee Legislature on Aug. 9 as yet, but that there was a chance of ratifying the amendment.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5.—The Tennessee Constitutional League, with a Board of Directors consisting of three Democrats and three Republicans, sent requests today to Governor Cox and Senator Harding that political pressure on the Tennessee Legislature be removed.

The letter to Governor Cox was written by Judge Joseph C. Higgins, former member of the Court of Civil Appeals, and that to Senator Harding by Judge G. N. Tillman, who, in 1896, polled the highest vote ever given a Republican candidate for Governor of Tennessee.

TENNESSEE TOTALS SCANTY

Results Not Indicated on Choice of Legislators.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5.—Incomplete returns from sixteen counties tabulated tonight show Governor Roberts to have a lead of about 5,000 votes over W. R. Crabtree for the Democratic nomination for Governor in today's State-wide primary.

Few returns have been received on elections to fill thirteen vacancies in the Legislature. Much interests is being taken in the outcome of these elections, as suffrage and anti-suffrage leaders had stated that on the elections depends the result of the fight to be launched at a special session of the Legislature next week to obtain ratification of the Federal Suffrage amendment.

Want Legislators of Business Type.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 5.—The New York State Association of Retail Grocers, at the final session of its convention here today, adopted a resolution urging the election of the business type of men to legislative office wherever possible. The resolution sets forth "that it is quite apparent that many of the problems under which this nation is suffering are due principally to the fact that so many of our legislators and officials are professional men."

HAYS TO MEET SUFFRAGISTS

Connecticut Women Will Question Him on Aid for Ratification.

HARTFORD, Aug. 5.—Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has consented to meet a deputation of the Connecticut Woman Suffrage Association in New York on Saturday morning, it was announced here today. Miss Katherine Ludington, President of the association, will be spokesman for the delegation, which will ask Mr. Hays what is being done by the National Committee to secure ratification of the suffrage amendment by the thirty-sixth State.

Among those who will make the trip to New York are Miss Ludington, Mrs. William H. Deming and Mrs. Ruth McIntyre Dadourian of this city, Mrs. A. F. Taylor of Norwich, Miss Edna Tyler of New London, Mrs. William B. Couch of Cromwell, Mrs. Willis Austin of Norwich, Miss Fannie D. Welch of Columbia, Miss Mary Olcott, Mrs. W. H. Allee and Mrs. James Stokes of Ridgefield and Miss Rosamond Danielson of Putnam.

BRIEF TRIP FOR HARDING.

A Speech Here, One in Chicago and One in Denver Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—One speech in New York, probably another in Chicago, and possibly a third at Denver or some other Western city, is expected to be the extent of Senator Warren G. Harding's speaking engagements away from home, as outlined today by Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, Chairman of the Republican Speakers Committee.

Senator New, following an all-day conference with his aids, declared there is no possibility of Senator Harding abandoning his front porch campaign for a "barn storming" special car end speaking trip.

Despite repeated declarations that Senator Harding would confine his speaking largely to visiting delegations at Marion, invitations continue to pour in, Senator New said. One clerk constantly is occupied answering letters inviting the Senator to address fairs, societies, and various organizations.

INDORSE CHRISTENSEN.

Rank and File Veterans Also Blacklist 260 Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Notice was given tonight by the Rank and File Veterans' Association, a national organization of service men, with headquarters here, that it had indorsed Parley P. Christensen and Max Hayes, Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates, respectively, of the Farmer-Labor Party, for election this Fall.

The association also gave out a list of 59 Senators and 201 Representatives in Congress with injunction to members and others "to see that they are defeated."

End as the guests of Governor Cox and Mrs. Cox. The Governor and his wife will entertain the members of the official Notification Committee at a buffet luncheon at Trail's End at noon on Saturday, after which the party will drive to the Fair Grounds for the notification ceremony.

The Governor said that the expected visit of President Wilson's Secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, on Saturday, was without political significance. In addition to the courtesy of the visit, he said that he had known Mr. Tumulty for many years and was glad that he was coming.

The Meteor Band of Piqua, which made a big reputation on the San Francisco trip, will lead the parade on that day, followed by the "Cox boosters" in the uniforms they wore on the Western pilgrimage. The banners used by the delegation at San Francisco will have a place of honor at the head of the parade.

Civil War veterans from the Soldiers' Home will be honored with a place in the first division. The second division will be composed of delegations from Butler County, the Governor's home county.

Marion County, which is expected to have 1,000 in line, will lead the third division. This will be composed of delegations from counties in the Eighth Congress District.

Accuse Cox Boosters at Marion.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 5.—According to Probate Judge William S. Spencer, of Marion County, arrangements have been made for at least 600 Democrats of the county to go to Dayton Saturday for Governor Cox's notification ceremonies. In this connection the following statement was issued today from the Harding headquarters:

"The Democrats are endeavoring to make a showing from Marion at the notification ceremonies to Governor Cox at Dayton on Saturday. For some time they have had a representative here working up a delegation, and they expect to have in line at Dayton 2,000 men from Marion.'

"Papers in nearby towns, such as Bucyrus, Galion, Upper Sandusky, Delaware and others, announce efforts are being made to recruit the Marion delegation from these neighborhoods, some of the papers reporting the number of men secured to march under the Marion banner.

"Free tickets and expenses have been freely offered to swell their number. The entire movement is characteristic of machine politics and is in strong contrast to the volunteer delegations that came to Marion on July 22 for the notification to Senator Harding.

"Banners and placards have already been prepared, among which is one as follows:

The bosses opposed the railroad administration — the railroad men of Marion will see that they don't railroad the election.

"Another is:

We are for Marion, also for Jimmy Cox.

"And another:

Marion Democrats are for Jimmy without reservations.

"It is expected to stage this demonstration when the recruits arrive at Dayton Saturday morning for pictures by movie machines."

CHAINED TO ANOTHER HE LEAPS PALISADES

FALLS 100 FEET AND FLEES

Patrolmen Later Search Base of Cliff, Where Fugitive, Torn and Bleeding, Is Recaptured.

Policeman Stegman of Jersey City last night snapped a pair of handcuffs on Natal Fabus, 29 years old, of 58 Fourteenth Street, Hoboken, near the plant of a chocolate company close to the Palisades, and started to walk with him along a sidewalk on the edge of the cliff to a police box.

Fabus gave a sudden leap to the wall which runs along the top of the Palisades. Before the policeman could stop him the prisoner had thrown himself over this parapet and was dangling over a 100-foot drop down the cliffside. Stegman was dragged against the wall, but braced himself with his legs and body, while the arm which was linked to the prisoner was being scraped and sawed along the edge of the stone parapet by the struggling prisoner, who was now trying with his free hand and his feet to get a purchase on the stone wall and save himself.

Working himself into a position where he could use his strength, Policeman Stegman sought to haul his prisoner over to the safe side of the wall. For two or three minutes it was dubious on which side of the wall the two were going to land, when, suddenly, the steel chain of the handcuffs snapped under the strain, and Fabus shot downward.

Prisoner Escapes His Grasp.

Stegman sought with his unhandcuffed hand to clutch the prisoner, but before his fingers could close the men had landed on a shelf of rock sloping outward twenty feet below. By the arc of the Palisades the policeman saw Fabus roll over the shelf, grabbing wildly with both hands.

Ten feet lower Fabus landed on a boulder, snatched vainly at its smooth surface, and dropped on a projecting tuft of grass and earth, which he seized with both hands. It instantly detached itself from the cliffside and started to fall with him. Policeman Stegman shut his eyes as he saw the man vanish in a small landslide, and fired into the air three times to summon other policemen. When they arrived he asked them to go with him to the base of the Palisades for a dead man.

They found a mass of dirt and small stones extending fanwise from the bottom of the cliff, which was scored by vertical lines where the falling body had struck the outstanding features of the face of the Palisades. There was some blood and shreds of clothing, but no body. The policemen thought at first that the man had been buried under the small avalanche or cut to pieces in his downward flight on the sharp rocks.

Limping Fugitive Caught.

But they soon were convinced otherwise. They discovered footprints leading away from the spot where the man had fallen. They scattered among the railroad tracks running along the base of the Palisades. Policemen Romano and Maloney noticed a limping figure behind some box cars. As they ran toward it the man hobbled painfully in an effort to escape, but surrendered at once when the policemen shouted for him to halt.

They found the man covered with blood and dirt, with most of his clothing scraped from his body, his arms and his legs. His face, hands and scalp were lacerated and he had been badly bruised from head to foot. He was placed under arrest and carried away in an ambulance.

URGES FARMERS TO UNITE.

Senator Wadsworth Would Make Agriculture a Great Organized Trade

ROCHESTER, Aug. 5.—Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., speaking to his farmer neighbors at the Pioneers' Picnic at Silver Lake today, advocated the organization of the agricultural interests of the country in such a manner as to make agriculture one of the great organized businesses of the world and to recover the balance between urban and rural population.

Senator Wadsworth said that by restoring to the farmers a sense of security the Government "would do more for the people of the United States than all the international contracts you can write until doomsday." He urged State and Federal aid to give farm dwellers educational and entertainment facilities equal to those which city residents enjoy in order to stop the flow of rural population into the cities.

QUAKING CUSTARD

Shakespeare mentions a strange custom of the time of Charles I. of England.

This was to have a huge, quaking custard on the table, into which the City Fool suddenly leaped.

Of course, the astonished feasters were instantly bespattered, much to their discomfort.

CIDER MAKERS ASK RULING

Would Sell Beverage Containing More Than Half of One Per Cent. Alcohol—Decision Reserved.

Samuel Wilson, Assistant Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, yesterday estimated that liquor consumption in the United States has been reduced from nine gallons per capita per year to "one smell per capita per day."

Wilson's thought on the per capita reduction theory was inspired by the announcement of John S. Kramer, National Prohibition Commissioner, that 15,000,000 gallons of spirits had been withdrawn from bond during the first six months of 1920. Here is the way Mr. Wilson arrived at his figures:

During the first six months of 1917, which was the last normal period of pre-prohibition days, the consumption of whisky was 80,000,000 gallons; of beer 932,000,000 gallons and of wine 21,000,000 gallons, making a total of 1,033,000,000 gallons or nine gallons per capita.

The consumption of beer and wine has fallen almost to zero. The amount of spirits consumed in the first six months of 1917 was 7.4 pints per capita, but the ratio dropped to a fraction of one pint per capita. Under the Volstead act physicians are restricted to issuing certificates for one pint of liquor every ten days.

"The figures given by Mr. Kramer show," said Mr. Wilson, "that, reduced to a matter of every day consumption, the people of the United States have imbibed the enormous quantity of .003 pints of spirits per capita each day. This fraction is too small to measure, so let us say it amounts to fractionally one smell per capita per day. There is not much doubt that Uncle Sam cannot get a very heavy jag on that quantity of liquor."

Mr. Wilson's analysis did not include New Jersey, which, he said, has "more than its share of liquor."

Judge Augustus N. Hand, in the Federal District Court, yesterday was asked by the Hildick Apple Juice Company and Duffy Mott Company, makers and dealers in sweet cider, to pass on the question of whether the plaintiffs' product, which has more than one-half of 1 per cent. "kick," comes within the purview of the provisions of the national prohibition law.

Licenses having been refused manufacturers of preserved sweet cider which contains more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol, Abraham S. Gilbert recently applied to the Federal Court for an order directing the prohibition officials not to interfere with the business of his clients.

Alfred D. Van Buren, counsel for the National Prohibition Commissioner, opposed the granting of such an order, and told Judge Hand the case was the most important that has come before the court with the idea of upsetting the Volstead act.

"If cider manufacturers are allowed to make and dispose of apple juice containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol," Mr. Van Buren said, "they can then produce cider containing such a 'kick' as to nullify the Volstead act, which, however, does not prevent farmers from making cider with a high percentage of alcohol for home use."

Urging Judge Hand to grant the order and allow his clients to make use of the Fall apple crop, Mr. Gilbert explained that benzoate of soda was added by manufacturers to apple juice so as to stay fermentation. Judge Hand reserved decision.

Prohibition Enforcement Agents Robert Connolly and John Davis arrested Nicola Brunso, a delicatessen store keeper, in his place of business, at Greenport, L. I., and took him to Brooklyn on a charge of violating the Volstead Act in selling wine. He was held in $500 bail for further examination. The officers said that when they arrived at Greenport late Wednesday night they could find no place to sleep and were assigned cells by the town watchman in the village jail.

BARS POLICE "DRY" RAIDS.

Maryland Attorney General Calls Arrests in Baltimore Illegal.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5.—Attorney General Armstrong has ruled that the police of Baltimore City do not possess the power to make arrests for violations of the Volstead act.

Some weeks ago, in response to an inquiry from the Police Commission, Mr. Armstrong held that the police were "under no compulsion" to assist in enforcement of prohibition. Now he has gone further, having informed Commissioner Gaither today that they "cannot legally make arrests" for liquor violations.

The Attorney General holds that "the police of Baltimore City do not at this time, by virtue of their official position, possess the power to make legal arrests for violations of the Volstead act, or validly to execute Federal processes issued by virtue of its provisions."

TEN ALLEGED I. W. W.'S TAKEN NEAR SPOKANE

Police Assert Raid Is Beginning of Campaign to Arrest All Members in Next Four Days.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 5.—Ten men, said to be delegates from Industrial Workers of the World locals of Washington, Idaho and Oregon, were arrested by county, Federal and city officers who dispersed a gathering of alleged members of the organization at a point seven miles northeast of this city today. They were placed in the county jail here.

The police who conducted the arrests declared that the action is the "beginning of a wholesale campaign to arrest members of the I. W. W. here during the next three or four days."

The men were congregated near the highway, in a shallow gully behind a large signboard. They were seated in a ring on the ground and offered no resistance to arrest. Police were left on guard to arrest any other members who might appear later.

Under a court injunction members of the I. W. W. are prohibited from meeting in this county.

A "Thank-You" Sometimes Brightens a Whole Day

Not a day passes that letters from a distance, and callers in person, do not give us cheer for our courageous performances in May and June.

At one of the political conventions, a delegate tells us, there was a large representation of colored delegates, who sat silent for two days waiting leadership.

A prominent white man said to a bright colored man:

"What are you waiting for?"

"I 'spose de major is waitin' fer der zoological moment," meaning the psychological moment.

That the dates of our patriotic movement were well chosen as the psychological moment has been generally accepted everywhere.

If the date had been submitted to the manufacturers and retailers, they would have kept up discussion upon it until 1921.

Somebody had to take the responsibility and act, and that's what we have tried to do for a lifetime.

The result is not unanimous, but it has been wholesome. You can now buy many things without advances that were planned, and you can buy shoes, clothing and many articles used by women at much lower prices than formerly.

Prices temporarily stabilized will make losses for those who defiantly refuse to let go.

The buying public is larger and stronger than the capitalists and mill-owners who insist on the old prices.

All our buyers in New York and Philadelphia are without permission to place orders for future delivery at any advance costs. Standing solidly together against advances will compel retrenchments of expensive wartime organizations.

This Store will buy for cash, at lower prices, and at favorable times, and every article bought for less than old rates will be marked a lower price to the people.

The August Fur Sale

will be one of the best in our history. It opens Tuesday next, August 10. We deliberately delayed our preparations for this important annual event, to take advantage of the recent drop in prices, which we expected.

The furs are coming in—fresh and fascinating.

Details later.

Young Women will be delighted with these

New Silk Frocks for now and early Fall.

Rust—a rich shade, at once warm and brilliant; most becoming to the complexion of the American girl—is the new color of the new season in satin frocks.

That frock (illustrated) which follows the straight silhouette is fashioned of a new crepe-satin in rust, navy blue or black. Its wide and long crushed girdle of Georgette crepe is an uncommon and entrancing feature. Georgette crepe is also used to edge the wide panels, which form the back and the front of both the skirt and simple blouse of this particularly lovely frock. $79.50.

The panel on the back of the blouse of another satin frock—also in navy blue and black—falls below the waist and makes a most becoming line. $63.50.

Taffeta Frocks are always chic, especially in these new and piquant models, $79.50 (illustrated) and $63.50.

A copenhagen blue wool and gold thread girdle is used on the frock (illustrated) which features the very short waist line and full overskirt. This combination is distinctive and new. $52.50.

Spanish influence is very strong in a black satin frock. The Velasquez silhouette is achieved by the hooped skirt, extra wide on the sides and emphasized by a short and piquant peplum. The bodice waist laces up the front and a wide round collar of lace is essentially Spanish. $79.50.

These frocks are suggestive of the variety of models in our new collection of silk frocks. Prices are conservative, $47.50 to $110.

Second Floor, Old Bldg., Tenth St.

Women's Bathing Suits

All take a deep dive in price.

150 surf satin suits will be $3.75 to $8.50 Friday.

189 taffeta, satin and poplin suits will be $9.75 and $12.50.

Delightful choosing. The surf satin suits are straight-lined, for the most part. V and square necks; all belted; and there are trimmings of piping, scalloping and stitching in contrasting colors. . . . In the taffeta, satin and poplin suits are straight line models, waist line models, tiered skirts, short shoulder sleeves, surplice effects, tying in back with a large bow, and contrasting color piping. Sizes 34 to 44 in each group.

Second Floor, Old Building.

Women's Cloth Frocks for Early Fall

The season for the cloth frock is now at hand and to meet the demand we have secured a variety of chic frocks of tricotine.

On one frock the deep V neck line emphasizes the slim silhouette so desired. Its slightly wider side line is set off by two tassels which reappear on the wide and three-quarter length sleeves. $57.50.

The overskirt of another tunic frock dispels the tunic idea by means of a swinging skirt trimmed with pin tucks. A narrow girdle with a metal buckle finishes this smart, simple frock. $65.

Specialized at $29.50

is a frock of navy blue or black tricotine. The becoming straight line is favored, tied with a long string girdle. A wide embroidered scroll design edges the square neck and emphasizes the straight lines of the frock by continuing the shoulder line below girdle.

Many of the sleeves are long, as fashion dictates for the coming season.

Second floor, Old Building.

will be on exhibition and sale in the

WANAMAKER GALLERIES OF ANTIQUES

On Monday, August Ninth.

The collection consists of a number of pieces which are pictured in the books on Colonial Furniture and are unusually fine specimens of their kind. A few are of historical interest, such as the maple bed owned by Jonathan Harrington of Revolutionary fame, and purchased by Mr. Walker from the Jonathan Harrington House in Concord, Massachusetts; the Winthrop walnut gate leg table with an inscription pasted on the bottom of the drawer—"Winthrop Table . . . John Winthrop was elected first Governor of Massachusetts in 1630 and was afterwards elected three times in the years of 1637, 1642 and 1676." There is also the very fine scroll top highboy and lowboy owned by the Jewett family of Portland, Maine.

The collection will quite comfortably fill the Colonial House in which it is now being arranged, and will be ready for visitors on Monday morning.

FOUR NEW YORKERS ASK PONZI BACKING

He Afterward Says Public Will Be Investing $5,000,000 a Day with Him Next Week.

FEW NOTEHOLDERS APPEAR

Gov. Coolidge Approves $8,000 Appropriation for a State Audit of Exchange Business.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Four New York men sat in "secret" session with Charles Ponzi for three hours today, and when it was ended one, Albert Falkenberg, who said he was an exporter and importer, declared that they hoped to secure Ponzi's financial backing in an automobile exporting project.

The other three men were John P. Caswell, Vice President and a Director of the Bolivian Wool Company, Inc., of 11 Broadway; Joseph E. Herman, an official of the Commonwealth Trading and Securities Company, 25 West Forty-third Street, and William Johns, an Englishman who said that he had been associated with Cecil Rhodes in South Africa.

Following the conference Ponzi said he was to confer with them again. He declared that he would launch his proposed $100,000,000 world-wide project at once, adding that he expected the public would be investing at the rate of $5,000,000 a day by next week. If his 50 per cent. in forty-five days' postal exchange business is continued it will merge into the new undertaking, he said.

Today the "run" on Ponzi's office dwindled to almost nothing. But twenty-seven were in line when the offices opened at 9 o'clock and a few came slowly through the day. Most of these, it is said, cashed matured notes. Those still in the hands of the public, Ponzi declared, did not exceed $500,000, while he claims he has $7,500,000 of ready cash on hand.

Late today Governor Coolidge and his Council approved an appropriation for a State inquiry into Ponzi's business, and more will be given if required, it is said.

The Federal auditor said today that the examination of Ponzi's records would take longer than thought at first.

BOND THIEVES CAUGHT.

Had Much Other Loot from Several Towns Up-State.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Troy police in the arrest today of Joseph Nash, 34; Daniel Hayes, 31, and Isabella Foley, 32, believe they have uncovered headquarters of a band of thieves who have been plundering homes in up-State cities for several weeks.

Goods bearing labels from Kingston, Schenectady, Albany and Cobleskill were found after the police forced an entrance into the building.

Two escaped convicts from Auburn Prison, Joseph Russell and Ambrose Geary, were taken into custody yesterday by the Troy police, and included in the loot found on them were Liberty bonds. Part of the loot recovered today were the bonds bearing the same name as that found on the convicts.

THE UNITED STATES OFFERS FOR SALE BY SEALED BIDS

A COMPLETE CITY—"OLD HICKORY"

An area of 4,706 acres, 1,800 acres exclusively used for manufacturing with 1,112 buildings ready to operate—560 acres adjacent to works with 3,867 various types of homes, social and civic buildings. Navigable Cumberland River on three sides of plant. Convenient to three railroads: Louisville and Nashville; Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Tennessee Central Railroads. Within 100 miles of 3 apparently inexhaustible coal fields in Kentucky and Tennessee. LARGEST STEAM POWER PLANT IN THE WORLD with proportionate engine horse power. Direct handling of raw materials by 94 miles of plant railways, standard and narrow gauge, with a reclassification yard of 660 cars. Macadam and concrete roads for heavy hauling. Water for every purpose supplied by pumping station with capacity of 100,000,000 gallons. A volume of refrigerating effect equal to 3,000,000 pounds of ice a day. Electrically-driven and controlled coal handling equipment, including belt conveyors, crushers and silos, capable of handling 73 45-ton cars a day. 100,000 ton storage yard served by two locomotive cranes. Plant maintenance handled through central mechanical area of thoroughly equipped repair shops, embracing every trade and including a foundry with a 3½-ton cupola. A modern equipped chemical and experimental laboratory.

Maximum production is possible even with units converted to your individual uses, because all operations follow an aggressive sequence. All homes and buildings on the reservation are supplied with light, water and power from a common source of supply.

The sale of "Old Hickory" is of tremendous importance to EVERY manufacturer, regardless of the character of his product. It represents more than a mere sale of equipment and surplus property—bigger than any mere plant—without question the MOST GIGANTIC INDUSTRIAL SALE EVER OFFERED THE MANUFACTURING PUBLIC by the United States Government.

During the World War "Old Hickory" was the largest smokeless powder producing plant IN THE WORLD. In addition to the enormous equipment and extraordinary production capacity, it offers an incomparable opportunity for the purchase of a COMPLETE, MODERN INDUSTRIAL COMMUNITY.

STEAM POWER. Of 60,000 h.p., is generated by 48 B. & W. built, Sterling type boilers. The boilers are rated at 823 h.p., with an actual development of 1,250 h. p., each at a working pressure of 175 lbs. Seventeen 16-inch mains all on overhead trestles, carry steam to all parts of the plant.

ELECTRIC POWER sufficient in volume for all plant and village uses is generated by 5 turbo generators of 11,500 k.w., total capacity at 2,300 v., which can be stepped up to 6,600 v.

ENGINE POWER is more than sufficient to operate the various machinery of the plant and is developed by 47 heavy duty Corliss Engines of 350 h.p. each. These engines are in various parts of the plant, in excellent condition and ready to function in any capacity as prime mover or source of power.

COAL HANDLING operations are conducted efficiently, economically and with a minimum use of labor by an electrically-driven and controlled system of belt conveyors of 300 t.p.h. capacity, which convey the coal from the track hoppers to the crushers, then to the silos where it may be diverted to the coal storage, or distributed directly to the boiler bunkers. Two large locomotive cranes are available for the storage of coal. This equipment is capable of handling seventy-three 45-ton cars every 24 hours, but has never been taxed to its full capacity.

WATER for use throughout the plant and village is available in sufficient quantities to meet every requirement and has a volume great enough to supply a city the size of BOSTON. Water is pumped from the Cumberland River by 10 pumps and these are connected with a booster system having a capacity of 37,500 g.p.m., against a 130-foot head. All water, excepting that used for cooling and condensing in the Acid Area, is FILTERED AND PURIFIED AND CONSTANTLY TESTED IN THE PLANT LABORATORY. The filtering equipment includes 96 FILTER TUBS WITH A 24-HOUR CAPACITY OF 63,000,000 GALLONS.

REFRIGERATION. A mammoth, highly efficient refrigeration unit is ready for operation. It consists of thirteen 250-ton units with all auxiliary equipment. The total refrigeration effect is 3,250 tons. In conjunction with this is an ice plant of six hundred 300-pound cans with complete equipment for handling and storing the ice. The CAPACITY OF THIS PLANT IS GREAT ENOUGH TO MEET THE ICE REQUIREMENTS OF A CITY AS LARGE AS THE ENTIRE RESERVATION.

PLANT DIVISION. The several units of the plant are: Cotton Purification, Nitration, Filtration, Power, Refrigeration, Causticising, Sulphuric Acid, Diphenylamine, Box Factory, Storage Tanks, "Shook" Storage Houses, Round House, Garages, Laboratory, and a Machine Shop sufficiently equipped to take care of the needs of the several units.

Some conception of the magnitude of this project may be had by considering the fact that there are 1,021 completed and equipped buildings on the property and that the "Old Hickory" village, at Jacksonville, 15 miles from Nashville, Tenn., is practically a township with habitable and attractive housing facilities to accommodate 20,000 people and afford them all the conveniences and home-loving features of up-to-date city life at MODERATE EXPENSE. Rents are reasonable at "Old Hickory." Nearly all the necessities of life can be purchased in the business center of the village. The design and construction of the houses, the very life and atmosphere of the village are conducive to PERMANENT labor, and satisfy the demands of the highest class of American skilled workmen. An ample supply of common labor is available in this territory.

No manufacturer can be too big for "Old Hickory," yet this plant is so elastic that its individual units, or the plant in its entirety, can be modified and made profitable for MANY VARIED INDUSTRIES, having no connection with the manufacture of smokeless powder. Another point, too important to be ignored, is the vast collection of MARKETABLE surplus property on the grounds. This property is of a character that can now be disposed of at top prices.

The Government prefers to sell "Old Hickory" as an ENTIRE unit. It is suggested that if you wish to use only an individual unit that you wire or write your preferences and permit the Government to put you in touch with other buyers, similarly disposed, and so assist in the formation of a group which can take immediate possession of the entire plant.

Arrange NOW to have your engineer make a careful inspection of the entire plant and submit your proposition to the Government.

Opportunity never knocked harder at your door, and never called so completely prepared to satisfy your every requirement.

TOWN. Adjacent to the works is the town, covering an area of 560 acres upon which are 3,867 buildings of various types from 6-room bungalows to 6 family apartments, hotels, restaurants, civic centers, two Y.M.C.A.'s, a Y.W.C.A., stores, a completely equipped fire and police department with the latest signal devices, hospital, court-house, theatre, schools and other buildings common to the average community. Every feature conducive to permanent labor is within the limits of the village. The homes are in a splendid state of preservation, ready for immediate habitation and have every modern convenience such as electric cooking plates and bathrooms.

VARIED INDUSTRIES WHICH CAN USE THIS PLANT. The several units of the plant are readily adaptable to many industries, including: Chemical, Rubber Goods, especially Automobile Tires, Pulp and Paper Mills, Sugar Refinery, Coking and Coke By-Products, Food, both evaporated and concentrated; Iron and Steel foundries; Fibrated Products such as Asphaltum Shingles; Aluminum; Wood Box or Refrigeration Manufacture; Cellulose and Photographic Film Manufacture, and a number of other minor industries, such as Cold Storage and Ice Manufacture.

When the armistice was signed "Old Hickory" was just getting its stride. The vast CAPACITY OF THE PLANT HAS NEVER BEEN FULLY UTILIZED. ITS GIANT POSSIBILITIES ARE NOW READY TO BE RELEASED BY THE GENIUS OF THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD.

UNPRECEDENTED OPPORTUNITY FOR BUSINESS MEN. Through the sale of "Old Hickory," the Government offers an unprecedented opportunity to the American business public. Its ideal location, near Nashville, on the navigable Cumberland River, its proximity to three great coal fields; healthful climate, ample housing accommodations, completeness and excellence of the plant equipment; enormous potential production capacity of its various units—these are but a few of the many advantages to be considered.

Are excessive power costs, high wages, adverse labor and housing conditions CUTTING DOWN YOUR PROFITS? Do you lack room for expansion? A magnificent opportunity is offered you here to reach the peak of your business aspirations.

HOW "OLD HICKORY" MAY BE PURCHASED. The War Department recommends that prospective purchasers for A PART of the "Old Hickory" project associate themselves for the purpose of submitting a bid for the ENTIRE PROPERTY. Government agents will render every assistance in putting such prospective purchasers in touch with each other and in forming an association to facilitate bidding and the immediate acquisition of the property.

SEALED BIDS for the ENTIRE property will be received now and up to 10 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, September 2, 1920. Requests for information, proposals to purchase the property, permission to inspect and for detailed information, should be addressed to the CHAIRMAN.

INFORMATION CAN BE HAD ON APPLICATION TO ORDNANCE SALVAGE BOARD WAR TRADE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C.

INSPECTION CAN BE ARRANGED THROUGH Commanding Officer "OLD HICKORY" POWDER PLANT, JACKSONVILLE, TENNESSEE.

80,000 ASK RISE IN 43 NAVY YARDS

SOME SEEK $1.25 AN HOUR

Franklin Roosevelt Makes Informal Speech, Being Warmly Greeted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Representatives of 80,000 employes of forty-three navy yards of the country, appeared today before the Navy Yards Wage Board and asked for substantial wage increases. The machinists ask that the present average wage of from 80 to 86 cents per hour be increased to $1.25. Other crafts ask advances which range from 20 to 40 per cent.

The hearings probably will last several days as witnesses for 161 crafts will testify.

J. F. Anderson, Vice President of the International Machinists, made the opening plea for the unions. Every union involved in the controversy will present its own case, it being stipulated that each shall be represented by a single spokesman.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, who retires as Assistant Secretary of the Navy on Monday, made an impromptu address.

"I have just dropped in," said Mr. Roosevelt, "to say good-bye and also to say hello. This is entirely outside of formal lines, but I wanted, nevertheless, to put before you some of the points in the present position of the Navy Department.

"What we are considering is not a mere question of wages but a matter that affects the activity of the department as a whole. The United States is not a follower but a leader in bringing about model working conditions for those in its employ. It is a tremendous task, but the department, as you must know, is bound by Congressional appropriations. As a result, we cannot exceed the amounts appropriated and if wages are raised when we are running the top-notch line, we shall have to drop some of our working personnel in order to come within the limitations of the funds appropriated by Congress. Therefore, increased wages may mean a decreased force of employes."

Among the crafts represented at the hearing were the blacksmiths, shipsmiths, electricians, wood caulkers; boat builders, cable splicers, steel workers, chainmakers, cranemen, welders, shipwrights and carpenters.

The members of the Navy Wage Board are Captain J. K. Robison, United States Navy; A. J. Berres, Secretary of the Metal Trades section of the American Federation of Labor, and Louis McH. Howe, assistant to Mr. Roosevelt.

Cubans Bring Roosevelt Fund.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 5.—Aurelio Hevia and Federico G. Morales, President and Secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association of Cuba, are en route from Miami to Washington today to the headquarters of the Roosevelt Memorial Association in Washington with $100,000 contributed by the people of Cuba. It is understood that the Cuban Congress will add $50,000 to this sum in completing Cuba's share in the memorial.

"THINKING" ABOUT THE LEAGUE.

An engaging Republican candidate for the office of United States Senator from California, Mr. A. J. WALLACE, stopped off from his campaigning long enough to announce in San Francisco that he had "flopped" on the League of Nations. It was true that his personal platform at the beginning of his candidacy had included a flat statement that he favored the League, "with or without reservations." Now he gives that all up. And the reason? Why, simply that he and many other "earnest men" had recently been doing "a lot of thinking." The nature of that thinking may easily be imagined. The candidate in question had no doubt taken thought of the Republican platform and of SENATOR HARDING'S speech. Above all, he had let his mind play on the attitude of Senator JOHNSON and on the small chance that a Republican candidate would have in California if he went against the valiant HIRAM and his party machine. That was surely enough to give Mr. WALLACE "furiously to think."

A great deal of such enforced thinking has been going on, often with curious results. Thus, The Morning Oregonian of Portland has been one of the steadiest supporters of the League of Nations. It is bitterly disappointed with the present position of its own party. It cannot see how HARDING brought himself to give in to Senator JOHNSON. Yet it will in no circumstances support Governor Cox. And the proud, if rather strange, conclusion which it reaches is as follows:

"For itself, The Oregonian is for a "League of Nations, without reference either to the Republican or the "Democratic Party."

The surprise is that this sort of thing should be called thought. Yet Dr. JOHNSON — SAMUEL, not HIRAM — declared that a man thinks hard and quick when he is going to be hanged. Evidently this applies to some Republican candidates and their rapid-change thinking about the League.

THE RATE TAX AND THE TAX RATE.

Discussion of the increased freight rates for the most part runs as if there were no real distinction between a tax rate and a freight rate. It is true that in both cases there is danger of reduplication and of the shifting of the tax. But that is true of most taxes, and perhaps less true of the freight tax than of most others. The freight tax is controlled by the price level of goods more efficiently than taxes properly so called. Taxes are not controlled by prices of goods, but by necessities of Government. To appeal to the record, for a generation, rates dropped while prices advanced. Now rates are advanced, chiefly because the rates and prices got "out of line"—that is, out of their established relation to each other. If transportation could be produced as cheaply as before prices doubled, the rate would not now be advanced. And the reason that the advance in rates should not be, probably will not be, an addition to the cost of production is that the rate advance is like a purchase of goods—you get economic return for your money. The daily publications are giving an impressive list of the equivalents returned for the increase of freight rates.

The expenditure of $700,000,000 by 106 railways will be a large addition to the wage fund. It may be taken as a minimum, not a maximum, credit conditions permitting. The money will not come from the rate increase—that was pledged or spent before it was allowed—but from the new credit which will allow the railways to enter the market once more. Their absence has been concealed by the war demand, but that has passed, and there is increasing need of sustaining industry. This is impossible without the help of the railways, and the rate increase is the means to that end. There is no industry which will not be quickened by the nourishment of the railways until they are equal to their task. Every process of production will be cheapened by increasing the supply of freight facilities. The increase of freight rates is trivial in comparison with the cost of not getting railway accommodations. Costs and prices ought to fall together, as railway accommodations approach the demand for them. The supply of goods and the supply of transportation ought to grow together. Nothing corrects scarcity prices more than increase of supply. If the railways had received their increases of rates when they asked for them; it would not now be necessary to grant an increase several times their original moderate requests, and the price level would have been kept in relation with the rate level instead of outstripping it.

Those who can see only additions to costs in the freight increase would do well to think of the subtractions which it will cause. The grain trade is calculating that the increase on wheat from Chicago to New York is 5½ cents. But the lack of transportation is the chief cause of a decline in price of 70 cents since the Government guarantee ceased. At Southern ports there are 600 coal carriers now empty and idle for lack of coal, which cannot be shipped to them for lack of rail accommodation and which cannot be mined for the same reason. The increase of rates is not small in itself, but it is small in comparison with the profits lost by lack of freight facilities. Financial experts say that the burdens of the war were borne by the generation which fought the war in the trenches or the industries, and that the shifting of them to posterity is delusive. Just so the burden of the crippling of the railways and the increase of freight rates has already been assumed in the increases of costs due to lack of transportation. The thing to think of is the price level rather than the freight level. Those who think that the price level will rise will find it hard to make their contention convincing.

THE NEW WAR THREAT.

Five years ago this week Russia lost Warsaw. Before the week is out she may have recovered it. More important than that, the Bolshevist leaders have in their hands the decision between peace and war for all Europe. If they want peace, they will have the glory which comes from the defeat of Poland, and along with the glory the solid acquisition of the debatable provinces which Poland hoped to bring within her sphere of influence; they can probably get full resumption of trade relations, and possibly complete recognition. That is what the recent British and French proposals amount to; and there is little to offset the Bolshevist gains except the giving up of "ethnographic" Poland, and promises, easy to make but hard to enforce, to refrain from revolutionary propaganda abroad and to pay the old debt.

This would be a very substantial triumph, but it is yet to be seen whether the Bolsheviki will be content with it or will try for more. They put off the armistice negotiations once and again; then, when the Polish delegates finally got to Baranovitchi, they discovered that they were expected to discuss peace terms and not a mere military truce. The Poles had no power to make peace, so they went back to Warsaw. At first the Bolsheviki told us that this showed Polish insincerity, as the delegates could have communicated with their home Government by wire and obtained full powers. But now Mr. TCHITCHERIN admits that through a "misunderstanding" the Poles were not allowed to communicate with Warsaw, so they had to go back for instructions. They were again delayed in getting back. It is fairly clear that the Bolsheviki are holding up the negotiations in the hope of getting Warsaw before terms can be discussed.

Warsaw taken, what then? The Bolshevist answer to the British "ultimatum" of July 12 promised the Poles more favorable frontiers than the Peace Conference assigned to them. But it added:

> Soviet Russia is willing in general as to the peace conditions with Poland to meet the wishes and interests of the Polish people, the more fully the more the Polish people in its internal life enters upon the path creating a solid basis for really fraternal relations between the laboring masses of Poland, Russia, the Ukraine, White Russia and Lithuania.

Reduced to plain English, this means that the Bolsheviki will grant easy terms to a Bolshevist Poland. Already a Soviet Government has been set up in the occupied territories; if Warsaw is taken, LENIN will put his appointees in office—even the Polish Communists are divided in their allegiance to Bolshevism when it comes from Russia—and will then offer "easy" terms of peace to a Government which he controls. It would be annexation of Poland in fact if not in form.

But Warsaw is not the only point of interest. There is the Danzig corridor, which Bolshevist troops are approaching. Here the Polish debâcle seems to be complete, and the Germans will not defend the free State of Danzig. On Germany's eastern border there is a strong concentration of troops; some of them Government troops, but more or less reactionary in sympathy, others mere mercenaries of the Junkers, disguised as farmhands or in other ways, but all ready for a fight. LUDENDORFF professes that he would like to use them against the Bolsheviki, but only Mr. WINSTON CHURCHILL believes that. Junkers and Bolsheviki have a common interest in breaking the treaty and attacking the predominance of France and England. Russia has Poland already without German aid. If LUDENDORFF attempted to repay the favor that LENIN did him in 1918, both Junkers and Bolsheviki might gain great immediate advantages; but Germany has lost her chance to strike Poland in the back. The two parties might gain a moment's diversion by attacking the Czechs, but ultimately such an alliance must be directed against France, and with FOCH holding the Rhine. Germany would be the battleground. This would hardly appeal to Germans who saw how Northern France was devastated by war.

Moreover, an alliance between LENIN and LUDENDORFF could not last. Some day the issue would have to be fought out, and fought out in Germany. LUDENDORFF is an optimist most of the time, and probably thinks he could win; but Dr. SIMONS'S warning to the Reichstag of the reactionary menace shows that there are sensible people in Germany who do not want to start something which could result only in a destructive German civil war, with monarchism or Bolshevism as the outcome. Better the Peace Treaty and all its drawbacks than the burning of German cities and the slaughter of Germans by Germans.

What will the Allies do? The French apparently are going to fight; they will use the three divisions holding the plebiscite areas to stiffen Polish resistance. Three divisions are not many, but at the decisive point they might exert a powerful influence. How far Britain will go is a question. The Daily Chronicle, which may be presumed to know Mr. LLOYD GEORGE'S mind in so far as that feat is possible, says that "Great Britain will not "send troops, but will help in other "powerful ways." What these powerful ways are Mr. LLOYD GEORGE told the House of Commons yesterday. Britain will send in munitions; she will tighten the blockade if necessary; she may "bring pressure to bear on everybody" (meaning the Czechs and Rumanians) to join in the war; and she offers Russia "a fair understanding with the Western Powers." That is to be understood, one supposes, as opening of commercial relations, and probably full recognition.

If, however, you believe Mr. BERTRAND RUSSELL, LENIN cares little about commercial relations. He wants a world revolution. If mild threats and unappetizing baits do not halt the Russian advance, what then? Mr. LLOYD GEORGE says that if this happens he will make a statement to the House on Monday "as to such further naval or military action which "it may be necessary to take." That sounds much like war; and if the Russians go on, the British Labor Party may have to decide whether it will stand with England or with a Russian party which says that "there "are no other forms of Socialism but "Communism."

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

Of Governor SMITH the threadbare old platitude that "the candidate is the platform" is absolutely true. What he has done as Governor, and what he would have done if the Republicans in the Legislature hadn't prevented him, are more than sufficient reason for his re-election. Still, the Saratoga unofficial State Convention built for him a platform which, though unconsciously long, in the deplorable modern fashion, is strong as a whole and clever as an invitation to votes even when it expresses harmless velleities, leading nowhere. Thus the honeyed proposal of "recognition without intervention" of the "Irish Republic" is a national, not a State issue; but the platform carpenters don't mean to allow any voters of Irish descent to straggle into the Republican fold if they can help it.

The proposed amendment of the Volstead act so as to make effective the bill passed by the Republican Legislature permitting New York throats to be assuaged by that powerful and comforting beverage legally called "2.75 beer" and contemptuously and popularly known as "suds" amounts to nothing, raises no real issue, is just a kind word thrown at the Wets; and the lofty and unbending Drys, unable to rule the Republican Party of New York, almost seem to prefer a moderate Wet to a moderate Dry.

Of the constructive policies in the platform the most vital are the reorganization and consolidation of the State Government, the establishment of an executive budget system and the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment lengthening the term of the Governor and other State officers. The State will never have an effective, a responsible and an economical Government until these policies have been put on the statute book and in the Constitution. Appropriations and taxes are continually rising. The wanton waste of Government must be stopped. Weighed down by the heaven-high cost of living, the citizens of New York have a vivid personal and pocket interest in these changes. Republican prevention of them is in itself reason enough for the re-election of Governor SMITH.

The platform dwells with just emphasis on the social and labor legislation enacted by the Democrats, and on the recent Republican opposition to legislation to fix a maximum day of labor and a minimum wage for women and minors. Here again the Republicans in the Legislature have made many unnecessary enemies. Direct primaries will hardly be, one thinks, a State-shaking issue. The Republican Convention "designated," the Democratic "suggested." Tweedledum and tweedledee! Apparently the State Convention is being restored without technical and legal restoration. Some year, when there are not so many things and principles to wrangle about, that legal and technical restoration will be made. There are in the platform great essential policies bravely represented by Governor SMITH. They should be voted on according to their merits, and without any reference to the national campaign.

THE VANITY THAT BECOMETH.

In the Parisian lady of 40 who, thanks to a surgical reefing of her face, recovered the unwrinkled features of 25, there is little of "the vanity that becometh woman." According to the theory of her cosmetic surgeon, the arch-enemies of feminine loveliness are laughter and grief. Although "just crazy with joy" over her rejuvenation, she was forced to dissemble the fact. "I daren't smile "or cry. That would start the "wrinkles all over again. I should "never have needed the operation if "I hadn't gone around laughing and "weeping all my life." One wonders what could have been the inspiration of so much laughing and weeping. The mystery of the ladies of ancient Egypt who carried tear bottles (still extant in all museums) with which to prevent salt drops from channeling their complexions has been explained by archaeologists. Those were idle tears, the result of no power of human grief, but only of hot winds from the desert. The case of their Parisian sister under the skin, and over it, was different—yet doubtless generically the same. The things that made her "crazy" with joy or woe were personal merely, and seldom at that more than skin-deep.

Let us not attempt a discourse upon what beauty is. It may be observed, however, that portrait painters, whose repertory of color infinitely transcends the rouge-pot and the lip-stick, have a predilection for lines, even for wrinkles and crows'-feet, which many of their sitters find inexplicable. The non-artist man, according to a widespread belief, prefers the younger-seeming beauty. But does he really—any more than he prefers a hat and gown of the latest fashion? Above everything else he loves gayety and laughter, at least in his lighter moods. And the gayety he loves is not that which springs from the sense of personal and selfish well-being, but from sympathy and from a genuine joy in the human comedy. No man who has ever felt the delight of whole-souled, humorous comradeship can have anything but love and reverence for the lines it leaves—even wrinkles and crows'-feet. And then there is the matter of tears. Men, it is said, hate tears. They do; but only of a certain kind—the kind of which one suspects the Parisian lady to have been guilty. In the whole scope of a man's nature there is probably no emotion so strong as that which is evoked by tears of genuine grief in his womenfolk.

So one sees what a creature is man, how noble in reason, in action how like an angel, in apprehension how like a god! If he had his own way, there would be no Midnight Frolics and Follies, no Winter Garden. Like Hamlet, he scorns all who, GOD having given them one face, make themselves another. If he acknowledges any other mood, it can be only the result of that mouthful in the Garden of Eden, which he never would have thought of eating if only the woman whom he revered, and so mistakenly trusted, had not tempted him.

THE WESTERN PRIMARIES.

In the West, where they take their primary elections more seriously than the East seems to, large votes are cast even in midsummer. Neither in Oklahoma nor in Missouri can it be said that there was anything like a snap judgment. Senator GORE, despite his prestige and intrenched political strength, was beaten apparently for the sole reason that he had not truly represented his party or his State in opposing the League of Nations and virtually making himself one with the Republican plotters in the Senate. A similar deduction must be made from the results in Missouri. Senator REED was backing an anti-League candidate for the Senate and stumped the State for him in his best belligerent manner. Great crowds everywhere cheered his virulent oratory, but when the votes were counted the man favored by REED was left in the minority—a small minority, if the ballots cast for the two pro-League candidates are added together.

It will be interesting to note the effect of this popular repudiation upon Senator REED. Will it modify the violence of his inconsistency? Beaten at all points in Missouri and at San Francisco, he yet came out as a rip-roaring Democrat who could not possibly abandon his party, who was going to do his best, which is something awful, to elect Governor Cox, yet who would never, never give up his opposition to that infamous thing, the League of Nations. But how long can even a tough-skinned politician go on impaling himself upon the horns of a terrible dilemma which he himself has created?

Interest in the Kansas primary turned chiefly upon the opposition to the renomination of Governor ALLEN. Against him union labor united with the Non-Partisan League, with the official Socialists, with the Communists and the gentle flock of the I. W. W. They agreed to enter the Republican primaries to defeat Governor ALLEN, who seized the coal mines in the strike of last Winter and had them operated by amateur and volunteer miners in the interest of the public health and welfare. He was to be beaten, too, as the abhorred originator of the Industrial Court. Senator CURTIS and the other members of Congress who voted for the Cummins Railroad bill were also to fall.

Kansas is not a highly developed industrial Commonwealth. Irrespective of that, its Republicans knew that Governor ALLEN had acted from necessity and for the public weal. They have renominated him by an immense majority. He seems to have carried every county in the State save one coal county, which he lost by a meagre plurality. The grand alliance of union labor and revolutionary labor, of direct socialism and the diluted socialism of the Non-Partisan League, was ridiculously impotent against him. Senator CURTIS and the other members of Congress who were to be punished for voting for the Cummins bill were renominated by larger majorities than they had previously got.

Pluck is always respected. It always pays. Too many politicians trim and truckle and are afraid to say that their souls are their own. Members of that gooseflesh tribe ought to ponder the manly and patriotic action and deserved success of Governor ALLEN and the other Kansas candidates who were proscribed for daring to serve their State and their country without fear of consequences.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

One Record at Least Is Broken.

With the second week of diversified investigation into his mysterious affairs nearly gone, CHARLES PONZI retains his cheerfulness as well as his liberty, and in doing so he breaks all records ever made by men of the class to which all the Wise Ones consigned him as soon as they heard of the enormous profits he was promising—and paying—to the very amateur financiers who trusted him with their money. The Wise Ones still frown at the mention of his name, and still prophesy as certainly inevitable, and probably not long deferred, the bursting of the Ponzi bubble and the breaking of all clients who did not recover their money while the recovering was good.

In Boston, however, public distrust seems to be shifting from PONZI to his critics and assailants, and the once long and excited line of those who wanted his notes paid, with or without 50 per cent. interest for forty-five days, has fallen away to nobody at all. This, of course, does not prove that the enterprising Italian's scheme, whatever it may have been, was either legitimate or capable of prolonged working, but it at least does prove that it was in some ways a better scheme than any of those hitherto evolved by men who made promises like his to the sort of people—predestinate lambs—like those with whom he dealt.

Caution still cries, "Wait and see!" The advice is good, but unless the predicted revelations come soon it is lamentably near to sure that either the rush to PONZI of eager aspirants for sudden wealth will be resumed or he will pass for them into history as the victim of the envious "interests."

His Profits Are Not Unprecedented.

A representative of far downtown contributed to a very recent discussion of the Ponzi sensation the cynical statement that the man's operations differed from those of the old school of big financiers only in the peculiarity that he divided profits with those whose money he used instead of keeping them all for himself. Hence, declared this authority, the animosity of which he is the object, through fear of demands that the style thus set be followed generally in financial circles.

This theory was not propounded very seriously, nor does it deserve any very serious consideration. It is a fact, however, that profits of 50 per cent. made in forty-five days or in even less are not unknown in promotion circles, or even very rare there. If the worst that could be said about PONZI was that he claimed to derive huge gains from his transactions, the accusation would not amount to much. Others do the same without exciting criticism except from soapbox orators.

But that is not the worst, or at any rate it is not all, for he maintains a most disquieting silence as to the exact nature of his business, the identity of his associates in it here and abroad, and the amount of his available assets. As he says, there is no law to compel him to disclose these "trade secrets," and he is not alone in guarding such secrets jealously, but in the circumstances continued concealment on his part must continue to have the unkindest of interpretations.

A Kaiser Meets a King.

There is some difficulty in accepting as veracious, and free from either distortion or exaggeration, the Matin's revelation of what happened once when the King of Spain visited the Kaiser on the latter's ship and was severely scolded both for wearing an undress uniform and for addressing his host with what the great man thought undue familiarity. The story, however, really is too good to doubt, and it is helped toward plausibility by the fact that the narrator of it pictured himself as getting snubbed and enduring it without protest.

Kings are no more likely than other men to invent stories in which they play unheroic or humiliating parts, but ALFONSO could tell this tale, for though in it his royal dignity suffered somewhat, it was the Kaiser, not he, that cut the ridiculous figure.

And a far more vengeful Spaniard than ALFONSO ever was said to be could have been well content to call the account square not many years later, when, asked for an opinion of what the Kaiser was doing, he telegraphed back, according to the Matin document, again using the forbidden pronoun, "I think thou art quite crazy." WILLIAM could not have liked that, but there was nothing he could do about it then, for he was too near the dismal end of all his glory for anybody to mind his displeasure.

They Are More Than Individuals.

Of five polling booth clerks out in Chicago who have been put on trial for tampering with tally sheets and making false returns at the Mayoralty primaries last year, two are women. Should Mrs. LILLIAN HOWE and Mrs. MARY O'BRIEN, thus raised to eminence as the first women charged with election frauds, be convicted, they will have done an ill service to their sex almost as much as to the suffragists.

That this is so is unfair and cruel, but there is no help for it. They should have remembered, as all other women who take part in public affairs should remember, that for some time to come they will have a representative capacity far beyond the one a man holding the same position would have.

What they do, if it be bad, will be charged against all their sisters, or, if not exactly that, it will be asserted that they have proved the inadvisability of putting women in public office.

Upon the women in office has been placed the heavy burden of proving, not that as politicians they are just as good as men, but that they are a lot better.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE.

Appeal to Southerners Not to Vote at All This Year.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Alabama Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage herewith gives its unqualified indorsement to the letter of Mrs. J. S. Pinkard to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, published in The Chattanooga Times and National Banner of recent date.

We stand with her and the noble women of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage and with all others who are struggling to protect and save the true ideals of American womanhood.

We deplore the officious, unseemly and undignified action of the two Presidential nominees of our great political parties in their effort to destroy the Constitution of the sovereign State of Tennessee, making of it indeed a "scrap of paper," by advising and urging her legislators to violate their oath of office and prove "recreant to the great trust confided to them by the people.

We feel that the future of the nation is indeed dark when those who seek the highest office in the gift of the people forget or ignore, as individuals, that moral obligation and sense of honor and decency that should restrain them from attempting to dazzle and blind by their higher political positions those noble men in the Legislature of Tennessee who walk in the so-called "humbler paths of life."

We deplore and resent most bitterly the pitiable exhibition of weakness exhibited in the Democratic platform formulated in San Francisco.

It has disfranchised every intelligent and informed Southern Democrat who may still boast a bit of the red blood of his forefathers.

To vote for this iniquitous thing is to stamp with approval the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, and by adding the third curse, the Susan B. Anthony amendment, proclaim them right. Aye, proclaim that the greatest humiliation ever heaped upon a people, your father, your mother and ours, in putting them under negro rule, is, in the eyes of their sons today, right and proper. God forbid!

We demand that the men of the South do not vote at all in the coming Presidential election.

To vote the Democratic platform is to vote the Republican platform. On the one vital issue which we firmly believe, and which we consider a question of life or death to the South, they are identical; both are opposed to and drag into the dirt of cheap politics everything that the South holds most dear. Both eat at the vitals of the Constitution of the United States, and the people lie helpless like Prometheus bound to the rock, to the end, not that women may vote, but that the Government may be centralized and the people ruled in the most minute affairs of life, even as William ruled from Potsdam or Lenin from Moscow.

We deplore and denounce the officious intermeddling of those high in Federal authority in the affairs of the States, and the unprecedented use of their prestige and high position, and doubtless patronage, to blind the uninformed with the glamour of false doctrine, heresy and schism, which is rapidly leading us all to destruction.

We deplore and grieve over the reports of "the effect of politics on woman" that were brought from the San Francisco convention. History but repeats itself in a weakened, temporizing manhood, and a hysterical womanhood, all forgetting that only in the greater differentiation of the sexes lies the greater civilization and the only true progress.

"The Solid South" is not the result of the civil war, but of those cruel reconstruction measures evolved and put in force by a small band of crazy Northern fanatics, prominent among whom was Susan B. Anthony. It was she who called us "our conquered provinces"; she who thought no humiliation too great; she who stirred the fanatical fury that put us under the rule of former negro slaves, and it is she who comes today to curse us anew with her abominable amendment. "The Solid South" is the white man's Government, the same yesterday, today and forever. Will it be broken? Never, unless, like Judas Iscariot, her own betray her.

We condemn the Delilahs and the Benedict Arnolds who, for personal gain or notoriety, have offered the dearest gift of God to man, their womanhood, to be a quivering sacrifice upon the crumbling, pagan altar of political expediency.

We call upon the men of Tennessee not to be caught sleeping on their watch. Both Republicans and Democrats cannot benefit by the passage of this amendment. Why sacrifice the South? Why be the catspaw to pull this hot chestnut from the flames of Hades, where it has been nicely roasting for fifty years? The South is thinking as never before. The South does not have to vote. Let no man be deceived, she may not vote, for stranger things have happened.

MIDSUMMER PASTORAL.

Three children climbed a hill
Where grasses were astir
With winds of magic blown
(For it was midsummer).
And never bird nor beast nor silvery vibrant tree
On that fair hilltop stood:
It seemed those children were the first
To break its solitude.

Like butterflies at play,
Soft dallying here and there,
They knew not weariness that ran
Aloft in golden air;
But had they come, as faery comes,
Out of some forest tree,
Or had they waded down a mint-green brook
That flows in Arcady?

I cannot tell, but I could see
That never alone were they;
Came shepherd boy, came shepherdess,
Came one with pipes to play;
Quaint shepherds they, whose flock is fed
In meadows honey-sweet
That have not known in all their golden years
The paths of weary feet.

So mortal with immortal danced—
How light they trod green earth,
How silvery sweet that piper's tune,
How dulcet all their mirth!
I closed my eyes, but when I looked once more
Up yonder all was still;
Only three white clouds
Hung low above that hill.

ANNE W. YOUNG.

GERMAN LINER IS SOLD.

New Yorker Buys Old Kronprinz Wilhelm as a Trade Ship.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Sale of the liner Von Steuben, formerly the German commerce raider Kronprinz Wilhelm, to Ferd Eggena of New York for $1,500,000 was announced today by Chairman Benson of the Shipping Board.

Accommodations will be provided on the steamer, which is to be repaired United States, for representatives of 700 American manufacturers who will accompany their exhibits and demonstrate them in foreign ports, Mr. Eggena said. The vessel is to be refitted, he asserted, at a cost of $3,000,000.

The purpose of the round-the-world cruise, he said, was to promote the sale of American products in foreign markets. It is planned to start the cruise Jan. 15 and stop at Buenos Aires, Melbourne, Sidney, Yokohama, Shanghai, Hong Kong Singapore, Batavia, Rangoon, Calcutta, Colombo, Bombay, Wellington and some European ports.

Terms of sale, required by the board, call for 12½ per cent. cash, $350,000 on Oct. 20, $350,000 on Nov. 20, $350,000 on Dec. 20 and $362,000 on Jan. 20.

The Von Steuben which has a gross tonnage of 15,000 is to be equipped by Mr. Eggena for a round-the-world cruise to exhibit products of American manufacture.

Allocation of fifteen new 12,600 deadweight-ton passenger vessels now building in Pacific yards, for service between the Pacific Coast and the Orient, was announced today by the Shipping Board.

Five of the vessels, all of which are to have a speed of 17 knots, are allocated to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for service between San Francisco, Honolulu, Yokohama, Shanghai and Manila.

The Admiral Line, a subsidiary of the Pacific Steamship Company, is to operate five of the vessels between Puget Sound and the Orient, and five other passenger liners will be put into service by Matson Navigation Company between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The board expects to complete the first of the new liners, the Wenatchee, by Sept. 15, for delivery to the Admiral Line.

When the Kronprinz Wilhelm steamed out of New York harbor on the morning of Aug. 3, 1914, she began a voyage of destruction as a commerce raider which brought her back to Newport News, Va., 225 days later, where she was interned. During that voyage she sank or captured fourteen merchant ships. The lowest estimate of the property destroyed was put at $14,000,000.

The first of the ships to fall a victim to the German auxiliary cruiser was the British steamer Indian Prince, bound from Bahia to New York with coffee, which was sunk on Sept. 4, 1914, just a month after the Kronprinz Wilhelm had left this port. Then followed in rapid succession the news of other allied craft which had fallen a prey to the raider. Among the steamers captured or sunk were La Correntina, the Union, the Highland Brae, the Hemisphere, the Guadeloupe, the Tamar, Coleby and Chasehill.

CANAL HAS RECORD YEAR.

Panama Tolls Exceed $8,800,000, Leaving a Large Surplus.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Commercial traffic through the Panama Canal set a new record in the fiscal year ended June 30, according to official reports received here.

A total of 2,478 commercial craft with an aggregate tonnage of 8,545,000 made the transit, paying more than $8,800,000 in tolls and other charges. All expenses of operation and maintenance will not exceed $6,650,000, the report said, indicating a surplus of $2,150,000. This is nearly five times the previous record surplus.

The report explained, however, that the canal could not be said to have made a "profit," since no allowance has been made for interest charges on investment, nor depreciation of plant and equipment.

OPPOSE SAMOAN GOVERNOR.

Natives of Pago Pago Ask Inquiry of Executive's Regime.

HONOLULU, Aug. 5.—Reports of agitation among the natives of Pago Pago, Samoa, against the administration of Governor Terhune were brought by passengers arriving from there yesterday on the steamer Ventura.

The Governor's house was recently stoned by a mob of natives, and a petition signed by 200 Samoan leaders asking for an investigation of the Governor's rulership has been forwarded to President Wilson, according to C. W. Jenson, a marine engineer of San Francisco, who was aboard the Ventura.

Professor Alfred Mayor of the Carnegie Institute, another passenger, said that Governor Terhune was not responsible for the unrest among the natives but that professional agitators were to blame.

Lieut. Commander C. H. Boucher, a former aid of Governor Terhune, also was aboard the Ventura on his way to report to Washington.

ORDERS GAS CASE APPEAL.

Hylan Tells Counsel to Carry 80-Cent Law to Highest Court.

Mayor Hylan yesterday instructed Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien to take to the highest court the decision of the United States District Court on Wednesday enjoining the State and city from enforcing the eighty cent gas law and allowing the gas companies to charge $1.20 for gas.

"Is it possible," asked the Mayor, "that the United States District Court can enjoin or restrain the State of New York and the City of New York from carrying out the law of the State and prohibit the District Attorney from prosecuting persons violating the penal law?

"I understand the city was not made a party to this proceeding and was prohibited from being made a party after application was made by you to include the city as a defendant. I wish you would confer with the Attorney General of the State and take this case to the highest court in the United States and have it settled once and for all as to whether a United States District Court can properly issue an order nullifying the penal law of the State by restraining the District Attorney from enforcing its statutory laws."

OREGON POPULATION 783,285

Increase in Decade 110,520—Providence Has 237,595.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Oregon has a population of 783,285, an increase of 16.4 per cent. in the last ten years, the Census Bureau announced today. The State's increase was not so large numerically as in the decade ended with 1910, but it was larger than for the decade ended with 1900. The increase in numbers was 110,520, the third largest numerical increase in the State's history.

Oregon's rate of increase is larger than that of Georgia or Delaware, the only two other States whose 1920 census has been announced. Georgia's increase was 10.9 per cent. and Delaware's 10.2 per cent.

Multnomah County, Ore., including Portland, has 275,898; increase 45,637, or 21.9 per cent.

Other populations announced today were the following:

Providence, R. I., 237,595; increase 13,269, or 5.9 per cent.

Dayton, Ohio (revised), 152,559. Previously announced as 153,830.

Frederick, Okla., 3,822; increase 795, or 26.3 per cent.

Panama Population Is 401,428.

PANAMA, Aug. 4.—The census returns for the Republic of Panama, announced today, show a total population of 401,428, not including Indians. The increase over 1913 was 35 per cent.

SOUTH FACES FIGHT OVER NEGRO VOTES

Congress to Hear Plea to Reduce Representation Because of Exclusion.

SIEGEL OUTLINES ISSUE

Chairman of House Reapportionment Committee Predicts a Sharp Contest.

The oft-mooted question of reducing Southern representation in Congress in the proportion in which the negro population is excluded from the polls will be the subject of hearings before the Committee on Reapportionment at the next session of Congress, according to Congressman Isaac Siegel of New York, Chairman of the committee.

Mr. Siegel said last night that he was not committed on the new proposal to apportion Representatives to the South only on the basis of the voting population, but that he intended to hold full hearings on the subject. He said the present agitation to force the South to permit negro voting or suffer a shrinkage in representation had grown greatly in recent months.

Congressman Barbour of California, one of the most active figures in the agitation for votes for negroes in the South, is a member of the Committee on Reapportionment. There are nine Northern Republicans and six Southern Democrats on the committee, and it is understood that the committee is likely to recommend a bill excluding from the basis of Federal apportionment all classes of citizens excluded from the polls. The committee will have before it the entire subject of reapportioning the representation in Congress, in accordance with the final figures of this year's census, which will be completed in September.

The man most active in the agitation for this change in apportionment, based in the negro vote, Mr. Siegel says, is the Rev. Thomas G. M. Birmingham of Milford, Neb., who appeared before the Committee on Resolutions of the Republican National Convention and argued in favor of this plan. The Rev. Mr. Birmingham and his associates have flooded the North with appeals for this movement, Congressman Siegel said, and had gained a considerable following. He said that most of the propaganda was based on justice to the negro, but that there were also Republicans who objected earnestly to the practice of making Republican negroes, who are kept away from the polls, the means of increasing Democratic representation in Congress.

Northern Democrats Favor Move.

According to statements made to members of the Committee on Reapportionment there are some Northern Democratic Congressmen who would favor a bill of the kind described, in spite of the fact that it might reduce the Southern Democratic delegation in Congress by a third or more.

Those in favor of the measure have seized the present as an opportune time for their movement, according to Mr. Siegel, because Northern Democrats, as well as Republicans, have been agitated because of the disproportionate influence alleged to have been exercised by the South in the House of Representatives and the Senate.

In a statement last night Congressman Siegel said:

"There is also a good deal of talk in favor of reducing the size of the House from 435 members to about 300. On the other hand, on account of the wars the work of the average Congressman has grown out of proportion. There are now 4,000,000 ex-service men who are interested in obtaining back pay, in War Risk insurance matters and death payments to families. Besides that, the length of time that Congress is in session is greater than ever before. It has become evident that if Congress is to handle the very many questions that are arising it will have to remain in session hereafter practically from January to December each year, and that the days of Congress being in session six months or so are about gone.

"The Congress that is going to be elected this year ordinarily would not convene until December, 1921. There isn't any doubt in the mind of any thinking man that the next President will have to assemble Congress in special session as soon as he is inaugurated. The result will be that, once Congress meets, it will continue in session, with the exception of a few months, until March 4, 1923.

Congressmen's Duties Growing.

"The correspondence coming to members of Congress is larger than ever before. One reason that correspondence is on the increase is that the Government today has undertaken to do many things which heretofore had been done by the various States. In addition; the publicity given by the newspapers and magazines to what can be obtained from the Government in the shape of information, advice and literature has resulted in people writing for those things. Unsettled conditions in Europe result in numerous applications being sent to members regarding passports, visas and information about relatives abroad. Court-martial cases and the number of young boys under the age of 18 years who have entered the army and navy without the consent of their parents have added greatly to the Congressman's work.

"The average member of Congress is receiving from 60 to 100 letters a day, which require visits to departments in person and considerable attention to answering mail which heretofore would have been done by secretaries

JOHN BARRYMORE WEDS MRS. THOMAS

While Their Engagement Had Been Rumored, the Marriage Now Comes as a Surprise.

CEREMONY IS INFORMAL

Actor, Who Recently Suffered a Nervous Breakdown, Will Not Resume Work Till Fall.

Mrs. Blanche M. Thomas of New York and Newport, former wife of Leonard M. Thomas, and John Barrymore, the actor, were married at noon yesterday at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Although there had been rumors of their engagement since Mrs. Thomas obtained her divorce last Winter in Paris, their marriage will come as a surprise to their wide circle of friends and admirers, for the bride has achieved considerable fame with her poetic writings.

The first intimation that the marriage was to take place was when the couple obtained their marriage license earlier in the day at the Municipal Building. The family name of the Barrymores is Blythe, and Mr. Barrymore obtained the license under the name of John Blythe. That was the name under which his sister, Ethel Barrymore, was married to Russell G. Colt.

It was a quiet, informal wedding, with only a small group of relatives and friends present, and took place in the apartment of Mrs. John H. McCullough at the Ritz-Carlton. There were no attendants, and the Rev. Dr. Charles B. Bullard performed the ceremony. Later Mr. Barrymore and his bride left on their honeymoon, without giving their destination.

Those who witnessed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs, parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs, her brother and sister-in-law; Mrs. Russell G. Colt (Ethel Barrymore), Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Barrymore, the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law; Mrs. McCullough, Thomas Patten and Archibald K. Mackay of Paris.

When they obtained their marriage license the bride gave her age as 29, and gave the Colony Club as her present residence. Mr. Barrymore said he was 37. He resides at 132 Fourth Street, within view of Washington Square, where he has a home of artistic appointments, and a roof garden, modeled after a country home, with a small cottage having a porch and fireplace, and a fence surrounding an old-fashioned garden.

This was also the second marriage of Mr. Barrymore. His first wife was Miss Katharine Cort Harris, daughter of Sidney Harris of this city. They were married on Sept. 1, 1910, in New York. In December, 1917, she obtained a divorce from him in California on the grounds of desertion.

It was in April last that the rumor became current on Broadway that he was to rewed, but he denied it. About this time he suffered a nervous breakdown when appearing in "King Richard III.," and spent some time at William Muldoon's training camp in the Westchester hills. He returned in May fully restored to health, but will not act, either on stage or in pictures until this Autumn.

Mrs. Barrymore's first husband, Leonard M. Thomas, comes from a prominent Philadelphia family. He was Secretary of the American Legation at Madrid in 1906, and also an attaché of the United States Embassy in Rome. Their marriage took place in 1910, by which they had two children, Leonard M. Thomas, Jr., who is 9 years old, and Robin May Thomas, who is 5. Mrs. Thomas obtained her divorce so quietly in Paris that it was not generally known until son time after, although rumored on this side.

She was sketched by the French artist and portrait etcher, Paul Helleu, during his visit to this country about eight years ago, and has been called one of America's most beautiful women. She writes under the non de plume of "Michael Strange," and her poems reflect many moods and impressions of the emotions.

Posner—Nathan.

Louis S. Posner, a lawyer of this city, was married yesterday at Westgate-on-the-Sea, Kent, England, to Miss Nell Nathan of Wellington, New Zealand. Mr. Posner was in England as a delegate from America attending the International Zionist Conference at London. He was formerly a member of the law firm of Dos Passos Brothers, and was President of the New Era Club of New York for several years. He belongs to the Woodmere Club and is a director of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society. His bride was in this country a few months ago, and went to England with her mother. Mr. Posner makes his home at Forest Hills, L. I.

Carl—DeWitt.

Miss Adele Blossom DeWitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Augustus DeWitt of Flushing, N. Y., and William Edward Carl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carl of Buffalo, N. Y., were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. W. Eggleston. The bride's father was for many years a political leader in Queens and was also postmaster at Maspeth, L. I.

Monroe—Bates.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bates of Pittsfield, Mass., and Dr. Willys Monroe, son of former Postmaster Willys R. Monroe of Cos Cob, Conn., and Mrs. Willys, which took place on Thursday, July 29, in Cristobal, Panama. The bride traveled to Colon, a distance of 3,000 miles, for the marriage. The bride is a graduate of Middlebury College, class of '12. Dr. Monroe graduated from the college the same year as his bride. He is now physician for the United Fruit Company of this city in Panama.

Clarke-Peterson.

Miss Anne Evelyn Peterson, until recently in charge of the State Library of North Dakota, and James Vernol Clarke, associate publicity director of the Presbyterian Church, were married yesterday at the home of the bride in Central Park West. The Rev. Dr. James E. Clarke of Nashville, Tenn., father of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. Mr. Clarke was a Lieutenant of artillery during the war, and also edited Afloat and Ashore, a Y. M. C. A. publication, in the Southeastern Division. After a trip in the South Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will reside in this city.

ASKS INJUNCTION AGAINST PIERMEN

Manufacturer Alleges Unions and Ship Company Refused to Handle Shipments.

HEARING SET FOR MONDAY

Samuel Buyer Says Goods Sent to Pier on Citizens' Transportation Trucks Were Rejected.

Judge A. N. Hand, in the United States District Court yesterday, reserved decision on the motion of Samuel Buyer, a garter manufacturer at 935 Broadway, for a temporary injunction restraining the Old Dominion Transportation Company, its officers and employes, District Council 16 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers; District Council of New York and Vicinity of the International Longshoremen's Association, and the various local unions of teamsters, longshoremen and their officers from combining and conspiring together to prevent transportation between New York and Norfolk of merchandise of Samuel Buyer & Co.

The suit grows out of the activities of the Citizens' Transportation Committee to restore the uninterrupted transportation of merchandise on the piers of coastwise lines where strikes of longshoremen have been in progress. It is charged that the defendants in the suits refused to accept for shipment goods brought to the Old Dominion pier by the non-union trucks of the Citizens' Transportation Committee.

Walter Gordon Merritt, Chairman of the Citizens' Transportation Committee's sub-committee on law, who appeared for the plaintiff yesterday, said the public had certain rights in this case which, if disregarded, would make a "worthless badge" of American citizenship.

"When a citizen steps up to the ticket office shall he be confronted with the question, Are you a union man?" he said. "When he wishes to telegraph or telephone shall this be the inquiry? When he presents his package to the expressmen shall he have to bear testimony that it contains a union label? Shall the baggage master of the railroad trains be obliged to ascertain whether the trunk is union made? Shall the street car conductor demand of all passengers the disclosure of a union button as well as the payment of his fare? Shall the employe of gas and electric light companies compel the discontinuance of service as against those patrons who do not join the union? Shall the employes of steamships and railroad lines require a union certificate for all merchandise hauled?"

It was asserted that the Citizens Trucking Company had on several occasions attempted the delivery of merchandise to the piers of the Old Dominion Transportation Company in behalf of Samuel Buyer & Co., but that union employes of the steamship company refused to accept such materials. Efforts were then made by Samuel Buyer & Co. and the Citizens Trucking Company to have the manager of the steamship company receive said goods, it was said, but the steamship company refused to do so for fear of difficulties with the unions.

public because he believed to concede dominion home rule to Ireland would cause the cry for a republic to dwindle away.

Heated protests were made that Asquith had never offered such a solution of the difficulty.

Plot with Germans for Attack.

Mr. Lloyd George in his attack on Mr. Asquith stated that it was useless to make vague, ill-considered suggestions about dominion home rule, and challenged Mr. Asquith to present the name of anyone in Ireland able to speak for the Irish people who would accept his dominion proposal.

There was not a single dominion, the Premier added, but possessed an army and power to possess a navy, and he asked whether Mr. Asquith would give Ireland an army and navy.

Irish ports, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, were the most dangerous spots in the empire. Were these to be handed over to the dominion parliament?

"Mr. Asquith is merely shirking the difficulty and making worse the situation," declared the Premier, "by allowing it to be made known throughout Ireland and America that, though these things are not intended, British statesmen are willing to give Ireland self-determination."

In the course of his reproaches against Mr. Asquith the Premier said it might have been supposed from Mr. Asquith's speech that Ireland was a paradise in 1918, whereas, he declared, the facts were that in that year there was an army of more than 150,000 enlisted men in Ireland engaged in treasonable conspiracy and in negotiations with the Germans. He said this army had undertaken to attack Great Britain two months after the German offensive, of which it had been informed.

"It was in the same year," he went on, "we discovered documents in the pockets of men who are now leaders of South and West Ireland showing that there was an arrangement between them and the Germans to attack us at the moment of our greatest peril."

The rule to confine the debate in the second reading of the Irish Crimes Bill to four hours, with final action tomorrow evening, was adopted after some discussion by a vote of 273 to 65. T. P. O'Connor, Sir Donald MacLean, Mr. Clynes and others who attacked the "hurry-up" method declared that their attack was not aimed against the bill itself, but they contended that a measure "removing constitutional rights of British subjects by the denial of trial by jury" should be granted freer discussion.

Mr. O'Connor asserted that with twenty coercion bills passed by Parliament in the last 120 years, the least time for debate on any was 21 days.

Deputation Asks for Dominion.

Premier Lloyd George was told at his conference with the Irish deputation which he received yesterday that great progress has been made among Irish Unionists during the last few months in favor of a broad policy giving self-government to the people of that island, says The London Times in reporting the meeting.

The deputation was unanimous and strong in its denunciation of the Government Irish Crimes bill, and was also strongly opposed to any scheme for the partition of the island. Fiscal autonomy was also demanded.

Captain Harrison, Secretary of the Irish Dominion League, submitted on behalf of the delegation a scheme based upon recognition of the Dominion status of Ireland, followed by the inauguration of a Constituent Assembly elected on a system of proportional representation on a wide democratic franchise. He also suggested that the six counties of Ulster should be entitled, after consultation, to vote themselves out of an all-Ireland scheme, subject to the right of the rest of Ireland to withdraw any concessions offered by a majority of the Irish people for the purpose of securing the adhesion of Ulster.

Would Give Strategic Guarantees.

BELFAST, Aug. 5.—"Provided the independent status of Ireland is recognized, Irishmen will be prepared to furnish international guarantees, properly incorporated in a peace treaty, to safeguard the strategic interests of the British Empire."

This, according to The Belfast Telegraph today, is a proposal for peace between the Sinn Fein and the Government, which was forwarded Sunday night to Premier Lloyd George.

The intermediary who has been endeavoring to arrange for direct negotiations between Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, and the Government, is declared by the newspaper to have formerly been a member of an internationally known Ulster firm.

There is to be a continuation of the Government's policy of using to the fullest extent its financial weapon on Irish public bodies declaring for republicanism.

A letter has been sent from the Chief Secretary's office to Irish county, borough and urban district councils saying that in view of resolutions passed by certain bodies in Ireland repudiating the authority of the Imperial Parliament, it is necessary for the Lord Lieutenant to withhold further payments from the local taxation in Ireland account to any local authority.

This, the letter adds, will continue until definite assurance is received from the county, borough and urban district councils sharing in such payment that they will distribute the money to the services to which they are assigned by statute, and will submit accounts to the local Government board for audit as heretofore, and will conform to the board's rules and orders.

De Valera Denies Secret Letter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," who is in Washington, sent a cable message today to Arthur Griffith, acting head of the "Republic," in which he denied a newspaper report that he had advocated colonial home rule for Ireland. The text of the message was made public at the De Valera headquarters here. It reads as follows:

"From cable dispatches published here it is evident that an attempt is being made to fool the Irish people into the belief that I have written a letter indicating that I would accept colonial home rule. I have, of course, never at any time written any such letter. Any one in possession of a letter of mine, no matter how confidential, on any such topic, is free to publish it.

"A New York newspaper correspondent specifically mentions today one of the members of the recent delegation to Lloyd George as saying he heard such a letter read at a meeting that preceded the appointment of the delegation. Let the letter be produced.

"Surely no one can think that now, when the republic is established, I would counsel a course which I refused to stand for when the republic was yet a hope. The whole thing is absurd."

Lloyd George Says All Necessary Steps Will Be Taken.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Premier Lloyd George, in answering a question in the House of Commons today as to how the Government proposed to deal with Archbishop Mannix, the Australian prelate, on his arrival, said the Government's decision was that the Archbishop should not be allowed to land in Ireland.

Such steps would be taken as were deemed necessary to make the decision effective, added the Premier.

Mannix Once Gallant to the Queen.

DUBLIN, Aug. 5.—The Dublin Corporation decided today to confer the freedom of the City upon Archbishop Mannix.

Alderman J. MacDonaugh said he thought they might take it for granted that whether Mannix landed at Queenstown or Liverpool he would come to Dublin.

A circumstance which has been overlooked in this controversy, but which is symptomatic of the change in the Irish attitude toward England, is that Archbishop Mannix, while President of Maynooth College, received the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra, and also King George.

On the former occasion, in 1903, the reception room was decorated with the colors and portraits of King Edward's horses, Persimmon and Ambush, and as Queen Alexandra looked around for a pair which to sign after signing the visitor's book, Dr. Mannix lifted up his toga, with its velvet edging, and presented it to the Queen as a pen wiper.

TO MAP A POWER LINE, BOSTON TO WASHINGTON

Government Survey Will Study Resources and Needs for Electricity Production.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A survey of electric power production and distribution methods in Eastern States between Boston and Washington, including a study of methods for the further utilization of water power in that zone, has been started by the United States Geological Survey, the director, George Otis Smith, announced today. The survey is being conducted under authority of Congress, which at the last session appropriated $125,000 for the purpose.

"The chief objective of the survey," Mr. Smith said, "is to investigate the possibilities of economy that might result from the establishment in the Boston-Washington industrial district of a general system for the generation and distribution of electrical power.

"The survey will also include research into the present and probably future demands of the area, including the possible future electrification of the railroads and more complete electrification of industries. All possible sources of power, developed and undeveloped, will be studied. It is estimated that only 10 per cent. of the power now used in the Eastern seaboard district is water developed."

The general power production and distribution system contemplated between Boston and Washington, as a result of the survey, Mr. Smith said, would consist of a main artery which would be fed from generating plants along the route, including plants already in use in the various cities. These city plants would sell surplus power to the general line. Feeders from the main artery would carry the power wherever needed in the district. Additional water power and steam generating plants, located with reference to the source of supply rather than the immediate demand, would be built to supply all the extra power needed.

W. S. Murray of New York is the consulting engineer in charge of the survey, with Lorin E. Imlay, Henry W. Butler and Carey T. Hutchinson as his chief assistants. The survey is expected to be completed in about eighteen months.

CITY PAY HEARING SET FOR MONDAY

New Schedule of Increases Suggested by the Mayor Will Be Discussed.

OPPOSED ONLY BY CRAIG

Twenty-two Per Cent. Rise Proposed for City Employes Receiving $1,500 a Year or Less.

After wrangling for hours yesterday the Board of Estimate decided to hold a hearing at 10:30 A. M. Monday on the new salary schedule for city employes suggested by the Mayor to take the place of the 20 per cent. flat increase he vetoed after it had been approved by the Aldermen and the Board of Estimate. The board, as a committee of the whole, voted to recommend the new salary plan despite opposition by Controller Craig.

The vote by the committee was 11 to 3, the Controller furnishing the only opposition. Borough President Curran of Manhattan did not cast his two votes. The decision to hold a public hearing Monday was made to placate the Controller, but it is expected that even if his opposition continues the board will have no difficulty in passing the resolution offered by President Reigelman of Brooklyn providing for the increases.

Various amendments were presented to the schedule by the Controller, President LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen and President Curran, but all but one were voted down. They will be presented again on Monday when employes whose increases have been reduced by the new schedule will be heard.

The new plan provides that employes receiving $1,500 a year or less shall get a 22 per cent. increase; employes receiving $1,501 to $2,499 a year, shall receive 20 per cent. increase, with a minimum rate of $1,830 a year; employes receiving $2,500 to $7,000 a year shall receive a flat increase of $500 and employes receiving over $7,000 a year shall get an increase that will make their salary not to exceed $7,500. Employes who receive maintenance allowances from the city are to receive one-half of the above increases, with a minimum of $100. Part time employes are to receive the same increases as full time, but will receive no minimum increase.

As the new schedules were received just as the members of the Board assembled, Controller Craig suggested that no action be taken until Monday, in order to provide time to study the new rates. President LaGuardia opposed the motion, stating that the 20 per cent. increase was passed the same day the schedules were received. President Curran wanted the increase for the $2,500 to $7,000 a year employes to be made $600 instead of $500. He was defeated in this, and then suggested that the 22 per cent. increase be extended to cover these getting $2,000 a year instead of $1,500. This amendment was also rejected.

The only amendment adopted was that of President LaGuardia to increase part-time librarians to share the same rate as other employes. On the final vote to delay consideration the Controller said the new schedules were being railroad through "without the public, who pay the bills, having a chance for a hearing." He said he considered the whole matter "monstrous."

1 DEAD, 1 SHOT, IN NEWS FEUD

Business Rivalry of Staten Island Brothers-in-Law Ends in Tragedy.

Bringing to an end a business feud of long standing, Abraham Friedman, 46, of 1,102 Bay Street, Rosebank, S. I., shot and wounded his brother-in-law, Isaac Hulnick of 1,146 Bay Street, and apparently believing he had killed him, shot himself through the head. Both were newsdealers, covering much the same territory.

Hulnick was at his stand at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning when Friedman appeared. The old argument was resumed, the police say, and during a bitter quarrel Friedman shot Hulnick twice. The bullets lodged in Hulnick's neck.

The shots were heard by Policeman Schindler, who ran toward the scene. Friedman saw the policeman coming and ran around the corner into St. Mary's Avenue. According to Schindler, he was rapidly overtaking Friedman when the latter, still running, fired a bullet into his temple and fell dead in the gutter.

Hulnick was removed to the Staten Island Hospital, New Brighton, where it was said his condition was not serious. He is married, as was the dead man.

We Just Heard This!

A MAN, 45 years of age, with a salary of $75 a week, met a friend at lunch, who told him that a friend of his had been advised by the Cashier in a brokerage office that Mr. So-and-So, the big market operator, was buying a certain stock, and had "tipped" it for a rise; and on this information, which had no more weight than a spider's web on a July hedge, the man of 45 risked and lost $4000 on a ten point margin.

That $4000 in Prudence-Bonds would have paid him $240 yearly and his principal would have been safe, too.

In the name of safety and stability, we advise you to look into Prudence-Bonds.

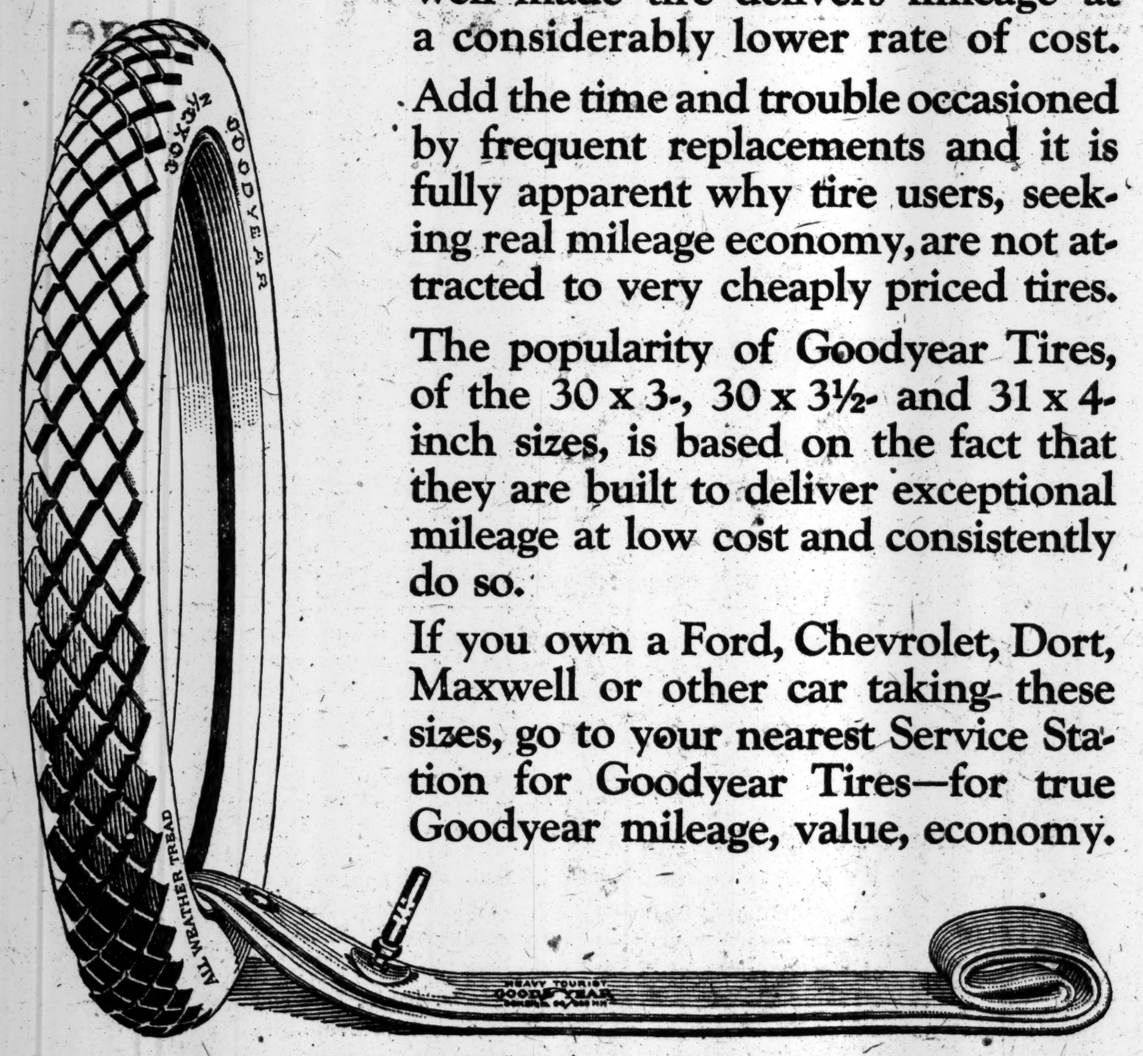
Low-Cost Mileage—in Goodyear Tires for Small Cars



There is no economy in buying so-called bargains in tires offered at sensationally cheap prices when a well-made tire delivers mileage at a considerably lower rate of cost.

Add the time and trouble occasioned by frequent replacements and it is fully apparent why tire users, seeking real mileage economy, are not attracted to very cheaply priced tires.

The popularity of Goodyear Tires, of the 30 x 3-, 30 x 3½- and 31 x 4-inch sizes, is based on the fact that they are built to deliver exceptional mileage at low cost and consistently do so.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires—for true Goodyear mileage, value, economy.

GOLF BODY DEFINES AMATEUR STANDING

Status of Professional Also Clarified in Conference at St. Andrews.

COMPROMISE ON STYMIE

Rule Will Not Apply If Player Lays One Himself—Lost-Ball Regulation Modified.

New definitions of professional and amateur golfers were adopted at the conference in June at St. Andrews, Scotland, between the U. S. G. A. Committee on Rule Changes and Great Britain's controlling body, according to the complete and official report issued last night by W. D. Vanderpool of Newark, Secretary of the U. S. G. A. Heretofore it had been believed that only modifications of the stymie and lost-ball rulings, together with a new standardization code for the manufacture of golf balls, were the points discussed at Scotland.

Evidence that the U. S. G. A. committee met the Britons more than half way is seen in the new definition of a professional. Henceforth he will be one who makes a profit out of his skill, as an instructor or competitor for cash prizes, but no longer is the golf course architect to be considered in this class. His amateur standing will be restored, and such an important concession would appear to allow such architects as Walter J. Travis, former amateur champion, to be reinstated.

Moreover, a clause distinctly prevents pros who have been in that class for five years or more from being reinstated. This indicates that Walter Hagen has absolutely no opportunity of becoming an amateur. It has been understood for some time that, now that he has entered the bond business and has quit teaching golf, he intended soon to apply for an amateur status. The definition declares further that a player may be reinstated only once, and that he must have acted so as to come within the definition of an amateur for three consecutive years immediately preceding the date of his application.

Amateur Definition Broader.

Likewise, the amateur definition is made broader. A player may not lend his name or likeness for the advertisement or sale of anything except as a dealer, manufacturer or inventor thereof in the usual course of business. The ruling against allowing one's name to be advertised as publisher of a book or author of newspaper and magazine articles, unless he is actually the author and writer, is continued. Two restrictions, applying both to amateurs and professionals, are made. They are to the effect that any one may be barred from amateur or professional tournaments who has acted detrimentally to the best interests of the game.

Other principal points attacked by the British and American committees were the stymie, unfairness of the former lost-ball rule and the standardization of the golf ball. Excerpts from the new code were announced by cable from England soon after the close of the conferences at St. Andrews, but no complete announcement comprising the whole scope of the investigations was made until yesterday.

It develops that there was the intention to put the new rules into effect before the national open championship tourney at Toledo next week, but it was later determined to have them go into effect Sept. 1, thereby making them applicable for the national amateur championship at Roslyn, L. I. The one exception is the clause standardizing the ball, which, it is understood, will not go into effect before May 1, 1921.

The purpose and aims of the U. S. G. A. committee are summed up as follows:

"When the special committee of the U. S. G. A. went abroad this Summer to confer with the Rules of Golf Committee of the Royal and Ancient Club, St. Andrews (which committee has jurisdiction over the rules in the United Kingdom), it had in mind not only the settling of certain points which had come up for decision, but the great importance of getting a settlement which would satisfy golfers throughout the world and preserve a uniform code of rules. The members felt strongly that any deviation from uniformity, however slight, would open the way to further differences which might in the end produce separate codes here and abroad, much to the detriment of the game."

British Favor Stymie.

The stymie presented the greatest difficulty because, broadly speaking, American public opinion is against the stymie and British sentiment favorable to it. Rather than continue it in England and abolish it entirely in America, a condition that might result in future unsatisfactory situations and differences, the committees finally agreed on a ruling which will be brought before the British body. In substance it is "if the opponent lays the player a stymie, the player may remove the opponent's ball; the opponent shall then be deemed to have holed in his next stroke." If the player lays himself a stymie the rule does not apply. Whereas this ruling does not abolish all stymies, it does do away with those not negotiable except where the player leaves himself a stymie. This means a real concession on the part of Great Britain.

Because of the further steps taken during the war by American ball manufacturers, the debate on standardization also presented difficulties. Britain wanted a large, light ball of the floater type and a maximum limit of 28 pennyweights. The U. S. G. A. could not vote for this since it was 7 per cent. lighter than most of the lightest balls used in the United States. America having taken the lead in developing the small, heavy ball. Again Britain conceded a great deal and the committees accepted a maximum limit of 1.62 ounces for weight and a minimum limit of 1.62 inches in diameter for size. This practically makes the American "thirty" ball the standard ball and bars such popular products as Spalding's "forty" and "fifty" and the Victor "seventy-five" for weight but not for size. Therefore the same moulds may be used, and the balls may be either larger or lighter than the "thirty" but not heavier or smaller.

Other Balls to be Barred.

While the U. S. G. A. cannot prevent the use of other balls in private matches, they will be barred in all tournaments, inducing the manufacturers to confine their efforts to the standard rubber core.

The new out-of-bounds ball rule permits of a provisional ball in each case to save time. It abolishes the extreme penalty on the ball driven out of bounds. Henceforth the penalty of loss of a stroke and distance will be the same as for the lost ball.

The new definitions and rulings follow:

Professional Definition.

A professional golfer is one who, after attaining the age of 16 years, has

(a) Carried clubs for hire;

(b) Received any consideration, either directly or indirectly, for playing or for teaching the game, or for playing in a match or tournament;

(c) Played for a money price in any competition.

The professional holds an advantage over the amateur by reason of having devoted himself to the game as his profession. He does not lose this advantage merely by deciding no longer to earn money by playing or teaching golf. Every application for reinstatement shall be considered on its own merits, as it is impossible to lay down hard and fast rules that would be just in all cases. In considering applications for reinstatement the following principles shall be observed:

(a) A player may not be reinstated more than once.

(b) Any applicant for reinstatement must have acted so as to come within the definition of an amateur golfer for a period of three consecutive years immediately preceding the date of the application.

(c) A player who has acted for five years or more so as not to come within the definition of an amateur golfer shall not be eligible for reinstatement.

Any club can elect professionals to its membership, and this does not affect either the status of these professionals or the amateur status of other members.

Amateur Definition.

An amateur golfer is one who, after attaining the age of 16 years, has not

(a) Carried clubs for hire;

(b) Received any consideration, either directly or indirectly, for playing or for teaching the game, or for playing in a match or tournament;

(c) Played for a money prize in any competition.

The following are violations of the above rule:

1. Lending one's name or likeness for the advertisement or sale of anything except as a dealer, manufacturer or inventor thereof, in the usual course of business.

2. Permitting one's name to be advertised or published for pay as the author of books or articles on golf of which one is not actually the author.

Rule 6—Amended.

A ball must be played wherever it lies, except as otherwise provided in the rules and local rules.

Note—The penalty for a breach of this rule shall be the loss of the hole in match play and disqualification in stroke competition.

Rule 21—Rule 12 Special Rules for Stroke Competition—Amended.

If a ball is lost, except in water, casual water or out of bounds, the player shall return as nearly as possible to the spot from which the ball was played, and drop another ball, with a penalty of one stroke. If the lost ball be played from the tee, the player may tee another ball for his next stroke.

Note—A provisional ball may be played.

Rule 11—Special Rules for Stroke Competition—Amended.

A ball may be lifted from any place in the course under penalty of stroke and distance. If a player lift a ball in accordance with this rule, he shall play his next stroke as nearly as possible at the spot from which the ball was played.

If the ball so lifted was played from the teeing ground, the player may tee a ball for his next stroke; in every other case the ball must be dropped.

Rule 23—Amended.

If a ball lies out of bounds, the player shall play his next stroke as nearly as possible at the spot from which the ball which is out of bounds was played under penalty of stroke and distance. If the ball was played from the teeing ground, the player may tee a ball for his next stroke. In every other case a ball shall be dropped.

Note: The penalty for a breach of this rule shall be the loss of the hole in match play and disqualification in stroke competition.

If it is doubtful that a ball be out of bounds the person who played it is not entitled to presume that it is out of bounds until he has made a search of five minutes for it. Meanwhile his opponent may make a search of five minutes for the ball within bounds, and if it is not found within that time the player who struck the ball shall be considered "out of bounds."

Provisional Ball Played—In order to save delay, if a player after making a stroke be doubtful whether his ball is out of bounds or not, lost or unplayable, he may play another ball as provided for in Paragraph 1 of this rule, but if it be discovered that the first ball is not out of bounds it shall continue in play without penalty. On reaching the place where the first ball is likely to be, if the player or his opponent be still in doubt, the player is not entitled to presume that the first ball is out of bounds until he has made a search of five minutes.

Stymie Definition.

A stymie is laid when both balls are on the putting green and the opponent's ball lies in any position which the player regards as interfering with his line to the hole, provided the balls be not within six inches of each other.

Stymie Rule.

"If the opponent lay the player a stymie the player may remove the opponent's ball; the opponent shall then be deemed to have holed in his next stroke."

Note: If the player, playing within the boundaries of the putting green, lays himself a stymie the rule does not apply.

Standardization Rule.

"The weight of the ball shall be not greater than 1.62 ounces and the size not less than 1.62 inches in diameter. The rules of the Golf Committee and the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association will take whatever steps they think necessary to limit the power of the ball with regard to distance should any ball of greater power be introduced."

Comment: The adopted revision of the rules by the U. S. G. A. requires the rewriting of several of the rules of golf affected by these changes. This will be accomplished as soon as the R. and A. Committee submits its draft for consideration by the U. S. G. A. Executive Committee so that the wording will be uniform in both countries.

Evans's Belated Entry Is Received for Inverness Golf

Chick Evans, one of three amateurs who ever won the national open golf championship and the only one who ever captured both the open and amateur titles the same season, will compete in next week's fixture at the Inverness Club, Toledo. It appears that he had expected Inverness would enter him, but when the U. S. G. A. list was announced Wednesday and his name was missing, he immediately wired W. D. Vanderpool of Newark, Secretary of the governing body. Evans is having one of his biggest seasons, having won the Western amateur championship two weeks ago, and his entry places him as the most formidable amateur who will play next week.

EXPECT HORDE OF GOLFERS.

Use of Ropes, Without Objectionable Shouting, Is Toledo Plan.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 5.—With the national open championship tournament of the United States Golf Association drawing near, the committee in charge at Inverness is facing a perplexing problem in the matter of taking care of the vast gallery that is expected to follow the noted professionals and amateurs of at least four countries.

Harry Vardon and Edward Ray of England are to play a best ball foursome against Charles Lorms and D. K. White, local professionals, on Sunday afternoon.

In addition to that match more than one hundred tournament entrants are to practice over the course on Sunday, according to the committee.

The tournament proper is to start Tuesday. More than two hundred of the best known golfers of the country are entered.

Inverness officials are to use ropes and linesmen, the latter armed with printed signs, to keep the crowd back. As little talking or shouting as possible is to be done, the rules provide.

As a matter of fact, the officials are relying to large extent upon the sportsmanship of golf enthusiasts to assist them in keeping perfect order on the course.

The entire event will be completed over the week-end. Among the individual stars who will be seen in action are the Andersons, Frank and Fred, Alfred D. Hammett, J. H. Steinkampf, Carl Joliffe, Willard Botsford, the Donaldsons, Charles Chambers H. B. O'Boyle and Anton von Bernuth.

OPEN TITLE OF WEST IS JOCK HUTCHISON'S

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Success comes to him who waits and after getting to the threshold of the Western open championship in the last three tournaments Jock Hutchison of the Glen View Club of Chicago today discovered the open sesame to the championship chamber.

Rounds of 71 and 80 in the final half of the tournament at Olympia Fields landed him the coveted title with a grand total of 296. One stroke behind him came Jim Barnes, the long Cornishman from St. Louis, Harry Hampton of Richmond, Va., who hails from Montrose, Scotland, and Clarence W. Hackney, a Carnoustie Scotchman, now at Atlantic City.

Behind this quartet of old country golfers came a group of home breds, W. Creavy of Kansas City, with 298; Eddie Loos of Ravisloe, 302; George Carney of North Shore, Chicago, a San Francisco boy, 304; J. J. O'Brien of Sistersville, and Emil Loeffler of Pittsburgh with 306.

Laurie Ayton, playing in his first big tournament in this country, landed last place in the money.

Another game battle by Jim Barnes gave the tournament a dramatic finish. Hutchison shot brilliant golf in the morning when he made a record score of 71 over the No. 1 course. This gave him a lead of nine strokes over Barnes, his most feared opponent, although young Creavy was only three behind.

Jock with his big lead started to play carefully, and he sailed along safely to the fifteenth green. At the sixteenth he topped his drive and then his iron shot found a cart rut. His niblick pitch found a trap and he took 2 to get out, finishing with a large 8. Following a par 4 at the seventeenth he sent his drive from the eighteenth tee to the right and then had to play to the left to escape trees. He took 6 to get down and finished with 80.

Hackney, who was paired with him, scored a great 70, coming home in 33. His drive landed in a hole and he played back, then approached to 20 feet from the cup and holed a 30-foot putt for a par 4. His eagle 3 on the thirteenth hole was a feature.

Two freak shots marked the day's play, Frank Adams of Winnipeg, holing for a 1 on the fourteenth hole, 135 yards long, and Louis Montreasor holing a mashie niblick pitch of 150 yards at the eleventh hole, 330 yards, for a 2.

There were a number of withdrawals, Fred McLeod and George Sargent, former national champions, finding the going too hard. William Rautenbuis, who won the championship of the American Expeditionary Forces at Nice, led the amateurs by a good margin.

Scores of prize winners for each round follow:

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Playing steady golf with a round of 77, J. Wood Platt, the Philadelphia city champion, won the medal in the qualification test of the invitation tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. There were close to ninety starters and so keen was the play that those with scores of 85 found themselves at the bottom of the first sixteen.

Frank Dyer of Upper Montclair and J. S. Worthington of Siwanoy both took 80 and they were closely followed by F. H. Gates of Montclair and Boyce Combe, who comes from Victoria, B. C. They had 81.

Had it not been for a poor finish, Maurise Risley, the Atlantic City star, might easily have been under 80. With three holes to play all he needed were par figures for a 77, but he missed a putt at the water-hole and took 4, pulled a drive out of bounds at the long seventeenth, taking 7, and sliced to a trap at the home hole, the slip costing a 5. As it was Risley returned 82, as did F. W. Knight of Whitemarsh.

Among those at 83 were Frederick Hall of Montclair, Richard A. Haight of Princeton, George Hoffner, the former Philadelphia champion, and Eugene Grace, President of Bethlehem Steel Corporation. The last-named player won here last year in the Fall meeting. His fourteen-year-old son Charles, playing in his first tournament today, qualified in the third sixteen.

MRS. BARLOW DEFEATED.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—Two very fine matches were played here today in the women's championship on the Shenecossett links. It surprised many to know that the present title holder, Mrs. Roland Barlow of Philadelphia, is out of the running, but she found a very strong opponent in Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, who had a round of 86. The match went to the last green with rather an awkward ending. Mrs. Barlow won the seventeenth to square the match, then drove into a trap at the eighteenth and after making three shots in the sand picked up and conceded her opponent the match. Miss Rosenthal started off by winning the first two holes, but Mrs. Barlow was all square at the fourth. It was a see-saw affair after this un to the last hole.

Another interesting match was played in which the other Philadelphia entry was compelled to surrender to better golf at the nineteenth hole. Miss Glenna Collet of Providence emerged victor over Mrs. M. R. Smith by winning the first extra hole after a tie at the eighteenth. Mrs. L. R. Porter of Norwich won the second flight when she defeated Mrs. J. C. Norris of New York.

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. PRINCESS MATOIKA, via Land's End, England, Aug. 5 (by wireless to The Associated Press).—The American athletes bound for Antwerp for the Olympic games completed their work on board the Princess Matoika today. The wrestlers, boxers and marathon runners worked the hardest of all. There will be only parade drills Friday. Land was sighted early this evening. The vessel is due to reach Antwerp late Saturday.

Everett Ellis of Syracuse University, an entrant for the decathlon, suffered a bad sprain today by falling on the deck.

Yankees to Play at Toledo.

TOLEDO, Aug. 5.—The New York American League Club will play an exhibition game with the Toledo club of the American Association here on Wednesday, Sept. 15, it was announced today by Roger Bresnahan. It is understood that one of the largest cash inducements ever asked for a single ball game was guaranteed by Bresnahan for the engagement. The amount was not made public, however.

HAL MAHONE BEST AMONG 2:05 PACERS

Loses First Heat in Sweepstakes at Toledo, but Then Wins Two Straight.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Hal Mahone won the sweepstakes for 2:05 pacers after losing the first heat to John Henry, and Great Britton won the Toledo Times 2:14 trot for three-year-olds, the features on today's Grand Circuit racing card at the Fort Miami track. The track was fast, the weather ideal and a large crowd turned out to see the sport.

Arion McKinney won his first race of the season on the Grand Circuit when he took the 2:12 trot, but four heats were necessary as Letanna S. came through in the second heat and Walnut Frisco won the third. The heat winners then raced it off and Arion McKinney led all the way.

John Henry led all the way in the first heat of the 2:05 pace, but Hal Mahone outpaced the son of Wilkie in the next two heats, beating him in the stretch drive.

Louis Grattan won over the favorite, Goldie Todd, in the 2:03 pace, in straight heats. The last quarter of the second heat was paced in 29 seconds.

Great Britton equalled the mark made by Day Star at Kalamazoo and now is tied for the fastest mile for three-year-olds this year. He stepped both heats of the 2:14 trot in 2:07 1-4.

MORE U. S. ATHLETES SAIL.

Gymnasts, Oarsmen and Rugby Players Leave for Olympic Games.

Gymnasts, oarsmen and Rugby players left for Antwerp yesterday afternoon on the United States transport Sherman. The athletes were accompanied by a number of Olympic and A. A. U. officials, who brought the number of the party up to thirty-seven. Roy Moore of New York was in charge of the contingent.

Prominent among the oarsmen were Jack Kelly, the national single sculls champion, and his rowing partner in the doubles, Paul Costello, both of the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia. Other sweep-swingers were the members of the Pennsylvania Barge Club four, which won the national title at the recent regatta at Worcester, Mass. The Penn oarsmen were Kent Myers, Carl Kloss and Franz and Erick Federschmidt, with Percy Wall and Sidney Mollard making the trip as substitutes.

The gymnasts who left yesterday were Frank Kriz, B. Jorgensen, Paul Krompel and John Mals. The rugby team is composed of California players entirely.

There was no complaints concerning the accomodations, the entire delegation being assigned staterooms. The teams will arrive at Antwerp in time for a short training before their contest in the Olympiad.

OLYMPIC SHIP NEAR LAND.

Princess Matoika Expected to Arrive at Antwerp Tomorrow.

ANTWERP, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—According to the latest information of the American Army authorities here, the transport Princess Matoika with the American athletes on board is expected to arrive at Antwerp Saturday. This will give very little time for training, particularly to the bicycle sprinters, who must race Aug. 9 in the Velodrome, where the Australians and others already have been at hard work.

Paul Pilgrim, assistant manager of the American team, today opened an information bureau for the Olympic contestants in connection with the general Olympic bureaus in Antwerp.

During the last few days there has been much rain, and the Canadians, Italians, Japanese and others in training in the stadium have found the track very heavy. The dirt and cinder paths have been somewhat damaged by the rain.

Pulling Together

ALREADY there is evidence that the majority of the shippers along the New York Central Lines realize the extent to which they can be helpful in relieving the present equipment shortage.

By loading cars to full capacity, and by being prompt in loading and unloading them, every shipper can aid materially. Two tons added to the average car load and a daily saving of one hour per car in loading and unloading would be equivalent to adding 300,000 cars to the country's available supply. Every shipper can thus contribute toward this substantial result.

The New York Central Lines meanwhile are putting all their strength behind their part of the problem. Every available means is being employed to speed up movement.

Under war pressure, only temporary repairs could be given to cars and locomotives. Consequently a greater number than ever before are forced now into the repair shops. Furthermore, the new equipment purchased during the war was wholly inadequate and left all the roads far behind the normal growth of the country.

It is only because the New York Central Lines, looking forward to future requirements, assumed financial burdens in the past, that they are now able to move so large a volume of traffic, as evidenced by the increase of 17% in passenger traffic and 11% in loaded freight cars handled during the first six months of 1920 over the corresponding months of last year.

Today this equipment would cost $245,378,150, an increase of $116,660,220 over the original investment.

Immediately following the termination of Federal control, the New York Central Lines placed orders for 196 locomotives, 265 passenger cars and 9744 freight cars, at a total cost of $49,543,035. In addition, the rebuilding of 1000 coal cars at a cost of $2,283,300 is under way. This additional equipment will be available for service this fall.

Even the sum of over $180,500,000, expended by the New York Central Lines for new equipment since 1914, large as it is, represents only a fraction of the financing required to enable the railroads to catch up with the growth of the country.

I Was a Hopeless Invalid. Now Look at Me!

Mr. William R. Mayberry of Mechanics Falls, Me., believes he holds the world's record for the number and variety of disease harbored in a single body at one time. He also believes he holds another world's record for covering the distance between total sickness and complete health.

Until a little more than one year ago Mr. Mayberry was the prey to almost every sort of chronic sickness one could possibly think of. Weak lungs—enlarged tonsils — adenoids — catarrh — varicose veins — hemorrhoids — broken arches — neurasthenia and hay fever are just a few of the ailments that were making his life miserable. "57 varieties of ill-health" is the way he describes his condition.

He was an addict to all kinds of medicine. Each new doctor gave him different treatments—but he grew steadily worse.

Then he found the road back to health. Today he is one of the healthiest individuals you will find in a day's walk.

Mr. Mayberry describes his method in complete detail in the remarkably inspiring article "How I Cured 57 Varieties of Ill-Health" in the August issue of PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Well or sick, don't fail to read it.

BANCROFT'S TRIPLE PUTS GIANTS ON TOP

He Atones for Costly Error by Hit That Wins First Game with Cubs, 2 to 1.

LOOK LIKE WORLD BEATERS

McGrawites Make Sizzling Plays Appear Easy and Both Teams Bat Against Superb Pitching.

An eye for an eye and a hit for an error is the motto of David Bancroft, and one that he lives up to. David made a very expensive error in the sixth inning of the opening game with the Cubs at the Polo Grounds yesterday. In fact, the bobble almost ruined the ball game for the Giants. The misplay let a runner score from third, gave the Cubs a 1 to 0 lead, and sent several thousand fans into deep depression. It was a dark outlook, especially with big Jim Vaughn breezing along in almost faultless style and keeping the McGraw clan far away from even first base.

But Bancroft had different plans about the matter. After ruminating darkly about his costly mistake for several minutes, David stepped to the plate in the Giants' half of the same frame and found two mates on the base lines, with two out. After fouling one vicious clout into the stand back of third base, David slammed a drive that sailed merrily over Robertson's head in left for a triple, two runs trickling across the platter. The smash gave the Giants the decision, 2 to 1, and shoved them one game nearer the Dodgers, who were being subjugated by the Pirates at Ebbets Field. The McGrawmen this morning are four games to the rear of Brooklyn and two and a half games behind the Reds.

The Giants did all the damage with two out. To start the sixth, Larry Doyle, who had got the only hit off Vaughn in the five preceding innings, lifted to Terry. Snyder sent a long fly which Paskert gathered in, leaving the entire issue up to Jess Barnes, who was on the mound for the Giants.

Jess is not a Ruth with the hickory, but he dropped a fly over shortstop that fell among a trio of Chicago players. Georgie Burns added to the gayety by driving a single off Deal's glove, the ball rolling to the foul line while Barnes drew up at second and Burns anchored at first.

Makes the Decisive Blow.

It was Bancroft's turn now and the short fielder made the fans forget all about his previous misplay afield by tripling over Robertson's head, scoring Barnes and Burns. Pep Young laid down a frail bunt that Deal snared with his gloved hand and threw to first, Bob Emslie calling Young out on a close play. Pep disagreed visibly with the verdict and let Robert have an earful.

The championship aspirations of the Giants were never rosier than yesterday. McGraw's men played a sparkling brand of ball behind the slab work of Jess Barnes, whose return to form was one of the most encouraging features of the afternoon's pastime. Jess was simply impregnable. He held the Cubs to two hits, pitched to only twenty-nine batters and gave nary a base on balls. One of the two bingles, a single by Buck Herzog in the first inning, was utterly wasted, Buck being nipped a few seconds later on an attempt to pilfer second. In the sixth Deal got the second hit, a triple to left with none down, and he scored on Bancroft's error on Daly's grounder. At all other times the Cubs went out in regular order and drove only two balls to the outfield in addition to the duo of hits. It was as scintillating an exhibition of twirling as the Polo Grounds will see this year.

Only a step behind the big right-hander was Jim Vaughn, who has always been a hard nut for the Giants to crack. He yielded four hits and only twenty-seven hitters waved their bludgeons in front of his curves in the eight innings that the Giants had to bat. Until the sixth the Polo Grounds clan had gone out in one-two-three order, Doyle's single in the third being the first hit. The veteran was immediately doubled when Snyder hit to Deal. Vaughn issued no walks and struck out three batsmen.

18,000 Greet the Cubs.

Some 18,000 fans gathered for the first game of the series with the Cubs, who are always dangerous despite their indifferent work on the present Eastern trip. The enthusiasts were rewarded with an air-tight battle, with sparkling fielding atoning for the light batting.

The Giant infield had a busy day. Only four balls were sent to the outer gardens and the inner works had to handle the rest. One fielding gem followed another, the final fireworks being displayed in the ninth, when all three of the Cub hitters were the victims of bits of highway robbery. Frank Frisch at third handled seven chances, many of them hard smashes, without a slip and Long George Kelly cavorted around first with all the abandon and grace of a Tenney. Doyle and Bancroft also contributed their share, the latter bringing the game to an end with a leaping catch of Herzog's line drive.

Sizzling Stops in the Ninth.

In the ninth the fielding display reached its climax. Fred Merkle, batting for Vaughn, drove a long grounder between third and short which Bancroft speared and threw while both his feet were off the ground. Flack then followed with a sizzling drive down the first base line that was ticketed for a double. Kelly, however, ambled over in the path of the flying sphere, grabbed it with his gloved hand, fumbled it slightly and recovered in time to toss to Barnes for an out. The third batter, Herzog, then lined in the general direction of left field, Bancroft soaring high enough to bring the drive to earth.

RAY GRIMES IN DEMAND.

Boston and New York Clubs Seek Services of Roy's Brother.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 5.—Both Boston and New York Major League nines are after the following Eastern League players:

Eddie Goebel, Springfield, outfielder, Ray Grimes, first baseman, Bridgeport, and Red Torpey, short stop, New Haven.

The Boston Red Sox have bid $7,500 for Goebel, while the Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers are also bidding for Grimes, whose twin brother, Roy, has joined the Giants. The Giants are after Bill Skiff, catcher of Bridgeport, and George Shinault, catcher, Waterbury. Catcher Johnny Nagle and outfielder Nutter, New Haven, are likely to go to the Boston Braves. The St. Louis Nationals have made a large offer for Torpey.

Curves and Bingles

Frankie Frisch had to hit the sod to get Paskert's grounder in the second, the ball narrowly escaping the Giant third baseman. After sprawling all over Henry Fabian's landscape, Frank struggled to his feet and nipped the speedy Paskert at first by several steps. In the third Frisch also made a nice play on Deal's hard drive.

It took exactly one hour and twenty-five minutes to play the game. Bill Klem hurrying up the contest almost as much as did Barnes and Vaughn with their pitching. The sixth was the only inning in which both sides did not go out in order.

Grover Cleveland Alexander is an obstacle that the Giants will still have to hurdle, with Vaughn out of the road for the present. The Chicago ace will probably twirl one of the games of today's double-header, which will get under way at 1:30. Benton and Douglas will probably be McGraw's nominations.

A double victory for the Manhattan clan today with a defeat for the Reds at Philadelphia would send the McGrawmen up to within one games of the champions. And if the Robins should fall again before Gibson's Pirates, the Giants would be only two and a half contests to the rear of the league leaders.

Frisch had a chance to show all his native Irish gallantry when a foul fly bounded onto a roll of canvas near one of the third base boxes. Frank and a fair occupant of the box reached for the ball at the same time, the Giant third baseman immediately retiring in confusion, with the ball in possession of the enemy. The feminine rooter, however, changed her mind, which is not unusual, and hurled the pill to the coaching line.

The Giants didn't wake up until they had defeat staring them in the face. Then they showed the same fighting spirit that has characterized all their recent play.

It was the eighteenth victory for the Giants in their last twenty-three games. They have now won eight out of nine on the present stand against the Western invaders.

RUTH'S HOMER ALL THAT YANKEES GET

Babe Slams Out His 39th Circuit Drive of Season, but Tigers Win, 7 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Babe Ruth his his thirty-ninth home run of the season at Navin Field this afternoon, and all the other Yankees hit the toboggan.

Babe's homer came in the second inning. He was the first batsman up and slammed one of Ehmke's shoots flat against the right field wall. The ball cleared a wire fence in front of the wall and bounded back onto the field. A ground rule decrees that any ball hit over this wire fence is out of the park and a home run. Ruth's bang today was one of the weakest of his four-ply swats and didn't clear the stockade. The wallop saved the Yankees from a shutout, the sad tidings being 7 to 1 in favor of the Tigers.

This homer gave the Yanks their only run and was the only thing that happened during the afternoon to call to any one's attention the fact that the Yankees were on the field at all. Bob Shawkey pitched another one of those games in which his clubmates are handcuffed behind him, and as Bob couldn't accomplish anything without a little aid from somebody, he got discouraged toward the end and in the eighth a stream of Tiger runs flowed over the plate in the wake of a smoking barrage of base hits.

Meusel and Bodie Way Off.

Bob Meusel in left field and Ping Bodie in centre played like a couple of novices. Heilman's home run in the fourth, which tied the lone score made by Ruth, got past Bodie because he played it badly. Young got a three-bagger in the fifth because Bodie failed to place his huge figure in front of the ball. Meusel in left handed Ty Cobb a two-bagger on a silver platter in the fifth, when he permitted the ball to drop a few feet at one side of him without even flirting with the pill.

The Yanks couldn't hit the ball out of the infield today. Howard Ehmke had the ball spinning at trick angles and made Huggins's lads look foolish. The Yanks acted this afternoon as if they wouldn't have been able to hit the ball if they had used snow shovels instead of bats.

The Yanks' slump has left the players listless and lifeless, and they lack the fire and aggressiveness which have characterized their play all season. Their zip appears gone, and their mental attitude also seems to have slumped.

Crowd Enjoys It, Anyway.

A crowd of about 8,000 came out to see Babe slam the ball, and they went away satisfied. The only bit of satisfaction the Yanks had was the news that Cleveland didn't play and that Chicago lost. Outside of those two things, they had nothing fit to think about.

Even reliable fielders like Peckinpaugh and Pratt had slippery fingers this afternoon, and made the poor work of the club unanimous.

Pep Young led the attack on Shawkey with four hits. Cobb and Veach got three apiece. The Tigers had a fine chance to see today just how they looked earlier in the season. In fact, Detroit should have had two dozen runs today instead of seven, for opportunity was hounding them from the start. Twice they had the bases full and let the scoring possibilities vanish.

Ruth wasted no time or effort when he first came to the bat in the second inning. He soaked the first ball that Ehmke chucked to the right-field wall for a homer. Meusel followed with a single to left, but Bodie blocked further progress by hitting into a double play. While Ping was at the bat he was hit on a sensitive knuckle of his right fin, but Umpire Bill Dineen refused to give him free passage. The accident caused Ping much mental and physical pain.

Shawkey Gets Out of Hole.

The Tigers were bent on trouble in the third, but Bob Shawkey's pitching upset their plans. Stanage walked, and Bodie made a fine catch of Ehmke's rocket. Young singled to left, sending Stanage to second. After Jones had flied to Ruth the crowd got very much excited as Cobb came to bat. Ty got an infield hit to second and filled the bases. Bobby Veach looked dangerous, but Shawkey did a commendable bit of pitching and struck him out.

Two Yanks had been disposed of when Ruth got a walk in the fourth. He went to seed at first when Meusel fanned.

Harry Heilman tied the score in the fourth. He cracked a home run to left centre, the ball hopping gayly past Bodie to the fence, where it carromed off toward the flagpole in centre field, Heilman having plenty of time to complete the circuit.

Bodie ambled in the fifth, and Ward hit a liner to Jones, who doubled Ping before he had even thought of getting back to first.

Pep Young poked a triple past Bodie in centre field in the fifth. Peck tossed Jones out at first, holding Young at third. Cobb hit a puny fly to left, which Bob Meusel played so badly that Ty got a two-bagger, Young scoring. Veach beat out a bunt and Ty went to third. Heilman fanned as Veach stole second. The crowd booed as Shawkey gave Chick Shorten an intentional pass, filling the bases. Shawkey buckled down and Pinelli rolled to Ward and died at first, bringing to a close a very ticklish situation.

Babe Aims at the Moon.

With one gone in the seventh Babe Ruth hit a foul so high over Stanage's head that it nearly knocked the catcher over when it came down and he muffed the ball. Babe then walked.

Veach cracked a two-bagger to right in the seventh with two out, but Bodie got Heilman's fly for the third out.

Shorten opened the eighth with a single to right and Pinelli laid down a bunt. Shawkey fanned Stanage and Ehmke aided his own cause by slapping a single to centre, Shorten scoring. Bodie made a good toss home and the play at the plate was close.

The argument which customarily accompanies Dineen's officiating followed, Hannah kicking so much that he was exiled from the game. Ruel went behind the bat. Young doubled to right centre, Pinelli scoring and Ehmke taking third. Jones rolled to Peck, who threw Ehmke out at the plate. Cobb singled to right, scoring Young. Ruth made a fine throw to second and Pratt had Cobb nailed by three feet, but dropped the ball. Veach plastered a single to right and scored Jones and Cobb. Veach was trapped between first and second for the final out.

Pipp beat out a hit to the infield in the ninth and Pratt sided to Veach. The best that Ruth could do this time was to hit a grounder to Pinelli, who threw him out at first. Meusel ended the game by dying without a struggle, Jones to Heilman.

DODGERS DEFEATED IN EXTRA INNING

Pirates Burich Hits Off Grimes in Tenth and Win Exciting Struggle, 8 to 5.

The Fraternal Order of Brooklyn Boosters are hoarse and the rubber plants are drooping and everything. Water may revive the rubber plants, but water won't do the Boosters any good—not the way they feel this morning. By and large, Brooklyn is in the doldrums, so to speak. And all because the peaky Pirates won a ten-inning argument from the doleful Dodgers at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon. After everything that happened some one with a turn to figures declared that the final score was Pittsburgh 8, Brooklyn 5, quite a convincing margin, even though it requires overtime work to establish it.

Three bouncing baseballs played quite a prominent part in the proceedings. Charley Ebbets's backyard seems to be full of hard spots, and when a baseball and a hard spot collide there is only one thing left for the baseball to do. That's bounce. The first of the springboard hits gave Burleigh Grimes a triple in the fifth inning, driving in two runs and putting the pitcher in position to score the tying run himself. The second of the rubberized bingles was registered in the eighth inning and enabled Pittsburgh to tie the count. The third came in the tenth and signalized the start of the final rally that carried the Pirates to victory.

Carlson Is Believed.

Carlson started the game for the Smoketown clan, but a safe and sane policy finally demanded his arbitrary recall by George Gibson without referendum and the substitution of a pinch hitter, who didn't do much pinching, and the eventual nomination of Hamilton to finish the game. To Hamilton goes the credit for winning.

Two errors, one of omission and the other of commission, scuttled Brooklyn's ship in the tenth. Bigbee started the inning by being thrown out by Kilduff, but Carey injected an infield single and Southworth got a base on balls. Then Whitted bounced to Grimes, who wheeled to throw to third base. Carey would have been an easy force-out, but no one covered third, and the bases were loaded. Cutshaw singled to centre and Carey and Southworth scored. Grimm followed by grounding to Konetchy. Had Koney handled the ball cleanly, the result might have been a double play. He might have been able to touch Grimm on the line and whip the ball to the plate ahead of Whitted. At any rate, he would have been able to kill Whitted off at the plate; but the Dodgers' first baseman fumbled, and the beans were scattered all over the Flatbush plains.

The Pirates didn't even stutter in getting under way. The first peanut had scarcely been cracked and the first ice-cream cone dented when they laid the foundation for their victory. In other words, in the first inning Pittsburgh cashed in two hits for a run. Bigbee had been disposed of by Kilduff and Konetchy before Carey tacked a triple on his record by hitting to right. He hardly hesitated at third before Southworth bumped a single to left on which Carey checked in. The rest of 'em, Whitted and Cutshaw, just filled out the inning.

The Dodgers came to life in the second, when a triple and a sacrifice fly formed a run-making combination. Myers opened with a triple to right centre, but Koney popped to Grimm. Kilduff's fly to Southworth, however, was deep enough to permit Myers to score.

Homer for Bigbee.

It was in the fifth that the Pirates again asserted themselves. They combined three hits for three runs, one of the hits being a homer by Bigbee. Grimm singled to short, and Caton's blow to right for a base was robust enough for Grimm to scamper to third. He scored while Kilduff was throwing out Haeffner. Bigbee turned a curve into a fast one to the fence in right centre. It was a home run, Caton scoring ahead of him.

In their half the Dodgers tied the score. With one down Kilduff walked and took second on Miller's single to centre. It was then that Grimes got his lucky triple, scoring Kilduff and Miller. Grimes also scored on Olson's single through Cutshaw.

Brooklyn took the lead in the seventh. Singles by Miller, Olson and Johnston turned the trick. Pittsburgh tied the score again in the eighth on a single by Bigbee, who stole second, and scored on Southworth's lucky bounce over Olson's head. Then followed the blowoff in the tenth.

CHICAGO PLAYS POORLY.

Red Sox Win, 4 to 2, Over Indifferent Work by Opponents.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Chicago today showed effects of the strenuous series just closed with New York, and played indifferent ball against Boston, the latter winning 4 to 2, by bunching hits in the third inning for a lead which Chicago could not overcome.

WASHBURN TO MEET DAVIS FOR TITLE

Defeats Mathey in Notable Tennis Match at Seabright by a Close Score.

ROBERTS IN LOSING FIGHT

Californian Defeated in Straight Set, Slam-Bang Encounter by 6-3, 6-2 6—2—Miss Zinderstein Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Sound tennis asserted itself on the courts of Seabright today, and the surviving finalists in the invitation singles, Watson M. Washburn and Willis Davis, realized the expectations of those who had closely followed the development of the tournament as a whole. Washburn defeated Dean Mathey in a brilliant semi-final by scores of 2—6, 6—2, 6—2, while Davis eliminated his fellow Californian, Roland Roberts, in decisive fashion, 6—3, 6—2. Miss Marion Zinderstein and Miss Eleanor Tennant became finalists in the women's singles and also won the doubles in partnership, defeating the New York State champions, Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Clare Cassel, in the final round, 6—3, 6—2.

The conclusion of the men's team event, which is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, brings Boston against New York, Richard Harte and G. Colket Caner, in the upper half, surviving against Beals Wright and W. M. Washburn, who unexpectedly eliminated the Californians, Roberts and Griffin, in straight sets.

Of the two big singles matches yesterday that of the Easterners produced by far the better tennis and was also much more closely fought than the slam bang struggle of the Californians. Mathey's play, particularly in the opening set, was a revelation, while Washburn steadily raised his standard of performance as increasing brilliance became necessary. The winner was slow in getting control of his shots at the start, and wasted many points in the opening set trying for the fine placements which Mathey's stubborn defence demanded. But as he gradually found the range of the court, Washburn became more and more accurate, until eventually he was able to plant the ball within inches of the desired spot, forehand or backhand. His speed also increased steadily and in the later stages of the match he occasionally resorted to volleying in the pinches. This weapon, however, he kept in reserve until his ground strokes were in thorough working order.

Starts With Love Game.

Mathey began with a love-game on service, and then immediately broke through the opposing delivery for a lead which he increased to 3—0 on his own. They alternated in winning games after that, until at 5—2 Mathey secured another break, a net-corder bringing up the set point, with an error completing the 6—2 score against Washburn.

The second session, however, was a different story. Mathey lost his opening service on two successive double faults, and Washburn made it 2—0 with a love-game. Another break in the fifth game had Mathey trailing at 3—4 and when Washburn again won his serve, the squaring of the match became a certainty. Mathey took a love-game in a last effort to pull up, but Washburn served it out at 6—2, bringing up the set point with a sideline placement and then winning on a high-bounding service which Mathey could not return.

Both men were moving at top speed in the rubber and for the first four games it was all even. Then Mathey, leading at 40—15 on his own service, lobbed one just out and followed the error with two double faults in succession. With the chance for a break unexpectedly presented, Washburn puffed the chalk of the side-line with an amazing drive and took the decisive lead at 5—2. He advanced to 4—2 on service, after which two more double faults again put him in a winning position. Mathey fought hard to get out of the hole, but after some sensational rallies he smashed out on a difficult chance, and with his failure to reach the next one, the score stood 5—2 against him.

Washburn served a deuce game for the finish, with the match point twice on the carpet. An error spoiled his first chance, but with vantage called in his favor he found an opening and whipped over a backhander for a clean pass that settled the affair at 6—2. The score by points was as follows:

FIRST SET.

								Total Pts.	G.
Mathey	4	5	4	2	4	0	4	5—28	6
Washburn	0	3	1	4	2	4	2	5—19	2

SECOND SET.

Washburn	4	4	2	4	6	4	0	4—28	6
Mathey	1	0	4	2	4	1	4	1—17	2

THIRD SET.

Washburn	2	4	2	4	5	4	6	5—32	6

A Warm Pace.

As compared with the foregoing exhibition, the Davis-Roberts match was disappointing. Where the Easterners played for every point with court strategy, finesse and a wealth of detail, the Californians hammered every rally into oblivion in two or three shots at most. Often it was merely a question of whether the first one to attack the ball killed it outright or made an error, and in the balance of such decisive plays Davis had a big advantge. He soon proved himself able to make his ground-strokes more dependably and accurately than Roberts, and his service also was consistently the more effective of the two.

The opening set was an alternation of service up to 2—1, with Davis leading. Then Roberts dropped his delivery with his first double fault, and after Davis had made it 4—1 with a love game, a second break boosted his lead to 5—1, with Roberts utterly unable to handle his drives. Errors, however, delayed the finish of the set and Davis dropped his service for the only time during the match. Roberts won another on his own delivery before the decision was completed against him at 6—3.

Davis had a lead of 5—1 in the second set as well, getting his first break immediately with the aid of another double fault, moving up to 3—1 with a love-game, which ended in a clean service ace and then taking two more, regardless of who put the ball in play. Roberts managed to squeeze out a deuce game for his second tally of the set and Davis easily served himself to a 40—0 score, which brought up the match-point with plenty to spare. A clean passing drive, with Roberts anchored in mid-court, ended matters at 6—2. Following is the score by points:

FIRST SET.

								Total Points.	Games.
Davis	4	1	4	4	4	1	0	5—27	6
Roberts	1	4	0	2	0	4	4	3—20	3

SECOND SET.

Americans to Meet Davis Cup Holders in December

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 5.—Play for the Davis Cup between the American team, as challengers, and the Australasians, present holders, has been fixed to take place at Auckland Dec. 28, 29 and 31.

It has already been announced that the American team will sail on or about Nov. 10, and the scheduling of the matches at the very end of December will give ample time for practice on the courts of New Zealand after its arrival. The make-up of the challenging quartet is not yet decided and may be affected by the results of the national and other tournaments still to be played this season.

REACH FINAL ROUND ON HOBOKEN COURT

Baggs and Stockton Defeat Oelsner and Joliffe in Doubles at Castle Point.

Fred C. Baggs and J. P. Stockton became finalists yesterday in the open doubles tournament of the Hoboken Tennis Club, at Castle Point, defeating Edward Oelsner and Carl Joliffe in a straight set semi-final, 6—4, 6—3. S. E. Palmer and F. D. Powers of the Glen Ridge Club, entered the semi-finals in the lower half by eliminating Henry Parsons and Thomas M. Day, 3d, in three sets scored 3—6, 6—3, 6—2, and will play Alfred D. Hammett and Embree H. Henderson of the University Heights Club this afternoon to decide what other team shall figure in the final round tomorrow.

Baggs and Stockton showed greatly improved form in yesterday's victory, and now look like dangerous contenderrs for first honors. They ran into a lead of 4—1 in their first set against Oelsner and Joliffe, but were caught when their opponents steadied down for a pull-up. A slight inpse in speed, however, turned the tables again, and the set went to Baggs and Stockton at 6—4.

In the second set Oelsner served with remarkable effect, taking two love games on his own delivery, but in spite of this individual brilliance, his side lost the match at 6—3.

Palmer and Powers were too stubborn in their getting, and pulled out a victory over Parsons and Day after being cleanly outplayed in the opener. Persistent steadiness told the story, the losers eventually throwing away the match on their own errors.

CAREFUL FLASHES OVER LINE AHEAD

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Coming back in grand form after a rest of nearly a month, Walter J. Salmon's fleet little filly, Careful, demonstrated today that she is still as fast as when she was the sensation of the two-year-old division early in the season. With her usual impost of 127 pounds she added the Schuylerville Stakes to her long list of victories after conceding much weight to all of her five rivals over the course of five and a half furlongs.

It was not an easy victory for Careful, for at a distance of half a furlong more than she had previously tried she found the weight a heavy burden, and just lasted to win by a head from P. A. Clark's Nancy Lee, while H. P. Whitney's Charity was third. However, Careful had all the speed of the race, and in addition showed great courage at the finish. It was probably the best race she has run this year.

Careful ran the five and a half furlongs in 1:05 3-5, which is a second slower than the track record for the distance—1:04 3-5, which was made by John Sanford's Tuscaloosa in 1918. The latter carried but 107 pounds, however, while Careful was burdened with 127, and therefore her performance is the more creditable of the two.

The last time Careful ran she was defeated by H. P. Whitney's Crocus, and it was thought that she was going back. As a consequence she was held at 9 to 5 today, whereas she was an odds-on choice in her other starts. Mr. Whitney had two fillies in the race, Pantalette and Charity, and the latter managed to get third after a slow break, but was never a contender for first honors.

Pace Stops Believe Idle Hour.

E. R. Bradley's Believe Idle Hour, which won a reputation in Kentucky, was well supported by Westerners, but found the speed and class too much for her. In addition she ran away for a quarter of a mile before the race and acted very badly at the post. In spite of that the Bradley filly was away with a dash as the barrier went up, closely followed by Careful, which was soon head and head with Believe Idle Hour. These two raced out to a lead of six lengths over the balance of the field, and at the turn Careful had raced her Western rival into submission. Believe Idle Hour dropped back and ceased to be a factor.

Nancy Lee broke slowly, but closed gradually and at the turn into the stretch was about four lengths back of the Salmon filly. As the horses dashed through the stretch the weight began to tell on Careful, and despite her game efforts Nancy Lee gained on her steadily until at the sixteenth pole it appeared as if Careful would lose. She fought it out gamely and succeeded in getting her head over the wire first. Nancy Lee would probably have been the winner in a few more strides.

The Whitney pair, Pantalette and Charity, failed to show the speed claimed for them. Pantalette rushed forward in the backstretch and threatened to get up with the leaders, but the effort told on her and she dropped back again. Charity was almost last to leave the barrier and was slow to get into her stride, but once in motion she closed a big gap and finished with a dash that took her into third position, about two lengths in front of Believe Idle Hour.

Krewer Shows Way to Blazes.

S. C. Hildreth's Krewer, which had never come up to expectations this season, finally caught every one napping in the final race, a high weight handicap at six furlongs, and scored his first victory of the year by defeating no less a sprinter than Ral Parr's Blazes, with Samuel Ross's Crank third among eleven starters. Krewer paid 6 to 1 and had but few supporters as both Blazes and Crank were heavily played, the latter being favorite.

Krewer was fortunate in that Blazes suffered interference early in the race for when the Parr colt got through into the clear in the stretch he closed with a rush. However, he had been in such close quarters rounding the turn that he had to be taken back and meantime Krewer, almost unobserved, had come through back of Crank. Blazes was trying desperately to get up to Crank in the stretch drive and while these two were fighting it out Krewer came with a rush on the outside and won by a length. Blazes, with 126 pounds up, ran a creditable race and in the last few strides got up to take second from Crank by a neck. Brookholt was a contender for a short time, but could not keep up with the leaders.

$10,000 FOR BAY COLT.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Commander J. K. L. Ross paid the highest price that was realized for any of the yearlings of the Beaumont Stud which were disposed of at the sales ring here tonight. The Canadian sportsman gave $10,000 for a bay colt by Ultimus out of Xaree, and, therefore, a half brother to Motor Cop, the fleet sprinter which has scored so many victories under the Ross colors.

This Ultimus colt was bid up quickly, but Commander Ross had evidently made up his mind to have him. If the colt turns out to be anywhere near as good as Motor Cop, his purchase price will be considered low.

There were thirty-two yearlings offered at the sale, and the next best figure was obtained for a brown colt by Ultimus out of Paramount, which brought $6,000, the purchaser being Fred Johnson. A chestnut colt by Uncle out of Broomleaf was sold to J. C. Milan for $4,700.

In addition to the yearlings there was offered the broodmare Royal Ensign, by Ultimus-Amarella, which is now five years old. Royal Ensign went to Sam C. Hildreth for $6,500.

CHALLENGE COMING, TELEGRAPHS ROSS

Canadian Says Conditions Imposed by New York Yacht Club Will Be Fulfilled.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—A. C. Ross, Canadian yachting enthusiast, tonight telegraphed J. Pierpont Morgan, Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, that the latter would soon receive a challenge for the America's Cup from an organized Canadian yacht club—a condition imposed by Mr. Morgan before submitting Mr. Ross's informal challenge to New York Yacht Club officials.

"Thanks for your message regarding conditions under which yachts may challenge for your cup," read Mr. Ross's message. "You will receive by letter in a few days a challenge from a duly organized yacht club on the seaboard of Canada to compete for your cup in 1922."

Mr. Ross expressed himself confident of being able to raise by public subscription a fund of $1,000,000, or even $2,000,000, if required to supply Canada with a challenger. He said he had already received a number of subscriptions, and a committee will be appointed by Canadian yacht clubs to guard this fund.

BANDITS GET $3,000 IN RAID ON BATHS

MISS $30,000 IN BOXES

Door of Big Safe Containing Valuables Wide Open, but Men Apparently Lose Their Nerve.

Five smartly dressed young bandits drove up in an automobile to the Lenox Baths, at 115th Street and Seventh Avenue, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and stole eleven deposit boxes in which patrons had stored their valuables. In their hurry they left more than 150 deposit boxes behind and obtained an aggregate plunder of between $2,000 and $3,000, whereas the total valuables on deposit was estimated at about ten times that amount.

Edward Handler of 1,154 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, the assistant cashier, was on duty in the office when the five men entered the place. They ranged from 20 to 25 years in age, according to Handler, and were all unmasked and smooth shaven. When he approached the window of the office door, through which the business of the establishment is done, Handler found several revolvers pointing at him. He threw up his hands when commanded, then opened the door and was marched with a revolver near the small of his back to a large room on the ground floor in which scores of patrons were asleep on cots.

Morris Hochman, an employe in the dormitory, rose sleepily when the assistant cashier and the two bandits entered. One of the bandits struck him on the jaw and Hochman rolled over on the floor. After this incident all was quiet in the dormitory. The bandits escaped before the alarm was spread among the 200 bathers.

The bandits evidently lost their nerve while plundering the office. The big vault containing the deposit boxes was wide open, but only eleven boxes, or one or two armfuls, had been removed. In two or three minutes the bandits could easily have loaded all of the boxes, which are about three inches square at the end and a little more than a foot long, into the automobile. Five o'clock in the morning, however, is a fairly busy hour at the baths and the robbers probably quit work in fear of interruption.

The heaviest loser was said to be Gregory Weingarten, an electrician of 230 Grand Street, who reported that he had lost $800 in cash. Detectives obtained fairly complete descriptions of the men, who are believed to have been implicated in automobile holdups.

FRESH AIR FOR DOOMED MEN

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Aug. 5.—Murderers confined in Sing Sing's death house have inaugurated a new practice whereby some of them will waive their right to fifteen minutes "outing" from their cells daily so a prisoner about to be executed can have more recreation.

Just before Elmer Hyatt of Rochester was executed last Thursday, some of the condemned men asked the officials if they might remain in their cages and let Hyatt stay in the exercise yard during the periods that were due them. The officials consented and for two days before execution Hyatt got plenty of exercise and fresh air to brace him for the ordeal he faced. Most of the slayers in the death house have stated their willingness to sacrifice their "recesses" out of doors a few days before five condemned men go to the chair the night of Thursday, Aug. 26. Andrew Di Carlo of Elmira, John Egan of the Bronx, Antonio Sansone of Manhattan, Frank Kelley of Brooklyn and Michael Cassalino of Queens are to be executed then unless Governor Smith grants executive clemency.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The War Department announced today that Alexander A. Allen, Sergeant, Quartermaster Corps, died at Coblenz, Germany, July 26, 1920, of accident; home address 328 Greenwich Street, San Francisco. Emergency address Mrs. Mabel Barnes, sister, 328 Greenwich Street, San Francisco.

Suspend Long and Short Haul Clause

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The railroads of the country were authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the new freight rates and passenger fares until Nov. 1, without observing the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce act.

GERMAN RED AGENT CAUGHT IN CHICAGO

Editor of Der Klassen Kampf Arrested After Three Years' Search by Authorities.

WANTED AS DRAFT DODGER

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—John Alexander, alias John La Granch, a Russian, and, according to the police, an anarchist and chief agent of German Communist propaganda in the United States, was run down after a three-year search and placed under arrest here.

Alexander, who was the editor of Der Klassen Kampf (The Class Struggle) has been enjoying Uncle Sam's hospitality since early in 1915, when he fled from England to avoid military service. He had previously fled from Germany, the country of his adoption, for a similar reason. He had just become comfortably settled in New York and prepared to disseminate his radical programme when Uncle Sam upset his plans by entering the war himself.

Alexander found himself in a quandary. If he disclosed his nationality and his status he would be interned. He decided to proclaim himself an American citizen and seek exemption. He was placed in Class 5. Later, however, he was advanced to Class 1A. That meant he would have to fight. He fled from New York and found sanctuary at Mountain Vell, in the Adirondacks. He remained there until after the armistice was signed.

His diligent pen was not idle. Besides being in close touch with enemy propagandists, he maintained a ceaseless output of revolutionary writings. Secret Service operatives, however, threatened to trace this matter to its source, and Alexander determined to thwart them.

His key, or master code, was the result. This invention, which resembles a last year's Sam Lloyd puzzle, proved eminently satisfactory. Alexander supplied it to radicals throughout the United States. Secret service operatives estimated that 10,000 of them were in use at one time.

After the armistice was signed Alexander removed to Chicago. Soon afterward he assumed the editorship of Der Klassen Kampf. This had been suppressed during the war. The police here raided his office at 405 West Division Street last May, but he evaded them.

He was found today in his rooming place, 1,953 Hudson Avenue. With him was his secretary, Carl Brockmiller. They were arrested by the police headquarters bomb squad.

Detectives said the Federal authorities were investigating information that Alexander was planning to import a colony of radicals from Germany and Russia.

The Department of Justice charges that by forging passports, Alexander assisted two alleged enemies of the country, named Hoffman and Burton, to escape two months ago to Germany, and since then has been receiving from them Communist literature for distribution.

Acting on information that Alexander was distributing literature of the German Communist Party in New York City, Detective Sergeant Egan went to New York several weeks ago. On his arrival there he learned that Alexander intended to come to Chicago and decided to avoid extradition proceedings by permitting his quarry to pay his own fare here. Alexander arrived here early this week, it is said, and Egan, after watching his actions, caused his arrest.

GOV. SMITH TO TOUR STATE.

He Will Start Speaking Campaign When Nominated in September.

ALBANY, Aug. 5.—Governor Smith expects to conduct a State-wide speaking campaign for re-election this Fall. He said today that he intended to appear in every part of the State that he could reach without neglecting the work of his office.

"I have not been nominated yet," he said, with a smile, "and so must wait until after the primaries on Sept. 14 before I start on my speaking tour."

No decision has been reached on the question of calling an extraordinary session of the Legislature to consider the housing situation.

The Governor said that the personnel of the new State Athletic Commission and Licensing Committee that will have supervision over boxing bouts would be announced probably by Saturday, or possibly tomorrow.

F. D. Roosevelt to Visit West Twice.

PUEBLO, Col., Aug. 5.—In a telegram to William Fraley McCafferty, local newspaper writer, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, said he would make a second Western speaking trip in October and would at that time visit Pueblo and other Colorado cities. Colorado is not on the itinerary of his first Western swing during August.

LABOR INDICTMENT SEALED.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—While John Grunau, President of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, was trying to obtain an interview with President Wilson the Federal Grand Jury here returned forty-one sealed indictments before Judge Alschuler against certain "outlaw" leaders. It is not known whether Grunau was named in the indictments, as they will not be made public until the manner in which the voting of the indictments was made known yesterday has been investigated.

"There has been a breach of faith on somebody's part here," the Judge said in court today, "and whether this offense is punishable or not, we must push this investigation until the stigma has been fastened on the man who has turned traitor to his Government."

Judge Alschuler assured District Attorney Clyne that he would be the last person to suspect members of the Department of Justice as responsible for the "leak."

PENSION SING SING KEEPERS

Major Lawes Announces Retirement of Capt. Vaughn and Three Others.

OSSINING, Aug. 5.—Major Lewis E. Lawes, Warden of Sing Sing Prison, today announced the retirement on pension of Captain Claud H. Vaughn, who narrowly escaped being killed when Oresto Shillitano escaped from the death house four years ago; Keeper Lawrence Murphy and Keeper Michael Mullins. The retirement of Martin Gallagher, parole agent, and the appointment of Alexander Bohn to succeed him also was announced.

Captain Vaughn had been in the service thirty years and had met more than 20,000 criminals. He was appointed as a keeper by Warden Augustus A. Brush in 1890.

Murphy was appointed by Warden W. R. Brown in 1892. While he was trotting a race horse for Warden Brown on the ice on the Hudson River on Jan. 9, 1893, Fred King, a "trusty" in Murphy's custody, stole Murphy's uniform coat and hat and escaped. Lately Keeper Murphy had acted as a bodyguard to Executioner John Hulbert.

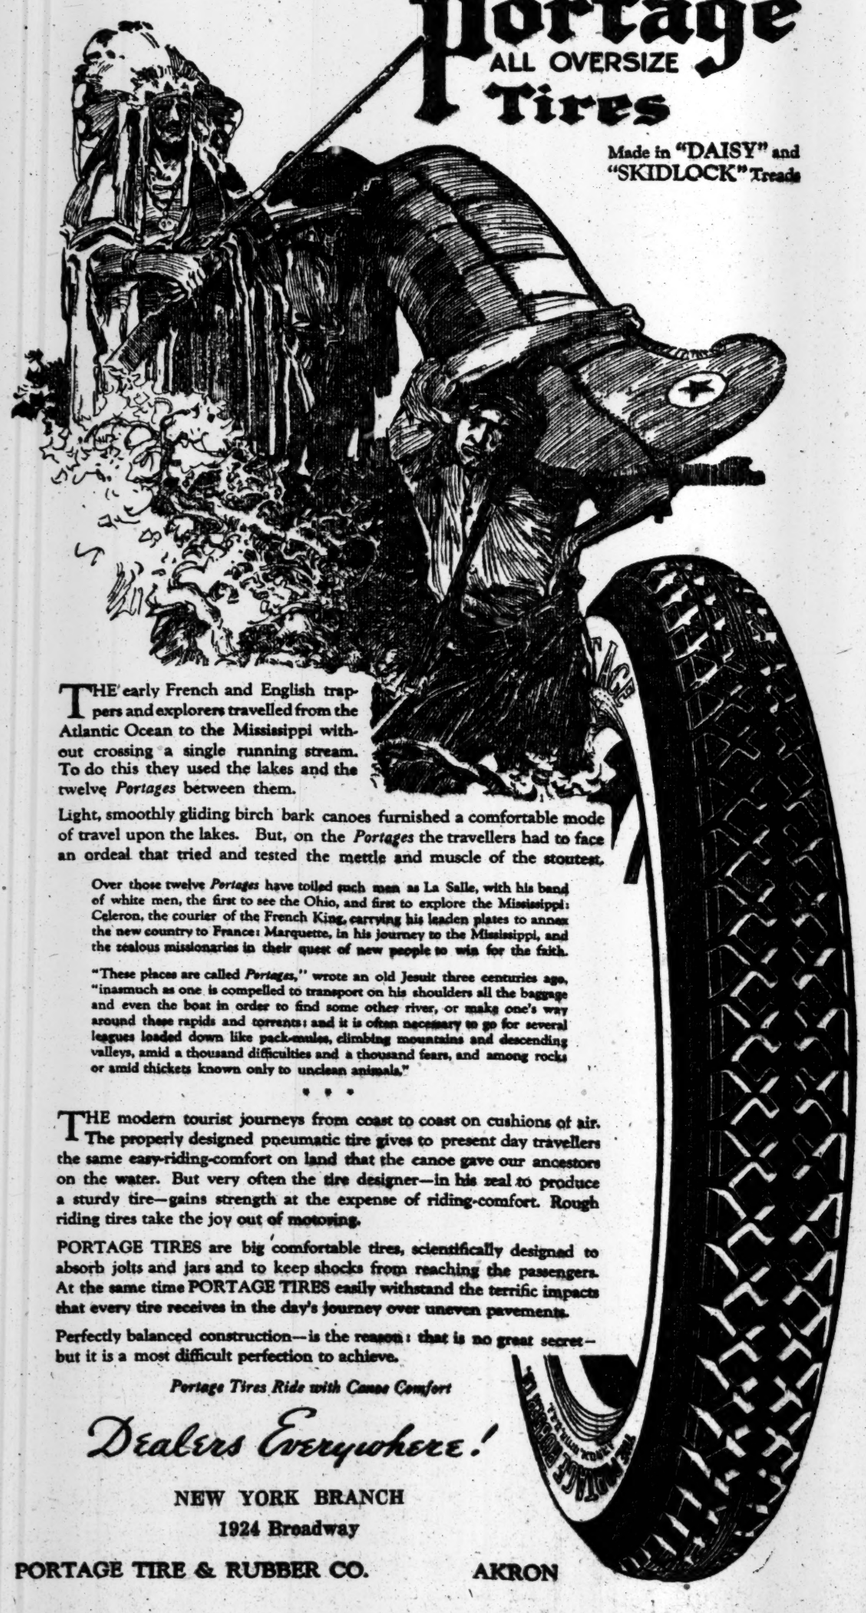
Portage
ALL OVERSIZE
Tires

Made in "DAISY" and "SKIDLOCK" Treads



THE early French and English trappers and explorers travelled from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi without crossing a single running stream. To do this they used the lakes and the twelve Portages between them.

Light, smoothly gliding birch bark canoes furnished a comfortable mode of travel upon the lakes. But, on the Portages the travellers had to face an ordeal that tried and tested the mettle and muscle of the stoutest.

Over those twelve Portages have toiled such men as La Salle, with his band of white men, the first to see the Ohio, and first to explore the Mississippi: Celeron, the courier of the French King, carrying his leaden plates to annex the new country to France: Marquette, in his journey to the Mississippi, and the zealous missionaries in their quest of new people to win for the faith.

"These places are called Portages," wrote an old Jesuit three centuries ago, "inasmuch as one is compelled to transport on his shoulders all the baggage and even the boat in order to find some other river, or make one's way around these rapids and torrents: and it is often necessary to go for several leagues loaded down like pack-mules, climbing mountains and descending valleys, amid a thousand difficulties and a thousand fears, and among rocks or amid thickets known only to unclean animals."

THE modern tourist journeys from coast to coast on cushions of air. The properly designed pneumatic tire gives to present day travellers the same easy-riding-comfort on land that the canoe gave our ancestors on the water. But very often the tire designer—in his zeal to produce a sturdy tire—gains strength at the expense of riding-comfort. Rough riding tires take the joy out of motoring.

PORTAGE TIRES are big comfortable tires, scientifically designed to absorb jolts and jars and to keep shocks from reaching the passengers. At the same time PORTAGE TIRES easily withstand the terrific impacts that every tire receives in the day's journey over uneven pavements.

Perfectly balanced construction—is the reason: that is no great secret—but it is a most difficult perfection to achieve.

ALFONSO'S EFFORTS TO SAVE AUSTRIA

He Sought to Convince Allies That She Would Be a Better Neighbor Than Russia.

READY TO CEDE TERRITORY

Though Granting Italian and Serbian Claims, She Could Still Remain a World Power.

KING OFFERED MEDIATION

He Would Break Germanic Coalition If Allies Were Unable to Crush Them In 1917.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

PARIS, Friday, Aug. 6.—In the final section of its story concerning the overtures of the King of Spain to work for peace in 1917, the Matin this morning says:

"In the preceding sections of the report of the King of Spain's conversation with the French Military Attaché in March, 1917, there has been set forth the King's impression that the Allies were unlikely to end the war that year; that its continuance to a final but exhausting victory would be chiefly for the benefit of Russia, which did not deserve it, and finally that it might be possible to end the war rapidly and successfully, not by military means, but by dislocating the Germanic confederation.

"The King suggests that this might be done by detaching Austria from Germany, and makes an unequivocal offer to undertake negotiations to that end.

"In the concluding section, published below, the King briefly reviews the situation as it stands, the possibilities of an arrangement with Austria, and the future status of the Austrian Empire. Finally, he repeats his offer to do anything that may be required of him in the suggested direction, and reminds his auditor that he will risk no untimely or spontaneous action, but will hold himself ready at France's disposition."

The concluding portion of the French military attaché's dispatch reads:

Suspected Russo-German Intrigue.

"'In this whole business,' King Alfonso continued, 'I'm afraid that you French may be too scrupulous.

"'You may well perceive before long that every one is beginning to busy himself with his "petites affaires."

"'Since the first day of the war Germany has maintained, if not with the Government of Petrograd, at any rate with leading circles of Russia, a whole series of intrigues that are veritable negotiations, whose purpose is, first, to paralyze the country, and subsequently to prepare a separate peace.

"'At this very moment are you quite sure that Germany, Austria and Italy haven't begun a little conversation?'

"I gave the King the assurance that I had never been informed of any conversation of this kind.

"'Perhaps, too,' said the King, 'you don't want to say anything. I won't insist.

"'This offensive against Italy intrigues me greatly. I am absolutely certain of the loyalty of General Cadorna, but I'm convinced that at this moment there is some tricky work going on between the representatives of the three Governments * * * or at least attempts that look like it.

"'Who will be German Emperor at the moment when you come to treat?

"'Will it be a Wittelsbach of Bavaria, a Nassau of Württemberg, a new Elector of Saxony (sic) * * *? Anyway, it is quite possible that it is no longer a Hohenzollern—if Germany has anything to gain by it.'

Summary of King's Views.

"The King summed up his views somewhat as follows:

"'You are all going into battle with splendid élan, and you will have six months of terrible victories—terrible for you and for your enemies.

"'After your triumphs, if you wish to finish off the enemy coalition for the benefit of Russia, continue the war for fifteen or eighteen months longer. Realize your war aims in the precise and narrow form that Petrograd gives them.

"'If, on the other hand, you wish to crush Germany for your own benefit and the benefit of civilization, be satisfied with the dislocation of the hostile coalition. Make peace, a victorious peace, a peace glorious for all the Allies, and as well infinitely advantageous to France, England, Belgium and Italy, a peace more than honorable to Russia.

"'After your triumph—toward the Autumn—offer peace to the Central Empires, a terrible peace, YOUR peace, as I said in my last talk with you.

"'Germany will refuse, Austria will accept, if you are willing to offer her, indirectly, terms that will permit her to exist. * * *'

"And the King, without going too much into detail, seemed to admit the cession of the Trentino and of Trieste to Italy, and of a part of Hungary to Rumania. He admits, perhaps, that the Serbs might be intrusted with the fate of the Croats and Slovenes, who haven't the remotest idea of the joys in store for them, &c.

"But he thinks that as a minimum the Emperor of the new Austria should remain sovereign of the hereditary States, Austria, Styria, Tyrol, &c., and of a part of Hungary and of Bohemia, itself augmented by the Czech section of Silesia.

"This Bohemia, with certain Slav elements, would form the principal and dominant factor of the new empire.

"Then would come the Germans (Germans of Vienna, Styria and the Tyrol, as distinct as possible from Prussians), and finally a Hungarian minority.

"He even conceives that this new Austria might be allowed access to the Adriatic by a narrow passage, entirely at the mercy of Italy. * * *

Wanted a Mediterranean Union.

"Going into further detail, the King outlined his pet idea of a Latin Union, or rather Mediterranean Union, to be formed around the French Republic, and to include Spain, Italy, new Austria with access to the Adriatic, and England, buttressed on Gibraltar and Egypt.

"He sees grouped around the French Republic the House of Spain, which comes from Gascony; the House of Italy, which comes from Savoy, and the House of Austria, which comes from Lorraine.

"He foreshadows two principal groups: In the East the Slavs, on the West the Mediterranean group, and between them a diminished and dislocated Germany.

"He goes no further, not wishing to put himself in the absurd position of definitely parceling out Europe before the victory. But he once more emphasizes, as an essential element of the new European equilibrium, Austria—doubtless diminished and inferior to Italy, but more acceptable to the latter as a neighbor than the Muscovites or their offshoots.

"All this is naturally only project, conjecture or hypothesis, which it is indispensable to take into consideration if one doesn't intend simply to trail along behind the more daring or less scrupulous.

"'Do not say that I am for the Allies,' said the King to me. 'I am for France. I am for France because I am King of Spain, and as such it is impossible for me to consider the future of my country as aloof from that of France.

"'So, when your country judges the time ripe, when you have need of me, in the conditions I have just set forth, I am ready to move. You can say so. I beg you to say so.

Trusted President Poincare.

"'Meanwhile I am preparing for the part I am to play by following most minutely everything that is happening in Austria and the Austrian Army.

"'I have said nothing to any one, and I will not come and upset you by any untimely initiative. But when the time comes I will take the advice, not of the Allies, but of the President of the French Republic, who represents them in my eyes. I will get on all right with M. Poincaré. * * *

"Before closing the audience, the King once more examined with me the distribution of the Austro-German Armies on the eastern front. He follows closely the deliberate mingling of Austrian and German elements in the armies of Bernhardi, Boehm-Ermolli, Tertsiansky, and in the groups of armies commanded by the Archduke Joseph, &c.

"He remarked with pleasure that the Bulgarians are only supported against Sarrail by extremely weak German forces. He is, furthermore, aware of the recriminations and reproaches they address to Berlin. He knows from a sure source how much they dread a French offensive, &c. * * *

"My impression is that the King is not throwing at our heads either his devotion or his offers of service. He simply thinks that six months hence, after a series of victories which he believes certain, his intervention, more or less direct, more or less secret, would not be despised.

"At this point would the Allies want to finish off the enemy coalition by another year of war, or would they prefer to dislocate it by trying to separate Austria from Germany? The whole point is there. Events themselves will decide what importance the 'bons offices' of the King of Spain will have then.

"I believe, however, that he will try nothing between this and then—no untimely or clumsy course of action. * * * The final words of our talk are indeed significant and afford a summary of his opinions:

"'If your victory is complete enough to enable you to impose crushing terms on your enemies, it is certain that you won't need any mediator or intermediary. Take it for granted, in that case, that I have said nothing. But, in any event, be very careful to organize a Europe that won't be completely uninhabitable. You will see that perhaps I will be able to help you.'"

This is the final article of the series.

AMERICANS HONORED ON PERUVIAN HOLIDAY

Officers of the Tacoma and of British Ships at Banquet—Tacna and Arica Parade.

LIMA, Aug. 4.—The United States cruiser Tacoma sailed from Mollendo today following a notable series of entertainments in honor of the Tacoma and the British cruisers Weymouth and Yarmouth throughout the Peruvian national holidays.

The American and British officers were the guests of honor at a state banquet in the palace last night. The American Ambassador, William E. Gonzales, in an address thanked President Augusto B. Leguia for the great hospitality extended to the officers and men of the Tacoma. He also took occasion to enlarge upon the spirit of friendship and unity between the American and British Navies "dating from the unforgettable incident preceding the Battle of Manila Bay and firmly cemented by the unity of action during the great war."

President Leguia, replying to the Ambassador's speech, said he could fully realize the import of the latter's remarks, for in times of international crisis as well as in personal difficulties "a friend in need is a friend indeed."

A significant event of the holidays was a parade of 10,000 persons in demonstration of the Peruvian national aspiration as regards Tacna and Arica, Chile, which formerly belonged to Peru. Thousands of American flags were carried in the procession.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President and Mrs. Wilson took a drive this afternoon in an open victoria. They were out more than two hours behind a pair of fine horses, going through the residential part of Washington and into Rock Creek Park.

Richard Jervis, chief of the President's Secret Service guards, sat beside the driver. An electric brougham ran slowly behind with other Secret Service men in it.

The President reached the White House before a fine, drizzling rain began.

This is the first time the President has taken a drive in a horse-drawn vehicle since he was taken ill nearly a year ago.

ROOT TALKS WITH FRENCH OFFICIALS

Has Had a Long Conference with Millerand During His Visit to Paris.

DODGES LEAGUE QUESTIONS

Myron T. Herrick Complains That America Is Not Represented in Councils of the Allies.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Elihu Root is spending three weeks or so in Paris, following his work at The Hague in helping to perfect the machinery for the International Court. While it is stated he is taking a rest simply, he has had a long and interesting conference with Premier Millerand and it is understood that he has conversed with other leaders in French public life.

Mr. Root's aversion to newspaper publicity is well known, but that has not prevented the French press from paying considerable attention to him. Two newspapers carry articles in which he is quoted.

L'Oeuvre, the organ of M. Gustave Terry, says:

"M. Elihu Root, former Secretary of War in the period when McKinley was President of the United States, former Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs and former representative of America in Russia, has just arrived in France charged with a semi-official mission, which is said in diplomatic circles to be of extreme importance.

"We asked M. Root, who is considered as a friend and confidant of Senator Harding, the probable successor of Mr. Wilson, to give us some information upon the purpose of his visit and of conditions, as he sees them, of Franco-American collaboration.

"M. Root, who is known as not liking interviews, nevertheless received us very kindly in his apartment at the Hotel Crillon. The former Minister is an elderly man of grave mien, with a very open face. He does not speak French, which he regrets.

"'My situation is very delicate,' he explained. 'You must understand that I am bound by the greatest reserve. The purpose of my visit is, in principle, to examine the organization of the League of Nations on the basis of collaboration between the United States and the Western powers. It is to establish this plan of action that I am in Europe.'

"His interviewer said: 'You know what value we in France attach to the hope that the League shall become a reality. Do you believe that we may hope that some day the opinion of your country will accept it as a definite formula of world peace?'

"Senator Root replied: 'The compact signed at Versailles is the object of very live controversies and discussions in the United States. It would not be correct for me to give an opinion. But if, instead of asking me for a declaration of policy, you ask what are the personal sentiments of my compatriots, I would embrace the opportunity to say that everywhere in the United States and in all parties we love and admire France. Far from our people feeling for France a sentiment of indifference and distance, they hold a very profound sentiment of affection for you.'

"His interviewer remarked: 'You have had occasion to talk at length with M. Millerand. Would it be indiscreet to ask if you have a favorable impression?'

"Senator Root answered: 'I brought away a good impression from my talk with M. Millerand. He is truly a very interesting man.'

"The interviewer then asked if Senator Root thought America would help France in her task of reconstruction.

"Senator Root replied: 'On that point I cannot speak nor make any promises. I will tell you only one thing—I leave tomorrow for the liberated regions.'"

The Petit Journal also publishes an interview with Senator Root much along the lines of that of L'Oeuvre. When asked who would be the next President Senator Root replied that he was no prophet.

Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France, who left for London yesterday, has a statement in The New York Herald's Paris edition in which he complains that America is not represented in the allied councils. He adds: "Of course the Republican Party is not responsible. There can be no conceivable reason, in my opinion, for the United States not being represented."

Mr. Herrick then talks of how the people of France cannot understand why after President Wilson signed the treaty for America, it was not ratified. He adds:

In conclusion he says:

"The platform of the Republican Party is broad enough to meet the demands for internationalization along right lines. It has been an international party since the Spanish war and the diplomacy of John Hay. If Europe has any concern about what will happen under a Republican Administration, let her study the party's past and so judge the future."

COL. HOUSE AT THE HAGUE.

Praises Work of Mr. Root in Formation of Court of Justice.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 5.—Speaking with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, Colonel E. M. House, who has just arrived at The Hague with Mrs. House and his family and is staying at the Hotel des Indes, said today:

"I have come here for a little rest and quiet, that's all, and to be with my good friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips. I find The Hague a delightful place and the coolest and most peaceful spot in Europe, ideal for repose after the strenuous six weeks I have had in London."

Colonel House expects to be at The Hague about ten days and is then returning to America by way of Belgium and France. Colonel House spoke enthusiastically of "the splendid work accomplished by the jurists' Advisory Committee in drawing up plans for a permanent court of justice," and especially of Mr. Root's work Colonel House is optimistic regarding the future work of the court, pointing out that the court lined up with the League.

When asked to give his opinion on the Polish situation Colonel House looked grave, admitting the situation was extremely serious and a menace to Europe. He saw no possible solution at present, for the Polish strife was not in the jurisdiction of the League, as Poland had not applied to the League in the beginning and that it also was not a case for the Court of Arbitration or Justice.

Porto Rico Honors Patriot's Ashes.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—The ashes of Dr. Ramon Emerterio Betances, the Porto Rican patriot, which were dispatched here from Paris recently by way of New York, arrived in San Juan this morning on board the United States transport Buford. The day was observed by proclamation as one of official mourning.

Grunau Pleads in Capital to Get Jobs Back, Admitting Failure of Outlaw Rail Strikes

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The collapse of the movement for outlaw strikers among railroad employes was emphasized today when a delegation of men who had participated in the recent strike led in Chicago by John Grunau called at the White House to obtain advice and assistance to enable the outlaw strikers to get back their jobs with railroad companies. The delegation was headed by Grunau himself.

The delegation called at the White House in the hope of laying their troubles before Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President. Two members of the delegation were F. P. Boland and George Evans of Jersey City, who had known Mr. Tumulty, their fellow-townsman, and they felt that they might make progress in their desire to obtain leniency from the railroad companies if they got Mr. Tumulty's friendly interest. But Mr. Tumulty was on his way to Dayton, Ohio, by motor.

The members of the delegation were directed to the Department of Labor. There they found officials who arranged for a conference between the delegation and the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation tomorrow morning.

The delegation told those with whom they talked that they would like the Government to use its efforts to induce the railway executives to reinstate the strikers. They explained that with the recent increase of wages granted railway employes they had no further grievances against the railroads.

FINANCIAL MEETING CALLED BY LEAGUE

Permanent Committee of Military and Naval Advisers Also Decided On at Last Session.

IS NOT A "GENERAL STAFF"

Chief Duty Will Be to Advise on Restriction of Armaments—Way Open to Admit Germany.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 5 (Associated Press).—The international financial conference will be held at Brussels Sept. 24, the council of the League of Nations decided at its last session here today. Gustav Ador, former President of Switzerland, will preside. The reparations question at issue between the Allies and Germany will not be put on the order of business unless notification is received meantime that a decision has been reached.

A permanent advisory committee on military, naval and air affairs came into being at the last minute today with a mission to study and report upon questions of a military character upon which the council may be called to act. The province of this commission is described by members of the council as only that provided for in the League of Nations covenant.

The commission is not, as some published accounts of the project have stated, a plan for a military general staff for the League of Nations, but simply a consultative body within the league, its principal mission being to advise the league regarding restrictions upon the manufacture of arms and munitions.

The proposed commission also would give advice to the league as to disarmament and other questions on which the council requires expert advice, without which, it is pointed out, it could scarcely act upon any military question. Its prospective task is described by Léon Bourgeois, French member of the council, as "in accordance with the provisions of the covenant" to "regulate the armament of the forces of new States admitted to the league, and the reduction of armaments."

Replying to a telegram from the King of the Hedjaz asking the League to intervene with the French Government to secure the release of Deputies in Lebanon, the Council replied that the League was organized to maintain peace after it had been established by treaty and that Syria formed a part of the territories of Turkey, with whom peace was not yet signed.

A permanent commission was named to receive and examine the annual report of the mandatory powers concerning the administration of territories confided to them.

Final decision on the International Court of Justice was not reached. The project for the court prepared recently by the jurists' conference at The Hague, and attributed largely to Elihu Root, is generally favored by the councillors, but it was decided to ask the opinion of all the members of the league before its adoption.

Representatives of each Government participating in the international financial conference to be held in Brussels on Sept. 24 will be asked to present a balance sheet showing the actual financial situation of his nation, it was decided at yesterday's meeting of the council of the league. All countries will be asked not to issue any more paper money so as to avoid a further weakening of foreign credit.

Efforts will be made, through a commission of experts, to arrive at an equitable arrangement for exchange between Germany and Austria and other nations, the money of the former Central Empires being regarded as beyond restoration to its pre-war exchange value. The invitation to Germany to participate in this conference is conceded to be tantamount to notice that she will be accepted as a member of the League of Nations if she makes application.

Thirty allied, neutral and enemy States will be asked to join the conference, the program of which will comprise four principal subjects—the financial policies of the different States, exchange and paper circulation, commercial relations and the re-establishment of international credit.

The League budget submitted at today's meeting showed the expenses of the council were growing as the number of commissions at work is multiplied. It asked for £500,000 for the ensuing six months, of which sum £86,000 will be required for the contingent fund providing for the future growth of the work of the League. An increased outlay of £162,000 to pay the expenses of the International Labor Bureau is included and it was estimated the cost of holding the meeting of the assembly of the League in Geneva would be £25,000.

Members of the League have been divided into seven categories and will contribute to its support on the basis of the proportional payments fixed for its members by the Universal Postal Union. One exception is Poland, which will pay as a first class power along with Great Britain and France, which have been placed on a basis of twenty-five units. The Kingdom of the Hedjaz has been placed in the seventh category and will contribute one unit.

EXECUTED OFFICER STOLEN FROM GRAVE

MAN SHOT AS A COWARD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—From his grave in an orchard at the little French town of Remonville, the body of a French officer who was court-martialled and shot for waving a white flag in the face of the enemy has disappeared.

Some days ago it was noticed that the grave had been disturbed and when an inquiry was instituted it was found that the body was missing.

In the village they tell a story of how every year since the execution a well dressed woman in heavy mourning came and laid flowers on the grave. She was seen there a fortnight ago, and it is on her that suspicion rests. But who she is no one knows, and how and where she removed the body is a mystery.

It was in 1914 that the officer, whose name was Major Wolff, was shot. Stories of his action differ. Some say that, finding himself and his men surrounded, he tied a handkerchief to the point of his sword and, to prevent further loss of life, waved it in token of surrender. One of the officers of his company, with some men, arrested him and retired, taking him with them as a prisoner.

Another story is that the Major saw in the opposing ranks his brother, and wished to surrender himself, but this story may have arisen simply from the fact of his German name.

Whatever the reason for his action, a drumhead court-martial found him guilty and he was shot on the same day by men of his own company. His body was buried in a corner of a farmer's orchard and the name was given to it of the "coward's corner."

Every year during the war and since, about the time of the anniversary of the Major's death, a woman, elegantly gowned in deep mourning, appeared in the village with a wreath and flowers, and laid them on the grave. Whenever she had gone the villagers removed the wreath and the grave was left desolate and untended. Nothing was known of the mysterious visitor, who came and went without talking to any one.

Villagers remembered having seen the woman in black about a fortnight ago, sitting in the orchard near the grave. One recalled that she said to him "Major Wolff's name will soon be cleared."

Next day she was seen again, carrying a large wicker basket. This she asked workmen who passed to carry to the station for her, and since then no trace of her has been seen.

Who she is and what has become of the body the police are trying to discover.

ALIVE, GETS MEDAL AS DEAD.

French Soldier Reads "Posthumous" Award for His Brave "Death."

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The Fifth Military Medal, with the citation that he had died courageously at his post as long ago as September, 1914, has been conferred "posthumously" on Marcel Blanchard, a French soldier.

Of the announcement the most interested reader was certainly Marcel Blanchard himself. As the words "Mort Pour la France" headed the paper, he could at first scarcely believe it was he, himself, on whom the Government had conferred the honor, but as the time and place coincided with an experience of his own he came to the conclusion that the medal was really intended for him.

As he did not die for France, the question now arises, is he entitled to the honor? He argues that he is, as his courage on the occasion on which he "died" is testified to by all his officers and better than dying, he lived to fight in practically all the other great battles of the war.

In the village of Marly, near Valenciennes, where he is living, opinion on the matter is hot, and it is held that as the authorities have "killed" their hero they owe him the reward of the posthumous honor they have conferred and the additional pension which goes with it if the recipient happens to be alive.

BERLIN FLAG INCIDENT OPEN

"Serious Conversation" with French Representative Reported by Simons.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—A wireless dispatch from Berlin says that Foreign Minister Simons today told the Reichstag that the incident which arose some time ago over the salute to the French flag, which had been removed from the French Embassy, had not yet been settled. He said he had had a very serious conversation with the French Chargé d'Affaires concerning the incident on Wednesday.

The dispatch adds that the Government hopes to settle the dispute by referring it to the League of Nations.

ORDER MISS WRIGHT TO A SANITARIUM

INSANE NOW, SAYS ALIENIST

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Aug. 5.—While the judicial inquiry into the strange case of Anna Wright, the American millionairess, continues to yield startling charges of cruel treatment to which the young woman is declared to have been subjected, the authorities of Florence have arranged for her transfer to Cassinuova Sanitarium.

Her stepfather, Count Emilio del Sera, is reported eager to quit Italy, and is said to have booked passages for himself and his wife aboard the Canopic on her call at Naples.

The pair, however, are still held at the disposal of the court, which has not yet finished their cross-examination.

The Cook tourist agency at Florence has informed the Italian press that large money drafts reach the Count and his wife regularly from America for Miss Anna Wright, and are invariably cashed by the Count, it is asserted, after obtaining Miss Wright's signature.

Servants at the villa, at least thirty of whom have been supplied from time to time through the Pucci agency alone, testify to having witnessed lively scenes during the endeavors of the stepfather to coax the heiress into appending her name.

A copy of Del Sera's London marriage certificate in the possession of the court shows that the legal witnesses were Anna, her married sister and the latter's husband.

Professor Tanzi and other experts in mental disease who have had Miss Wright under observation agree that she is now insane, but deny that they ordered the harsh measures said to have been practiced in regard to her, such as preventing her from engaging in pianoforte playing, needlework, tennis and even reading books and newspapers.

Tanzi says that for her meals she will sometimes eat nothing but meat, then will change to a vegetarian diet of the strictest type, and demand a constant menu of "eighty peas and thirty onions."

These, he declares, she counts over carefully, and if there has been no mistake she separates exactly half of each portion for her meal. Otherwise she refuses to touch anything.

Lately a pretty canary was brought to her to admire. The alienist declared she first bit off the bird's head and then proceeded to devour its body, feathers and all.

PUBLISHERS DISCUSS CABLES AND WIRELESS

Resolutions Dealing with Fuller Interchange of News Before British Empire Conference.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—Consideration of a resolution urging Government subsidy of cable companies and lower cable rates to insure the fullest interchange of news and opinion within the British Empire occupied most of today's opening session of the Imperial Press Conference.

British and Canadian delegates strongly opposed acceptance of any Government subsidies which might imply Government control of the character of news services.

A resolution to be considered will ask that Governments of the British Empire adopt adequate wireless services throughout the empire by public and private enterprise. Another will set forth that the "conference is strongly of the opinion that the principles should be immediately established for providing the British and the world with the advantages of wireless telegraphic and telephonic communication."

More resolutions will deal with paper supplies, independence of news services, uniform postal rates, interchange of staffs between various portions of the empire and establishment of courses of journalism in universities.

Viscount Burnham was elected Chairman and Lord Atholstan Honorary Chairman of the conference at this morning's session. Besides the overseas and Canadian delegates a party of newspaper men from the United States attended the conference.

TO HIT COAL SPECULATORS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The National Coal Association in a statement tonight forecast more drastic car reconsignment regulations as a part of the campaign to eliminate the coal speculators. The statement is in part as follows:

"As the outcome of a conference at New York yesterday of operators engaged in the export of soft coal, Colonel D. B. Wentz of Philadelphia, President of the National Coal Association, will confer within the next few days with Daniel Willard, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, to discuss means of curtailing the privilege of reconsignment of open top cars for shipment of coal from the mines to tidewater ports, for export trade and for trans-shipment to New England ports.

"This move of the operators is aimed at driving out speculators in tidewater movements of coal who have been exacting high prices for an output obtained at nominal prices at the mines. This is part of an effort of the soft coal operators to eliminate every species of speculation in the handling of coal wherever it exists.

"Restriction of the reconsignment privilege in the tidewater movement of soft coal, as contemplated by the operators, is in line with the drastic order issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission this week, under which but one reconsignment is allowed. The operators want the most rigid restrictions to apply to the tidewater shipments, as well as all other movements throughout the country."

FALLS DEAD AFTER SWIM.

Percy L. Maier, 30, Collapses in Apartment House Lobby.

Percy L. Maier, 30 years old, of 628 East 161st Street, dropped dead of heart failure in the Osborne Apartments, 205 West Fifty-seventh Street, last night. He came in with a young woman, with whom he sat talking in the lobby for a few minutes, and just after she left he asked for a glass of water and collapsed. Identification was effected through letters found on the body.

The cause of death was pronounced by Assistant Medical Examiner Schwartz as heart failure. Maier's cousin, William Cobille, said that the former had complained of heart trouble at noon. Maier had just returned from a swim at Manhattan Beach when he collapsed.

South American Cargo Theft.

Hold 11 Armed Negroes at Gary As Suspects in Moline Raid

GARY, Ind., Aug. 5.—Eleven negroes, heavily armed, were arrested by the police here today and held on suspicion of having been implicated in the robbery last Tuesday of the Commercial Bank at Moline, Ill.

The eleven drove up to a hardware store here shortly after noon in two automobiles. Entering the store, they purchased two rifles and 2,000 rounds of ammunition.

The police meanwhile were notified and surrounded the store, arresting the negroes as they emerged.

The automobiles, which were new, bore no license plates. Six thousand rounds of ammunition and several guns were found in the machines.

The men refused to talk, beyond saying they came from Chicago.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND OUTDOES HER TALES

HER DAUGHTER CONFESSES

Were Preparing to Leave for Mexico When Dead Man's Chauffeur Reveals Crime to the Police.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—"From Convict Prison to Eden" is the title of one of the novels written by Mme. Bessarabot, who on Friday last shot her husband in their Paris flat and with the help of her daughter packed his body in a trunk and sent it to the baggage room at the Nancy station. Like all her writing, both in prose and verse, which are published under the name of Eva Myrtell, it bears evident signs of imitation of such passionate French writers as Louise Labe, of whom she was a great admirer. That fiction she has now translated into deeds.

The dead man's real name, it appears, was Ismael Weissmann. He was a Rumanian by birth and carried on a business as an agent for a Mexican oil company. His wife was French, but married a Mexican called Jacques as her first husband and from him inherited a business in Mexico which she still exploits. The girl who helped her place the body in the trunk and take it to the station was one of two daughters by her first husband. Always accompanied by this daughter, Jeanne Paule, she frequented all the most exotic literary circles in Paris. Romance was the occupation of her mind and jealousy of her husband's intrigues seems to have been fanned by a study of the tempestuous-minded sonnet and novel writers among whom she lived.

During the last year her husband, who had formerly lived largely on his wife's fortune, had himself succeeded in business, and his new wealth, it appears, he was fast spending on other women. There were passionate quarrels between the two, and in a confession her daughter declared that she had long expected such a tragedy as happened. Mme. Bessarabot's own story is that when she accused her husband of infidelities he seized her by the throat. She picked up a revolver from the dressing table and fired in the heat of the struggle.

From then on the woman's movements were carefully planned out. She sent her daughter to bring down from the attic a big trunk, while she wrapped the body in a linen sheet. Then the two packed their other belongings and prepared to leave for a country villa some miles from Paris. The next morning they took all the baggage, including the trunk, to the station, and, labeling the trunk with a false name, sent it to the baggage room at Nancy.

Mme. Bessarabot went to her husband's office and told the clerks that her husband had gone away for some days. With her daughter she then took the train to the country and on the way got out at Enghein and went for a row on the lake, into which she dropped the revolver with which she had shot her husband.

Preparations had been begun for her departure to Mexico when the dead man's chauffeur informed the police that his master had disappeared and convinced them that suspicions he had formed were well grounded.

Mme. Bessarabot has chosen as advocate Henri Robert, one of the most eloquent and ingenious advocates at the Paris bar. Meanwhile the body in the trunk is being brought back to Paris for examination and burial.

ITALIAN STRIKERS RUN RIOT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Aug. 5.—Bathers at the fashionable seaside resort of Savona had a trying experience yesterday. That city was in the throes of a general strike, and the sequel was the sanguinary conflict which occurred Sunday last between the military and the workingmen when the demonstrators, hearing that a large party of officers were disporting themselves on the beach, made a stampede toward the bathing establishments.

Captain Rodolfo di Gennaro, with a small band of Arditi troopers, tried to check the onrush by firing revolvers into the crowd, but he was soon flung down, knifed in the back and beaten to death. With clubs filling the air and with savage yells, the mob burst open the cabins and pursued men and women bathers with sticks, stones and knives.

A young woman was shot through the body and mortally wounded. A foreman in a local steel foundry was pierced by a bullet in the heart in the presence of his wife and four children. Major Lewi Regiment and an army Captain, said to be the son of a Roman Senator, were both mortally injured with firearms. Two workmen were shot through the lungs.

The number of visitors who escaped with slighter injuries was considerable.

ASSASSINATION STIRS SPAIN.

Former Governor of Barcelona and Wife Wounded, Sister-in-Law Killed

MADRID, Aug. 5.—Count de Salvatierra, former Civil Governor of Barcelona, and his wife were gravely wounded and his sister-in-law, the Marquise de Lejares, was killed last evening at Valencia by five men who poured a volley of pistol shots into the carriage in which the three victims were riding. The announcement of the crime made by the Minister of the Interior states that the assassins were trade unionists. The Count, while Governor of Barcelona, was an opponent of the trade unions, declaring them illegal. The assassins escaped.

The shooting occurred at 9 o'clock, as the Count's carriage was passing over a grade crossing of the Barcelona railway. The five men opened fire simultaneously, discharging fourteen shots. Two of the bullets seriously wounded the Count in the stomach, while his wife was struck in the throat and the shoulder. Three bullets entered the body of the Marquise, who was instantly killed. The assassins then fled.

Early today it was said the condition of the Count was very grave. The Marquise de Lejares was 30 years of age.

The crime has created a decided sensation throughout Spain.

Jury trials will be suppressed at Barcelona and all crimes committed by societies there will be submitted to summary courts as a result of a resolution passed by the Council of Ministers last night.

POLICE TRAIL WOMAN FOR COUGHLIN CHILD

SEARCH IN ATLANTIC CITY

PARENTS HOPE TO GET BABY

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The Pennsylvania State Police, the postal authorities and the parents of Blakely Coughlin, the 15 months old baby kidnapped from his crib in Norristown, Pa., nearly two months ago, are certain now that they will find the missing child in a short time. They are tracing the finger prints of a woman. The prints were found on the sill of the window through which the infant was taken away. The woman is thought to be an accomplice of Augusto Pascol or Pasquale, the "crank" now under arrest as the kidnapper. The arrest of the woman is expected at any moment.

State troopers, accompanied by postal inspectors, are now searching for the woman. With her capture they hope to get the child.

George A. Leonard, Chief Postal Inspector, and Major Lynn G. Adams, head of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary, are heading the forces which are seeking to capture the woman accomplice of Pascol.

Pasquale, or Pascol, a foreigner with a long criminal record, is in prison, carefully guarded by five State troopers. A trap has been prepared by the authorities by which they hope to catch all those implicated in the abduction. It may be sprung at any moment, but the probabilities are that it will be withheld for at least twenty-four hours. Pasquale was released from the Philadelphia County Prison on March 26, at which time he had but $4.26. Soon after the middle of June, when Coughlin deposited the $12,000 ransom money, Pasquale appeared at a rooming house at 323 North Seventh Street with a large supply of money. Since that time he has displayed either bills or checks for sums running into the thousands of dollars. He is unable to explain how he got the large sums.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—August Pascol, the prisoner charged with kidnapping the infant son of George H. Coughlin of Norristown, was identified this afternoon as Augusto Pasquale, said by the police to be a former jail bird and a notorious crook. The announcement was made by George H. Leonard, Chief Postal Inspector.

Pasquale has a long criminal record. He did time in Elmira and Newark. He was released from prison in this city about four months ago. He is 36 years old. According to Leonard, Pasquale said today he was hired by a man to go to New Jersey and hang out the white sheet which was to serve as a signal to the father of the kidnapped child.

When the father saw the signal from the railroad car window Monday he threw out the decoy bag supposed to contain the $10,000 ransom money. Pasquale appeared from his hiding place, picked up the bag and was arrested. This is the only information that could be extracted from Pasquale after seventy hours of grilling. He refused to explain having so much money four months after he had been released from prison in a penniless condition.

Pascol refuses to reveal the whereabouts of little Blakely Coughlin unless immunity for the kidnapping is granted to him. He is bartering now to exchange the child for his freedom. He is said to have admitted that the fifteen-months-old baby is hidden in Atlantic City.

An air of expectation surrounds the home of George H. Coughlin, the missing child's father, on the Plymouth Boulevard, outside of Norristown. A woman, long suspected as having a part in the kidnapping, looms up afresh today. An acquaintance of Pascol's during the six weeks following the kidnapping in which Pascol occupied a room in a house here says he knows Pascol had a woman friend. The State police and postal agents are now on her track and believe she has the child.

THE PLAY

A Farce Plus Roland Young.

Whenever a manager produces a play by a new author or cluster of authors it is customary on the third day after the premiere to send out a paragraph announcing he is so inordinately pleased with the first attempt that he has solemnly contracted with him or them to write him another. This, next to the bland notice that such-and-such a play has just been eagerly snapped up for production in London, is the most persistently recurrent of all theatrical items. It was sent out in due course last season when Adolph Klauber produced "Nighty Night" by the previously inconspicuous Adelaide Matthews and Martha M. Stanley. But he really seems to have meant it. He did contract with them, they did write another and a rather better piece, and last night it came to the Fulton Theatre.

It is a farce called "Scrambled Wives," and it is funny. It is not the most side-splitting piece of its kind ever devised, but it is laughable. It is probable that the unfolding season will bring us (from Mr. Hopwood or Mr. Forbes or some one like that) a farce with somewhat gayer dialogue and somewhat less obvious and familiar complications. But in the meantime, "Scrambled Wives" will do nicely. And besides, Roland Young is in it, which helps tremendously.

The sensitive playgoer approaching the Fulton these nights could tell from the mere title that the new piece there was one of those house-party farces where a divorced couple are reunited, to their mutual embarrassment. Some authors prefer to have a man torn between his past and present wife. Some prefer to see the woman agitated by the presence of her past and present husbaand. Both varieties are interwoven in this latest farce, of which the first example was staged seven months after the granting of the first divorce.

It is smartly staged and goes with a snap, thanks to a company that has been wisely selected. The chief joy is Mr. Young, who quite redeemed "Buddies" for some of us last season and who is hard at it again, this time in a John Cumberland part—with clothing. He is a delightfully droll comedian, for whom the applause that began faintly in the early days when the Washington Square Players were over at the Bandbox, has been growing so in volume that the first thing you know some manager will present him in a rôle as good as he is. He seems to have much of the equipment that would fit him for a position equivalent to that of the Gerald du Maurier, whom he so strikingly resembles in style, manner and method.

He is well enough abetted in all the nonsense now in progress at the Fulton. Particularly good work is done by Glenn Anders and, in a small rôle, by William Lennox as a peculiarly melancholy butler. Also by Juliette Day, a sprightly actress of the Madge Kennedy school, for that young lady, on departing for the movies, left behind her on the stage a very swarm of mannerisms. Her mannerisms and methods break out quite violently in Miss Day's comedy, about which, however, there is always a faint suggestion of strain. Further assistance is given in good measure by the decorative Elise Bartlett as an adhesive ingénue and by a comely newcomer named Margaret Hutchins.

DR. COSBY ILL IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 5.—A man who said he was Dr. John B. Cosby, 63 years old, a New York physician, was found ill on the street yesterday by a traffic patrolman. He was taken to University Hospital in the police ambulance, and physicians said he was suffering from exhaustion, due to lack of food. He refused to eat food which the police officials provided.

Before Justice Ranft today Dr. Cosby first said he came to this city yesterday to aid a friend who was in jail. Pressed for the name of the friend, Dr. Cosby said he forgot it. Later he said he came here to visit a family on North Street. The family in question is away from the city, he told the justice.

Dr. Cosby produced a bankbook showing that he lived at 170 West 180th Street. He had $100 in his pockets.

Police Captain Cole said he would take the case up with the Federated Charities and would communicate with W. Burke Cockran, who Dr. Cosby said was a friend.

The letter which Mr. Woodhouse said he was prevented from presenting at the Board of Governors meeting Wednesday, was signed by John Hays Hammond, Jr., Brig. Gen. Robert K. Evans, retired, Charles J. Glidden, Robert A. Bartlett and Rear Admiral W. L. Little.

Give Dinner for General Carson.

Officers of the New York General Supply Depot tendered a farewell dinner at the Hotel Astor last night to Brig. Gen. John M. Carson, who leaves for Washington to take up his new post as assistant to Major Gen. H. L. Rogers, Quartermaster General of the army. Among the many officers who paid tribute to General Carson's military service were Colonel F. M. Hartstock, Colonel W. S. Hart, Colonel W. Trevor Hill and Colonel W. Forges.

Arliss to Return Here.

His supporting company will include Julia Dean, Elsie Mackay, Sidney Toler, Carl Anthony, E. G. Robinson, Hubert Wilke, Emil Hoch, Manart Kippen and John Webster. Mr. Arliss appeared in the play on tour during the latter half of last season.

JEWS WOULD BAR HUSZAR.

Hungarian Organizations Here and in Chicago Protest.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—A request that Charles Huszar, former Premier of Hungary, who is now in New York, be asked not to visit Chicago, was filed today with Berthold Singer, Spanish Consul here, by representatives of the Hungarian University Club, Hungarian Self-Culture Society, Hungarian Social and Sick Benefit Society, local branches of the Hungarian-American Federation and other organizations. The appeal was addressed to Mr. Singer because Spain is looking after American interests in the former dual monarchy.

Spokesmen for the Hungarian societies said that they feared there would be a disturbance if Huszar attempted to appear here, as many Hungarians hold him responsible for alleged pogroms and oppression of Jews in Hungary.

Mr. Huszar arrived in New York last week. His purpose, it is understood, is to raise money in this country for Hungarian reconstruction.

"I do not intend to visit Chicago," Karl Huszar said today. "The Chicago Hungarian societies who have asked that I be barred from their city have taken those steps for nothing. I intend to return to Hungary in two weeks after finishing my business here in relation to relief for Hungarian prisoners in Siberia."

The Federation of Hungarian Jews here last night adopted resolutions urging Huszar's deportation as an undesirable alien and asked the Secretary of State to investigate Huszar's presence in America.

UPHOLDS N. Y. CENTRAL.

Supreme Court Judge Refuses to Order Filing of Fare Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 5.—In a decision handed down today, Supreme Court Justice Harold J. Hinman denies the Public Service Commission's petition for any order under which the New York Central Railroad would be required to file schedules before Aug. 10, showing the rate of fare between Albany and Buffalo to be 2 cents a mile. The company is now charging 3 cents a mile.

United States Court Judges to whom the New York Central recently applied for an injunction to restrain the commission from enforcing the terms of its order early in the week by a 2 to 1 vote —Judges Ward and Cooper in the affirmative, Judge Hough dissenting—denied the railroad company's application. Justice Hinman holds that the two-cent rate statute will not be revived automatically on Sept. 1, and that the commission's application should be denied and the proceedings dismissed.

This decision is directly contrary to that of the Federal Judges.

WILLIAMSBURG SPAN CLEAR.

B. R. T. to Resume Service Tomorrow—City to Demand $47,000.

Service of the B. R. T. subway and elevated lines on the Williamsburg Bridge, suspended since the fire a week ago last Tuesday, will be resumed tomorrow morning. This was announced last night by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, who disclosed that the fire had caused $75,000 damage, of which the B. R. T. would be billed for $47,000 and sued if they failed to pay.

"Great credit," said Commissioner Whalen, "must be given to Chief Engineer Edward A. Byrne of this department for the rapid installation of the thirty-two steel girders that were destroyed by the fire." He also complimented the National Bridge Works of Long Island City for uninterrupted service in supplying the girders.

"The total estimated cost of the damage," he continued, "to the bridge and equipment caused by the fire is $75,000. The actual outlay in money by the City of New York will be about $47,000. The bill for the city's outlay in this work will be forwarded to the railroad company and if they refuse to honor it the Corporation Council will be requested to begin suit immediately for the recovery of the same."

TRACE MAN THROUGH DOG.

Police Charge Milton Mauer with Robbing Brooklyn Woman.

Traced by the police through a fox terrier which accompanied him in several changes of residence in Brooklyn, Manhattan and Long Island, Milton Mauer, 40 years old, was arrested in a Rector Street law office yesterday by Detectives Walter Culhain and Harry Heggersmith of Brooklyn, on a charge of robbing a Brooklyn rooming housekeeper after beating her into insensibility. The police found in Mauer's room, at 501 Fourth Avenue, College Point, they said, clothing and jewelry valued at $10,000, as well as a quantity of pawn tickets, three loaded revolvers, a blackjack and a flashlight.

Vincent Korosondowitz of 505 Fourth Avenue was arrested on information said to have been given by Mauer, who, the police say, made a full confession of robbing Mrs. Mary Van of 366 State Street, Brooklyn, on Feb. 20. Both men were locked up in Brooklyn Police Headquarters. They will be arraigned this morning.

LINER MONGOLIA ARRIVES.

Major Stanley Schoen Returns from Visit to Poland.

The steamship Mongolia arrived yesterday from Hamburg, Southampton and Vigo, Spain. Among the passengers was Major Stanley Schoen, who was in Vilna, Poland, just before that city was captured by the Bolsheviki. He said no person wearing a collar or owning property was safe. The Poles, he thought, were not lacking in man power, but needed arms and ammunition.

Other passengers included Thomas C. Sullivan, secretary to the late General Gorgas, who died recently in London; Dr. Louis Suberana of the University of Madrid, who came here to study children's institutions, and Carl Schleitzer, a manufacturer, of Brooklyn, who made a business trip to Germany. There were five stowaways.

MOVE TO CONTROL TEUTON PLAYS HERE

Players-Lasky Corporation Gets Options on German and Austrian Productions.

FORMS $5,000,000 COMPANY

Deal Involves Output of 400 Leading Authors and Provides for New Theatres Here.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, seeking dramatic material from which motion pictures may eventually be made, has obtained options on practically all the plays and musical comedies which will be written by the foremost German and Austrian dramatists within the next ten years. For the handling of the material, it was learned yesterday, they have formed a subsidiary company, to be called United Plays, Inc., with a capital of $5,000,000. The fourth floor of the Empire Theatre Building, which was acquired by Famous Players when he Charles Frohman Company was taken over by them, is now being refitted as offices of the new concern.

More than half a million dollars has been paid by Famous Players to bind the agreements made with more than 400 authors, and existing contracts obligate the company for an equal amount in addition. The idea of thus cornering the supply of German plays is credited to Adolph Zukor, President of Famous Players, and it is said that an effort will next be made to tie up the French plays.

S. Rachman and Benjamin Blumenthal, well known here as theatrical promoters, went to Berlin last December to make the arrangements with the agents representing the German authors, and met Mr. Zukor in London in April, at which time the plans for the new company were completed. Mr. Blumenthal is still in Germany obtaining material.

Two Producing Companies.

Among the authors whose plays the Famous Players will control, in England and Australia as well as in this country, are Hermann Sudermann, Gerhardt Hauptmann, Arthur Schnitzler, Ludwig Fulda, Hermann Bahr, George Engel and Max Halbe, as well as the musical plays of Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow"; Leo Fall, Oscar Strauss and many others. Two companies have been formed for the production of these plays here—the Famous Opera Company for musical and the Famous Playwrights' Company for dramatic productions.

Max Reinhardt, the famous German producer, will come to America to produce plays for the Famous Players in about a year, and is said to be under contract to spend nine months of each year in this country. Leo Fall will arrive soon to direct rehearsals of the first production under the new régime—a musical comedy to be called "The Rose of Stamboul," which will go into rehearsal next month. Oscar Strauss also will be brought to America and his "The Last Waltz" will be produced this season. Other musical shows planned for production this season are "Miss Puck," by Walter Kollo, and "The Girl in the Fur Coat," by Jean Gilbert.

To Build Theatres Here.

The contracts made by the Messrs. Rachmann and Blumenthal in Berlin and Vienna were drawn up with the theatrical agents controlling the work of the many authors. These agents, who also issue the plays of their authors in printed form, have contracts with the authors calling for their future works. The Famous Players have made contracts with fifteen of these publishing houses in Berlin, Vienna, and Budapest, and have thus reached about 400 authors and composers. The four most prominent of these concerns are the Kolloverlag, the Drelmaskenverlag, the Harmonieverlag and the Figaroverlag.

Among the others who have thus been signed, in addition to those already named, are Heinz Tavote, Felix Hollander, Heinrich Mann, Rudolph Schantzler, L. Walter Stein, Georg Hirschfeld, Rudolph Herzog, Julius Brand, Max Dreyer, Dora Duncker, Georg Ebers, Hans Muller, Dr. Felix Phillippi, Alfred Grunwald, Ludwig Ganghofer, Stefan Zweig, and Marie Ebner Eschenbach.

All plays considered suitable for production here will be placed in the hands of American adapters, and in many cases the names of the German authors will not be advertised when the plays reach the American stage. Aaron Hoffman has already been placed under contract to adapt one or more plays.

The Famous Players Company is preparing for this new activity by financing the construction of at least four New York theatres, in which the productions of the newly formed companies probably will be presented.

Drop Flowers on Locklear Hearse.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Flowers were dropped from fifteen airplanes today as hearses bearing the bodies of Lieutenants Omar Locklear and Milton Elliott, former army aviators, killed here Monday night while doing "stunt" flying for a motion picture scene, made their way to the train which was to take the bodies East. The body of Locklear goes to Fort Worth, Texas, and that of Elliott to Gadsden, Ala.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Frank Herbert, aged 20 and Joseph Pekorny, 19, employes of the First National Bank of this city, were formally charged with grand larceny today in connection with the robbery of $53,000 worth of bonds while in transit from the bank to the Second National Bank of Toledo several days ago. The bonds are said to have been sold in Chicago for $12,000.

Mr. Leo Ditzichstein,
Comedy Theatre,
Dear Sir:

Aug. 4th, 1920.

"THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE" is a remarkable play, remarkably well interpreted. Brieux recognizes the great qualities of the heart, of intelligence, of actions of the Americans. At the same time, he shows what America can gain by the example of traditional France.

Dissipating certain unimportant misunderstandings, the play is the proof of a capital endeavor on the part of one of the greatest of French playwrights to make the two peoples understand each other and satisfies the desire of the American public to know what France is thinking about America.

Thus, "THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE" is bound to strengthen the ties which already exist between the two countries.

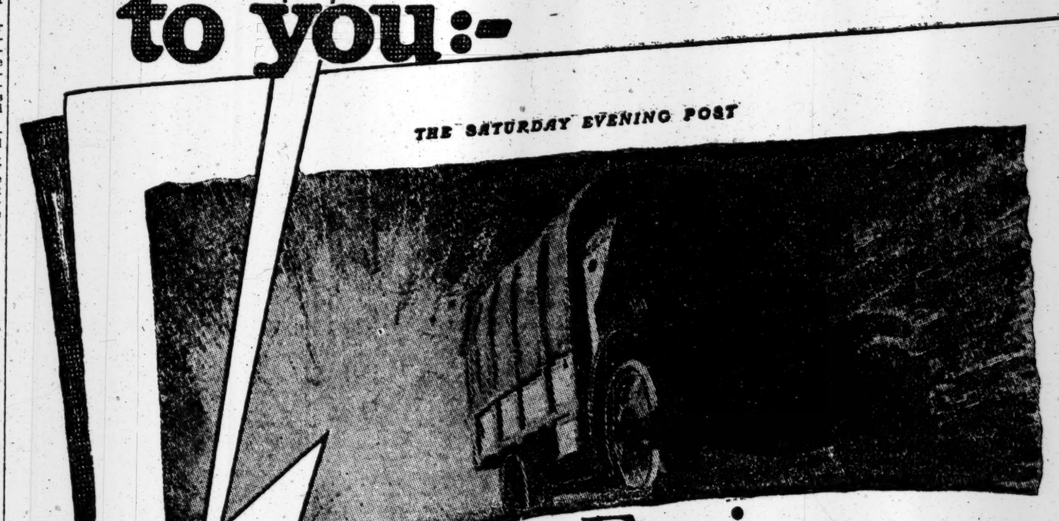
42nd STREET, West of Broadway

If you own a truck or passenger car --this is vital to you:-



Your Engine
is as reliable as its ignition

IF YOUR IGNITION FAILS, your engine stops. The consequences are vital to the truck operator.

While the truck runs, it earns. When it stops, its earnings stop and it becomes a charge—an expense. That the truck keeps running is the first consideration of the truck buyer.

Magneto ignition will not fail

Your magneto is self contained. It is not affected by any disarrangement of starting, lighting or other electrical equipment. It stands on its own feet—nothing interferes with its ever-ready service.

The magneto needs no attention.

Except for an occasional drop of oil, it can be forgotten.

No need to visit service stations—a source of delay.

The magneto spark is the hottest known. This means maximum power. When added power means pulling out of a hole, the magneto assures power. One such experience may save more than installing the magneto costs.

Cost is the sole consideration

The only reason that a magneto is not used in equipping a truck is that a magneto costs more when starting or lighting is operated by batteries.

You can pay for reliability when you buy your truck; or you can pay for delays on the road or in the shop.

Cost is the only question at issue.

When will you pay?

FALLS FIVE STORIES FROM BLAZING LOFT

Thousands See Trapped Clerk Crash Through Glass Canopy, Missing Firemen's Net.

SPARK IGNITES CELLULOID

Solderer at Work When Lafayette Street Building Caught Fire Disappears.

A crowd of several thousand which gathered when smoke poured from the upper floors of an eight-story loft building at the northeast corner of Lafayette and Walker Streets shortly after noon yesterday saw a man hang for nearly five minutes from the ledge of a fifth-floor window and then drop through a steel-framed glass canopy over the building's entrance, missing by a few feet a net which firemen had hastily got into place. He suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

As the flames burned through the fifth and sixth floors, licking up a store of celluloid in the loft occupied by the Universal Merchandise Company on the fifth floor, the noon hour throng of factory and office workers looked for a repetition of the terrors of the Triangle fire. They saw the man fall to the street and looked for others to follow, but police and firemen soon learned that all of the 100 or more workers on the upper floors had escaped, leaving Benjamin Finkel, 21 years old, an assistant shipping clerk, trapped in the rear of the fifth floor.

Unable to reach the fire escape on the Walker Street side of the building Finkel apparently followed the north wall around to the front. The intense heat and thick smoke drove him out the window, from which he hung while those below were powerless to help him. Finally the flames reached the window and he was forced to drop.

Those who witnessed his plunge turned their heads away when they saw that its course led directly into the canopy, fastened on both outer ends with two sharp spiked iron standards. But Finkel missed these and the resistance of the shattered glass broke his fall.

He was taken to Volunteer Hospital in an automobile, where it was said last night that his condition was favorable.

As Finkel was falling, firemen of Engine 31 had reached the sidewalk with a net. They were responding to the excited cries of onlookers after a member of the engine company from the firehouse at Lafayette and White Streets, a block away, had seen the smoke and dispatched the apparatus. A first alarm of fire was turned in, bringing other apparatus, and then a second alarm, which called Deputy Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin.

The flames spread rapidly to the sixth floor, occupied by the Lufkin Rule Company, manufacturers of tape measures. According to Chief Martin, the rapidly sweeping flames had their source in a large stock of celluloid and inflammable material.

Joseph Millitelo, 16 years old, employed in the stockroom of the Universal Merchandise Company, told the Deputy Chief a man with soldering irons had called at the loft to do some work on a case containing about 400 pounds of combs ready for shipment. Millitelo said he thought a spark from the soldering iron struck the celluloid and caused an explosion, resulting in the fire which soon enveloped the entire floor.

The man who had done the soldering could not be found after the fire, and for a time it was thought that he had been trapped in the building, but firemen who went through the premises after the flames had been checked found no trace of him.

The building runs from 106 to 110 Lafayette Street, and from 92 to 96 Walker Street. The damage resulting from the fire was estimated at $50,000 on the fifth floor, while the sixth floor was extensively damaged, and the floors below were flooded with water. About 300 persons were employed there.

Rugged Strength

The International Visible is built in units and any part is easily and quickly accessible. Keyboard removed in 30 seconds.

"STAYING QUALITIES" in an adding machine are not apparent today or tomorrow. In mechanics as in nature, time alone will develop hidden weaknesses.

The International Visible Adding and Listing Machine stands up under the hard knocks of the busy office or abuse of the careless operator. It combines strength, simplicity and watch-like precision.

Hardened steel bars are used instead of wires and complicated mechanism. All tension is off springs when machine is at rest—an exclusive and important feature, for springs are the life of an adding machine. All parts are rust-proof.

This rugged strength is a fitting foundation for features such as one hand control, quick total, self-correcting keyboard, visibility and others that enable the International Visible to produce more work at less cost and with less fatigue to the operator.

Long Time Bonds

The amount and variety of long time bonds available at present low prices is limited, owing to the fact that most of the new issues are of short or medium duration. Corporations are unwilling to pay present burdensome rates of interest on new issues, except for a relatively short period.

Those desiring long term investments must depend largely upon old seasoned issues, and many experienced investors are now buying this class of security.

We can supply a limited amount of long time bonds at prices yielding around 7%, and we recommend the purchase of such bonds at the present time. We shall be glad to send details and circulars to those interested.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Slump of Stocks Accompanies Calling of Loans—Wheat Has Strong Rally.

So severe a break of prices as yesterday's in the stock market could not be ascribed in major part to the operations of professional traders for the fall. There were enough disturbing factors at work to promote considerable liquidation, and the slump of several oil issues seemed to point to forced sales caused by the calling of bank loans. The grave situation in Poland, hinting of armed intervention by one or more of the allied powers; continued evidences of credit stringency; persistent discussion of business cantraction—all these factors tended to promote the sales of long stock and to contract the buying power of the market. In case of Middle States Oil and several other stocks of companies of fairly recent origin support was lacking until declines witnessed in panicky market periods had been recorded. There were well defined strata of depression during the day, with rallies of only slight extent sandwiched between. At the end of trading losses of 2 to more than 7 points spotted the industrial list thickly, and the rails were lower than the day before. As was to be expected in a weak market, following other days of lowering quotations, call money supplies were in excess of the demand and a 6 per cent. rate again was quoted after most of the day's loans had been arranged at 7 per cent.

If a decline as severe as yesterday's had occurred after a fortnight of steady and substantial market reaction, it might have been thought to mark the culmination of one drastic stage of a bear movement. But while stocks of late have been tending downward, the swing had, until yesterday, been punctuated by moderate rallies and at times in the last ten days business slackened in a way to indicate a momentary lack of selling pressure. The railroad rate decision helped to check the fall early this week and on Tuesday and Wednesday it looked as though speculators with long stock on their hands were unwilling to let go, hoping that the rails might lead in a general upturn. Whatever the hopes and expectations of traders committed to the rise, they were rudely shaken in the collapse of a few oil stocks, and the reaching of stop-less orders hastened the reaction throughout the afternoon. The efforts of England to stop Russia's campaign against the Poles will, doubtless have much influence upon market sentiment in the next few days, but it is likely that the business outlook and the attitude of bankers, with crop-moving plans on their hands, will have more. A truer reflection of foreign affairs may be found in the market for British and French bonds than in stocks, and these issues, including the United Kingdom 5½s, were more firm than soft. There is no doubt that the passing of he common stock dividend early in the week by an industrial company whose earnings were thought satisfactory, and the declaration of scrip dividends instead of cash by two tobacco concerns, centred speculative attention upon credit and business in rather disconcerting fashion.

Wheat futures advanced more than 10 cents a bushel, which may have represented speculative thought about the effect of war activities upon part of Europe's harvests but was more likely a natural recovery from the recent great decline. Cotton gained after cables reported a rise at Liverpool and weather reports disclosed too much rain in some sections of the cotton belt. Sterling exchange receded at first, but recovered later, together with Continental rates.

Once again the rumor that the Bank of England's discount rate would be advanced failed to eventuate into fact. The Bank reported an increase of more than £1,200,000 in its reserve, but there was a large expansion of deposit liabilities and loans, with the result of lowering the reserve ratio from 12.20 to 10.20 per cent.

N. Y. CENTRAL AFTER TWO FEEDER LINES

DEALS INVOLVE $5,000,000

If Consolidation Is Effected It Will Be the First Under New Transportation Act.

Should negotiations now being carried on by the New York Central Railroad culminate successfully one of the first of the railroad consolidations to occur under the new Transportation act would be brought about and the company would acquire the Chicago River & Indiana Railroad and the Chicago Junction Railway. It was learned in railroad circles yesterday that the New York Central has been considering a lease or purchase of the properties for some weeks, but has reached no decision on the matter as yet. The amount reported as involved in the deal is between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

If the New York Central acquires the two properties mentioned, it will obtain feeder lines from two of the best traffic producing areas in Chicago. The Chicago Junction Railway is the successor company to the Chicago & Indiana State Line Railway, which in 1913 leased in perpetuity the railway system and equipment of the Union Stock Yard & Transit Company. It serves an area known as the Central Manufacturing District. This comprises 375 acres in the centre of Chicago which in 1918 produced 98,000 full carloads of freight. Through intercompany relations the two properties would also have access to 842 acres of terminals which in the same year received more than 300,000 cars of livestock.

By court order the combination of packing companies in Chicago which owned the network of railroad facilities used by them in that city, must dispose of such lines, and it is understood that the matter was taken up initially some months ago.

How the financing of such purchase would be accomplished by the New York Central has not been divulged and has probably not been considered carefully as yet, as an official of the company said on Wednesday that no definite decision regarding the matter had as yet been reached. He admitted, however, that the deal had been under consideration.

In the event that the consolidation is agreed upon the whole proposal must be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which must approve it before final consummation.

STEEL FOUNDRIES' EARNINGS

Company's Net Returns for Six Months Are $4,002,645.

Net earnings of the American Steel Foundries Company in the six months ended June 30 were $4,002,645 before providing for depreciation, fixed charges and Federal taxes. In the same period last year the total was $2,970,600.

Outside income of $219,631 being added and deduction of $287,209 for depreciation and $1,248,753 for charges and income taxes being made, a surplus of $2,686,314 remained, an increase of $680,538 over the same period of 1919. The balance available for common stock dividends, after providing for preferred stock dividends, was equal to $4.63 per share.

Atlantic Refining Gets Superior Oil.

The Superior Oil Corporation has been formally brought under the management of the Atlantic Refining Company for a period of three years by the election of a new Board of Directors. The directorate consists of E. H. Blum, general manager of the Atlantic Oil Producing Company; James Crosby Brown, of Brown Brothers & Co.; Robert M. Catts, President of the Superior Oil Corporation; H. B. Clark, of White, Weld & Co.; C. A. Evalenko, President of the Bi-Continent Trading Company; H. P. Vaux, of Graham, Parsons & Co., and the following officers of the Atlantic Refining Company: W. P. Cutler, E. J. Henry, Albert Hill, W. M. Irish and John W. Stone.

NICKEL CO.'S PROFITS RISE.

International's Earnings $2,444,305 for Quarter Ended June 30.

The International Nickel Company had earnings of $2,172,097 in the quarter ended June 30 and outside income amounting to $272,208, an aggregate of $2,444,306. This was $1,411,531 larger than in the corresponding three months last year. After providing for preferred stock dividends a balance of $1,268,380 remained, equal to 75 cents per share of common stock. In the same quarter of 1919 the surplus from which dividends could have been paid was equal to no more than 2 cents per share.

The balance sheet, issued yesterday, showed that investments valued at $1,644,200 were approximately $654,000 larger than a year before, while the surplus in a year had increased more than $3,438,000 to $11,859,613 in the twelve months ended June 30. The company had $1,015,000 loaned out in the money market at the end of the quarter, against $75,000 on the same date in 1919.

SINCLAIR NETS $15,542,676.

Statement for Six Months Shows Increased Earnings Over 1919.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation reports a net income of $15,542,676 in the six months ended June 30, after providing for fixed charges and Federal taxes. This profit was derived from gross sales amounting to $86,913,596, which were only about $11,000,000 less than in the full year 1919. The net revenue was equal to $4.13 per share of stock.

The management noted in the semi-annual statement, issued yesterday, that expenses, maintenance, insurance and ordinary taxes required $50,277,678, compared with $54,300,060 in the twelve months of 1919, while interest, discounts and Federal taxes absorbed $1,877,490. The comparative size of the company's business in the first half of 1920 is emphasized in the fact that the net income in 1918 was $20,524,588 and in 1917 $16,222,654 covering the full years.

Stock Exchange Seats Bring $95,000

It was announced at the New York Stock Exchange yesterday that the membership of W. C. Hicks had been transferred to S. M. Ames for $95,000 and that the seat of the late Charles Triple had been transferred to G. M. Woolsey the latter being a partnership transfer.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Market Weakness.

The news concerning the Russo-Polish situation was bad, distinctly so, and the advices from leading European capitals showed plainly enough that the ablest statesmen over there were frankly worried, and under such circumstances it was, or would have been, natural enough for the market to be heavy, even weak. But the trouble in the market yesterday had very little, if anything, to do with the situation abroad. It was of local origin—in the market and of the market, and was tied up with the paucity of that indispensable commodity know n as money. Some one had his loans called and in the process of meeting the demands of the banks there resulted an amount of liquidation which was greater than the market could withstand. Hence the break.

Wheat and Oil.

Apparently there is a vast difference between wheat and oil. A few days ago, when the Russo-Polish affair began to look very bad and most markets started to sag off, the wheat market proved the exception to the rule, and was rushed forward, after several days of sharp downward movement. The argument, or one of the principle ones, was that the over running of Poland by the Boishevviki would end all hope of getting wheat out of Eastern Europe, with resultant heavy demands on the United States and corresponding advances in prices here. Now, Eastern Europe also produces oil, and if the argument was good in wheat, it must have applied to oil too. Yesterday wheat continued its rise, moving back to prices which showed the regaining of fully half of the net loss since the resumption of futures dealings. But just look at the oil stocks!

Money and Credit.

Wall Street's education may be thought to be progressing. There probably are a lot who now know the difference between money and credit. Yesterday furnished a splendid object lesson when call money opened and renewed at 7 per cent. and then was offered down to 6 per cent., which, in these days, is regarded as an exceptionally low rate. Low rates are supposed to be indicative of a plentiful supply. Yet yesterday, with rates undoubtedly low, some were said to have discovered that the supply was extremely limited. One commission house economist explained it thus: The 6 per cent. rate was for money, but what the pool managers wanted was credit. So while money was cheap, and presumably plentiful, credit was scarce and in some cases so expensive that it could not be had at all.

Bank of England Rates.

The Bank of England again failed to advance its minimum rate of discount, allowing the rate to stand at the 7 per cent. level established last April. Thus, the prophets on both sides of the Atlantic who had been insisting that the rate would be moved up this week were again confounded—as they have been so many times in the last two months. Changing the Bank of England rate is becoming something like changing the Federal Reserve rates; it is done a great many times by outsiders but not very often by the management. As a matter of fact, a good many bankers here believe the Bank of England is enjoying the same success with its present rate that the Reserve systems is with its levels, and is finding no reason for change at present.

Earnings—Past and Future.

Most of the industrial companies which now are publishing their earnings statements for quarterly, semi-annual and annual periods are showing very gratifying returns, and if there were no future to be taken into consideration the way of the stock market bull would be a happy one. But, unfortunately, there is a future, and the future, as it presents itself just now, is a most uncertain one. What with "deflation," whatever that may be, "construction" and the "movement against high prices," Wall Street is in something of a maze and would be very much obliged to some one who could, with accuracy and assurance, say what future earnings, even those of the next three months, are going to be. Rarely has there been a time when so many uncertain factors contributed to the discouragement of the Wall Street prophet.

April an Expensive Railroad Month.

The legacy of expenses left to the railroads by Federal control holled up a total some $4,000,000 greater than the receipts, according to The Bulletin of Railway News and Statistics, which states that after the inclusion of taxes and rents, a net deficit for the month of April was left amounting to more than $31,000,000. The statement says: "That this condition was solely due to wasteful expansion of expenses after the adoption of the Adamson act is proved by the following table of April revenues, expenses and working ratios since 1910:

Middle States Oil Declines.

The sensational break in Middle States Oil stock which came about midday and which cut the market price for the shares in half was attributed first to a strong bear drive and later on to the report that loans of a pool supporting the Middle States market had been called. This resulted in a dumping of the stock on a scale all out of proportion with the recent trading in the shares. C. N. Haskell, President of the company, commenting on the action of the stock, said: "The company has never done a better business and is in excellent condition. This market is subject to trades and apparently weak under general conditions. The company is free from all obligations of any kind." In some quarters this was interpreted to mean that Mr. Haskell attributed the decline to raiding by the professionals as much as to anything else.

Gas Stocks Improve.

The local gas company shares were a bright spot in the declining market, both Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union Gas gaining more than a point on the day's trades. This was attributed to the court decision allowing a new rate of $1.20 for each 1,000 cubic feet of gas. The news that the State would carry the case to the Supreme Court had but little effect in the market and last prices while not the highs for the day, were comfortably above the Wednesday closing levels.

Rails React.

The rail shares which as a group have been advancing steadily for some time reacted, afternoon losses ranging from fractions to more than 1½ points. This caused but slight alarm in conservative quarters as some of the active issues which lost the most ground have been the ones to advance the most in recent trading sessions.

Opposition to Express Merger.

News from Washington that the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissions and some State Commissions had filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission opposing the proposed merger of the four large express companies now operating as the American Railway Express found but little reflection in the market action of the express stocks. Adams Express closed fractionally lower, while Wells Fargo gained fractionally over the preceding closing price.

Opportunities for a Large Income

Good bonds now yield more than preferred stocks of recognized merit did ten years ago. Even external loans of strong governments are selling to yield from 7% to 8%. The present generation has never had such opportunities to buy long term bonds at such attractive prices.

THREE SHIP LINES WILL BE MERGED

NAMES WILL BE CHANGED

Vessels to Operate Under Name of United American Lines—Kerr Agreement Canceled.

W. A. Harriman, President of the American Ship & Commerce Corporation and Senior Vice President of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, announced yesterday that the companies had arranged to purchase jointly the firm of Livermore, Dearborn & Co., Inc., and to operate their joint fleets and shipping concerns controlled by them, which have 600,000 aggregate deadweight tonnage. The statement read in part as follows:

"One of the subsidiary ship owning companies of American Ship & Commerce Corporation is Kerr Navigation Company. The steamers of this company have heretofore been operated by Kerr Steamship Co., Inc., as managing agents. Arrangements have been made for canceling the operating agreement with Kerr Steamship Co., Inc., and the name of Kerr Navigation Corporation will be changed to American Ship and Navigation Corporation.

"The name of Messrs. Livermore, Dearborn & Co., Inc. will be changed to the United American Lines, Inc., under which name all of the ships of the fleets of both American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation and their subsidiaries will be operated.

"Harris Livermore, now senior operating officer of Livermore, Dearborn & Co., Inc., and likewise President of the Shawmut Steamship Company, will become President of the United American Lines, Inc., while Henry Dearborn of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, now Senior Vice President of Livermore, Dearborn & Co., Inc., will become Vice President of United American Lines, Inc. To the staff of the operating company will be added the present operating staff of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, including Joseph D. Tomlinson, well known in American shipping. Part of the operating staff of Kerr Navigation Company, including R. W. Robinson, formerly of the Munson Line, will also be added."

The statement announced many other changes in personnel and concluded as follows:

"The United American Lines, Inc., will carry out the agreement recently made with the Hamburg American Line. Announcement of the details of this agreement will be made shortly. It is felt that this agreement is one of the most far-reaching and important steps that have been made for the development of the American Merchant Marine."

RAIL OWNERS SEE END OF LOSING RATES

STATEMENT BY EXECUTIVES

Hold Transportation Act Provides for Automatic Action by Commerce Commission.

The Executive Committee of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, after careful consideration of the rate decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, issued a statement yesterday containing its views on the new rates. The statement stressed two points—one that, in the committee's opinion, the provisions of the Transportation act regarding the rate of return of the aggregate value of railroad property are mandatory, and the other that they provide for automatic action on the part of the Commission to initiate rates which will yield the prescribed return. The statement follows:

"The provisions of the act in respect to the fixed percentage yield on the fair value of the property of the railroads devoted to the public use, taken in the aggregate in the four rate districts, are mandatory. Congress provided the machinery for the guidance of the commission, initiated and believed to be essential by this association and thought by Congress necessary to be made part of the Transportation act.

Quotes from Rate Decision.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission, in its decision, takes a broad view of the necessities of the public and the railroads and places itself in accord with and firmly behind the Transportation act. Under the heading 'Conclusions as to General Increases' the Commission says:

"'We are of opinion and find that the following percentage of increases in the charges for freight service, including switching and special services, together with the other increases hereinbefore approved, would under present conditions result in rates not unreasonable in the aggregate under Section 1 of the act and would enable the carriers in the respective groups, under honest, efficient and economical management and reasonable expenditures for maintenance of way, structures and equipment, to earn an aggregate annual railway operating income equal, as nearly as may be, to a return of 5½ per cent. upon the aggregate value, for the purposes of this proceeding, of the railway property of such carriers held for and used in the service of transportation and one-half of 1 per cent. in addition; Eastern group, 40 per cent.; Southern group, 25 per cent.; Western group, 35 per cent.; Mountain-Pacific group, 25 per cent.'

Sees Definite Promise.

"This section of the decision makes the position of the railroads clear. It has never been so since their regulation by the Government. It is a definite thing upon which the railroad and the investor can count. It means that upon investigation, should the railroads grouped in districts, with 'honest, efficient and economical management and reasonable expenditures for maintenance of way, structures and equipment' not earn under the rates named the yield in the aggregate prescribed by Congress as essential to produce an efficient transportation service as a whole, the Commission will adjust the rates so as to yield the return required by the act.

"Where railroads in any district may feel they are entitled to greater revenue, the question will automatically settle itself after sufficient time has elapsed for it to be demonstrated whether the yield Congress thought necessary and the Commission has acted upon has been produced. If the rates do not yield the amount prescribed by Congress, it is clear that the aid of the Commission can be invoked without delay.

"An erroneous impression prevails in some quarters that rates have been made that will yield 6 per cent. on the value of the railroad property of each carrier. A majority of the railroads of the country under the rates named will not earn 6 per cent. either individually or on the fair aggregate value of their respective properties. It will be less than 5½ per cent. This is on property value, not on securities or dividends on stocks, as Mr. Gompers in a recent interview apparently misinterpreted the act."

Denies Big Living Cost Increase.

Touching on the effect the new schedules will have on the cost of living, the statement said:

"The new rates will not mean a large net increase in living costs. The question that Congress had to decide and the Commission to carry out was whether the public is to be supplied with an adequate transportation system or not. Nothing less than what was done by Congress and now put in effect by the Commission would suffice. The big question involved was whether or not the American transportation system was to exist under private ownership and operation or break down, the result of which being Government ownership with all that meant to the people as a whole.

"It is now up to the railroads to do their part. Congress and the Commission have thus far done theirs."

The committee elected Milton Harrison Executive Secretary of the association Mr. Harrison was formerly connected with the Savings Banks Association, State of New York, and is Secretary of the National Conference of Mutual Savings Banks.

SUGAR GOUGING TRIAL ON.

Roulston, Eckert & Co. and Andrew Roulston Accused of Profiteering.

The trial of Roulston, Eckert & Co. of 27 East 135th Street and Andrew Roulston, as an individual, on the charge of profiteering in sugar was begun yesterday before United States District Court Judge Holmes and a jury.

The defendants had been indicted on a charge of having sold on May 6 last 52,768 pounds of refined sugar to G. J. Riordan for 22½ cents a pound. It was asserted that this was part of a $1,100,000 lot which the defendants purchased for 10⅝ cents. They are charged with having taken a profit of 12½ cents a pound, when 3 cents would have been a reasonable return on their investment.

Nothing of importance developed during the day. The morning period was occupied in selecting a jury. In the afternoon Assistant United States Attorney Mattock said that he would show that the defendants had bought the 500 tons of Porto Rican washed sugar at around 10¾ cents a pound and had sold it for 22½ cents. He asserted that he would establish that the profit thus obtained was much more than the defendants were justly entitled to.

Roger B. Wood, former Assistant United States Attorney, who appeared for the defendants, said he would disprove the claims of the Government. He said he would show that the sugar in question had been sold for less than the defendants could have got for it in the open market.

COTTON PRICE GAINS RANGE TO 100 POINTS

OCTOBER GOES UP TO 31.95

Polish Market Reported Active and Strong Despite Country's Situation.

An oversold condition and a somewhat belated response to the sharp advance in spots at Liverpool lifted yesterday's cotton market out of its heavy position and shot it forward rapidly. Very considerable gains were scored in the near months and a fair advance was realized in the more distant options in the afternoon trading, and at the close there was an unusually firm undertone. October, at the basis of 31.95, was up nearly 100 points; December was up 80 at 30.80, and the others were up 63 for January down to 13 for May. Spots here were unchanged, while in the South the spot markets were irregular, those at New Orleans, Memphis, Baltimore and Mobile being down 50 points or so, while those at Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth were slightly higher than on Wednesday.

Good weather and an uncertain opening in the stock market induced some early local selling, which appeared in sufficient quantity to turn a firm opening, at gains of 11 to 23 points, into net declines in the first hour and a half of 10 to 25 points for the late months, with the near months, which had been firmest at the start, getting back to Wednesday's closing figures.

Then, in the afternoon, there was some profit-taking and a good deal of short covering. The market seemed to be considerably oversold and the buying met with no supply worthy of mention. The advance at Liverpool was made much of late news, after having been overlooked earlier. The Polish situation did not seem to interfere with operations there, where business was reported active and the market, both for spots and futures, strong.

WHEAT ADVANCES SHARPLY.

Talk of European Situation Causes Increase in Prices.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Another sharp advance took place in the wheat market today, due to the developments in Europe, which were generally understood by the public and the trade as an indication of the renewal of war, which also led to sharp buying.

September showed an increase of 6 cents against the previous day's close and December at one time reached the high rate of 7-20 cents against the 16 cents at the close of Tuesday. Altogether wheat advanced more than 10 cents from the previous close.

K. OF C. PILGRIMS SAIL FOR FRANCE

PARADE DOWN FIFTH AVENUE

Convention Considers Erection of a National Tuberculosis Sanitarium to Cost $1,000,000.

Led by Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, the delegation of 235 Knights of Columbus who are to represent the organization's three-quarter-million membership at the dedication of the K. of C. Lafayette statue at Metz on Aug. 21, sailed yesterday at 5 o'clock on the French liner Leopoldina. The departing pilgrims got a rousing farewell from a crowd of several thousand on the pier.

Ending the annual supreme convention, the delegates got away from the Hotel Commodore shortly before 4 o'clock and went down Fifth Avenue in a fleet of taxicabs, escorted by a squad of motor cycle men. At Eighth Street the departing delegates branched over to the piers, while the main contingent journeyed down to the Battery, where the Highlander with the Police Band on the job awaited. Aboard the excursion boat the relatives went up to the French Line and serenaded the delegates, the Highlander keeping close to the Leopoldina almost to Sandy Hook. The delegates to Metz took over the entire first-class accomodations of the French ship.

Joseph T. Toomey of Corrigan Council was Chairman of the Farewell Committee, and among those on the Highlander were William J. McGinley, Supreme Secretary; Dr. Harry P. Swift, Chairman of the New York Chapter; Joseph C. Pelletier, District Attorney of Boston and Supreme Advocate; Morgan J. Callahan, Deputy Grand Knight; Michael S. Hogan, Supervisor of K. of C. War Activities for New York; Daniel A. Tobin, Brooklyn Deputy Grand Knight; Mgr. John Evers, rector of St. Andrew's. Miss Anna F. Cassidy and Mrs. Daniel Tobin were in charge of the women's division.

In its closing hours the convention discussed the practicability of erecting and maintaining a national sanitarium for the tubercular. No action was taken, but it was agreed that if the plan is found workable the sanitarium to be built would cost more than $1,000,000.

Supplemental to the action taken on Wednesday night, when the convention adopted a resolution favoring Irish independence, the delegates were aroused to a high pitch of enthusiasm by the reading of the letter sent by Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Republic of Ireland." They also were stirred by the speech of Joseph Scott, a Los Angeles lawyer, who asserted that the question of Erin's freedom concerned America as much as Ireland.

No city was chosen for the 1921 convclave, the matter being left to the decision of the Supreme Board of Directors. San Francisco was the only municipality to put in a bid for the meeting.

STOCK DIVIDEND TAX RULING EXPLAINED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue has prepared for the guidance of corporations which might be affected by the stock dividend tax decision of the Supreme Court in the Macomber case a series of rulings which indicate what stock dividends may be subject to taxation. It is as follows:

"No decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in recent years has been of greater importance to the financial interests of the country than that handed down on March 8, 1920, as to the case of Eisner vs. Macomber. This decision has given rise to numerous inquiries as to just what stock dividends are for the purpose of the income tax acts, how they are to be determined and treated, and distinguished from other dividends.

"The following rulings, embodied in treasury decision 3052, cover the questions which will most frequently arise and which are of widest interest to corporations and taxpayers generally.

"Where a corporation, being authorized so to do by the laws of the State in which it is incorporated, capitalizes a portion of its surplus to capital account, issues new stock representing the amount so transferred to the capital account, and then declares a dividend payable in part in cash and part in shares of the new issue of stock, that portion of the dividend paid in cash will be deemed to have been paid out of the surplus accumulated since March 1, 1913, and is subject to tax, but the portion of the dividend paid in stock will not be subject to tax as income.

"A dividend paid in stock of another corporation held as a part of the assets of the corporation paying the dividend is income to the stockholder at the time the same is made available for distribution to the full amount of the then market value of such stock. This ruling is based upon the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Peabody vs. Eisner (247 U. S. 347), which was not modified by the case of Eisner vs. Macomber. If such stock be subsequently sold by the stockholder the difference between its market value at date of receipt and the price for which it is sold is additional income or loss to him as the case may be.

"The profit derived by a stockholder upon the sale of stock received as a dividend by the company is taxable to the stockholder and taxable as such even though the stock itself was not income at the time of its receipt by the stockholder. For the purpose of determining the amount of gain or loss derived from the sale of stock received as a dividend or of the stock with respect to which such dividend was paid, the cost of each share of stock (provided both the dividend stock and the stock with respect to which it is issued have the same rights and preferences) is the quotient of the cost of the stock (or its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, if acquired prior to that date) divided by the total number of shares of the old and new stock."

Foresee Earlier Openings.

News from New England mill centres that woolen organizations there contemplate an early resumption of manufacturing is regarded in the local market as a sign that an opening of lines for next Spring may come before Labor Day, which was the date generally considered a short time ago as that which would mark the beginning of operations for the next season. It is now thought that a general opening may take place in about two weeks' time. Selling agents are not over optimistic regarding the outlook for Spring, but they have come to realize that an opening, even though it does not result in large orders, will provide a means of stabilizing market values, now so upset.

CABLE SHIP TO STAY OUTSIDE OUR WATERS

Geddes Orders Her Not to Land Western Union Cable Until State Department Permits.

NO QUARREL WITH BRITAIN

Washington Makes It Clear That the Dispute Concerns Only the Western Union Company.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Government of the United States has no controversy with the British Government as a result of reported efforts to land the new Barbados-Miami cable at the last named place.

This was officially announced by the State Department this afternoon. The department's only controversy, it was stated, is with the Western Union Telegraph Company, which controls the Barbados-Miami cable, an extension of the Brazil-Barbados cable, owned by the Western Cable Company, a British concern.

"We have no controversy with the Government of Great Britain, from which Government we are receiving the most friendly and cordial co-operation in the matter in question. Our only controversy is with the Western Union Telegraph Company," said the official statement.

This statement was made as the result of efforts in certain quarters to make it appear that the cable controversy, which caused Secretary Daniels to send destroyers to Florida waters, amounted to a serious difference of opinion between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States.

The destroyers Satterlee, Cole, Lardner and Herbert, which, under Commander Fewall, are cruising off Miami to prevent the cable being landed, had not sighted the cable ship Colonia, when last heard from today. The Colonia belongs to the Western Telegraph Company, and is of British registry.

Sir Auckland Geddes, it is understood, has instructed the Captain of the Colonia to refrain from all efforts to land the cable until permission from the State Department is granted. The Colonia, it is said, will remain outside the three-mile limit until further orders.

To Keep Ship Outside 3-Mile Limit.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 5.—Advices from the British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, were received today by A. H. Hubbard, Vice Consul here, instructing him to take command of the cableship and keep it outside the three-mile limit until further instructions from Washington.

Wireless connection has not yet been established with the Colonia, which left Newport News several days ago, but it is believed that she is now off the Florida coast. The United States destroyer 155 is held at the docks to take the Vice Consul to the Colonia as soon as it can be located.

In the absence from New York of Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union, C. W. E. Atkins, First Vice President, yesterday issued this statement regarding action taken by the Government to prevent laying by the company of a cable on the Florida coast.

"We have nothing to say except that we are not attempting anything unlawful or defiant and that at the proper time the public will be fully informed of the real facts."

Officials declined to comment on reports that the company had failed to file with the State Department a copy of the Western Union's contract with the British Western Cable Company, regarding the proposed new line from Barbados to Miami.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....8 per cent. for the best names.
Wednesday .....8 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Trade Quiet in Gray Goods.

The trade in gray goods yesterday was quiet and featureless. Sales were confined to spot contracts and no late trading was reported. There were purchases made of 64-60s, 38½-inch 5.35 goods at 16 cents. Sales of 39-inch 68-72s were had at 16½ cents a yard and there were also sales of 72-76s in the same width at 20½ cents. Thirty-six-inch 48-40 5.50 sheetings sold at 13½ cents.

Sales of Summer Suits.

The manner in which prices for men's summer clothing are being slashed by retailers is not a happy augury of the future for the manufacturers of such goods. They are being called upon to pay more for the materials that will be used for next season's merchandise, and at the same time they see the retailers cutting prices to cost and below in order to clear away stocks. With the present situation in mind, the manufacturers are growing stubborn where price increases are asked of them, and before long the same reaction is promised for Summer cloths as has occurred in the division of heavier goods.

Large Hats for Formal Wear.

Judging from the French pattern hats and the displays of manufacturers, the large hat has been accepted as the mode for formal wear. The colors chosen are said to be invariably dark in hue. Lace is used to give a soft and distinctly feminine touch. Panne is used for an extremely large hat featured by one manufacturer. The crown is high and full and the tip is joined by a cording. The brim droops low on the sides and shows the narrow short line in back. Draped over the crown and brim so that a narrow curtain shades the eyes is a scarf of Chantilly lace.

The Value of a Sale.

According to a large retail buyer there is a very important ratio value just now to sales that are made and those that are missed. At present, he said, the average customer is in a very peculiar frame of mind and particularly susceptible to impressions. For that reason, he explained, every sale that is made has a distinct potential value and the sale that is lost has an unusually injurious effect. "For every customer who is sold," he said, "the store may expect to get three more customers, but for every customer lost I figure the store loses five. In other words, there is more of a tendency on the part of customers to criticize a store nowadays than to praise it."

Credit Is Still Tight.

Although retailers as well as manufacturers have heard that the money situation is getting easier, recent experiences do not seem to verify this. An instance was related yesterday where a manufacturer endeavored to get a loan and put up good collateral to an amount just double what was needed. The bank, however, would loan only a third of the sum represented by the collateral. Instances of this kind, it is explained, are without end and apply equally to established houses and those which have been in business only a short time. Among local credit men the feeling is that it will take the banks some time to get over their "nervousness."

Style Assortments Desired.

The style tendency in popular-priced coats and suits does not show any indication of a change and, as previously in the season, buying is well distributed over the new designs. Buyers appear anxious to get wide assortments of styles. The reason given for this is that during any period when price is uppermost in the minds of consumers the greater the choice offered the better opportunity there is for the store to make a sale. In other words, opposition to prices can be broken down best by having well-assorted stocks from which the customer can make a selection. This, at least, is said to be the theory which at present governs the purchasing of ready-to-wear.

Silks Still Quiet.

The silk trade seems to be still in process of liquidation, and this does not go unnoticed by buyers who are proceeding very carefully. What orders are being given are for goods wanted chiefly for "filling in" purposes. In this hand to mouth demand the retailers are chiefly concerned. Some little improvement is noted in the direction of business which may come from the cutting-up trades. The dress manufacturers are fairly well employed and such activity cannot be maintained, it is felt in the silk trade, without a call for additional yardage. Sellers are not so sanguine over the business which is to be taken this month, but they look forward to a better demand in September.

Spring Openings to Be Late.

From present indications, openings of the better grades of silk hosiery for the Spring season going to be very late this year. Where, in a normal year, the Spring lines are usually priced between the middle and the end of July, there is said to be little chance this year of important concerns offering their goods before the middle of September. In some quarters of the trade it is asserted that the new goods may not be shown before some time in October. Buyers in the market for Fall hose are not taking them very freely at the moment, the disposition being to await new price developments as a result of the declining market for raw silks. Requests for downward revisions of Fall quotations are numerous, but the manufacturers appear to be "making haste slowly" in that direction.

Hardware Trade in Good Shape.

In spite of the difficulty in getting enough raw materials to fill the orders now on the books, reports from the hardware trade indicate that it is in good shape. The call for building hardware is gaining, and a steady increase in the demand for it is looked for as the improvement in the railway situation releases more construction materials. Household hardware is also in growing demand. The cutlery industry is in a strong position, too. Statistics compiled in New York State, which are said to be indicative of the situation all over the country, show that 174 men are now being employed in the cutlery industry for every hundred employed before the war. Total wage payments in the industry have more than trebled in the last six years.

CANTU REBELS SEIZE A MEXICAN STEAMER

REPORT RAIDS ON RANCHES

Horses, Cattle and Other Supplies Commandeered—Government Promises Restoration.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 5.—Hostilities have begun at Ensenada in the rebellion of Governor Esteban Cantu against the Mexican Central Federal Government, with seizure by Cantu authorities of the Mexican patrol ship Tecate, entailing the death of Captain Leonardo Zepeda of the Tecate, and the arrest or slaying of the crew, according to information brought to San Diego today.

Information was brought by the power schooner Newark, Captain A. H. Moore, which loaded a cargo of copper ore at Point San Jose and put in at Ensenada yesterday forenoon.

Coupled with the opening of hostilities on the Federal Government is the escape of David Zarate, former Mayor of Ensenada and recently proposed as Governor to succeed Cantu. Zarate arrived in San Diego aboard the Newark, owing his life to refuge afforded by Captain Moore, and hiding in a water tank aboard the Newark.

As learned by Captain Moore, the shooting of Captain Zepeda of the Tecate was accomplished by a ruse, in which advantage was taken of the fact that word of the rebellion had not yet reached the patrol boat. Three high Cantu officials, whose names were not given, invited Captain Zepeda ashore in a friendly manner for conference or as dinner guests, according to the information given. When he had landed, one of the three seized him and one or both of the others fired bullets into his body.

Yesterday the entire crew of the Tecate was said to be missing and Cantu soldiers were in possession of the boat. What had been done with the crew was not learned.

Confiscation of horses, cattle and supplies by order of Governor Cantu was reported by ranchers to be going on throughout Lower California District. At Ensenada and inland, it was said, the people have become much alarmed with the evident preparations of Cantu for resistance to the Federal forces.

Confiscation on Ranches.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Unconditional surrender was demanded of Governor Esteban Cantu of the Northern District of Lower California, by the representatives of Provisional President De la Huerta, who recently conferred with him at Mexicali, it was announced here today at the agency of the de facto Mexican Government.

It was said also that if Cantu immediately ceased activities against the Federal Government and retired from the Governorship, he would be restored to a Colonelcy in the Federal army, a position he formerly held.

Eduardo Ruiz, De la Huerta representative in Los Angeles, charged today that Cantu was confiscating crops, live stock, motor vehicles and other property of aliens in his district.

In an open letter to Cantu, made public today, Captain Rafael C. Silver, another attaché of the De la Huerta agency, charged that the Governor was holding "in virtual slavery" many thousands of Chinese, who were required to pay him an annual head tax of $40 each.

Señor Ruiz announced receipt of communications from Provisional President De la Huerta and General Abelardo Rodriguez, named in Mexico City as the Commander of the Federal forces to be sent against Cantu. General Rodriguez's message gave assurance of protection to alien lives and property and promised return to their owners of all properties which the Cantu forces might confiscate.

The De la Huerta communication promised protection to the irrigation system of the Imperial Valley and requested Señor Ruiz to assure protection of life and property to American, English, Russian, Japanese and Chinese residents of Lower California.

The President also expressed his "deep appreciation for the moral support recorded his Government by the people of the United States.

Mexican Gunboat Founders.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—The Mexican gunboat General Guerrero ran aground on the reefs in Mazatlan Harbor and foundered, it is announced here. Efforts made by the Mexican gunboat Korrigan III. to save the General Guerrero were futile. The crew was rescued.

Government troops which will be sent into Lower California, if necessary, to put down the insurrection are being mobilized at Guaymas and Puerto Isabel, in the State of Sonora, and at other ports, the Secretary of War said last night.

Compulsory military service is the only way of solving Mexican military problems, the Minister declared, and he expressed himself as favoring the establishment of five military zones—the northern, southern, central, Atlantic and Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A summary of Mexican governmental reports issued today by the embassy here said that under decree of President de la Huerta all Government employes would be paid in full, beginning Aug. 10. A 50 per cent. increase in salaries for all Consular Agents also has been ordered, it said.

Another order, effective within a month, provides that only graduate doctors possessing authorized diplomas may practice in any part of Mexico or in any branch of medical science, the summary said, adding:

"Fakirs will not be allowed to display signs or advertise."

VILLA HAD NINE GENERALS.

Other Officers Totaled 251, with 558 Men Under Their Command.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—The text of the agreement to surrender, signed by Francisco Villa, the rebel leader, at Sabinas, Coahuila, on July 28, is published in dispatches received today from San Pedro, Coahuila.

The terms are substantially as given in the news dispatches of that day. They provide for Villa's retirement to private life, with a guard of fifty men for his own protection. The remainder of his followers get a year's pay and farm lands. Villa himself will live in the hacienda de Canutillo, in the State of Durango.

The Villa forces are given as nine generals, thirty-three colonels twenty-five lieutenant colonels, thirty-three majors, eighty-five captains, thirty-four lieutenants, forty-one sub-lieutenants and 558 non-commissioned officers and privates.

Give Gospel to Blind Soldiers.

The American Bible Society offers free to all soldiers who lost their sight in the war a copy of the Gospel of St. John. This will be printed in revised Braille, in what is known as grade 1½, which is the system of reading being taught to the blind by the Government.

FILE NEW BANK PLANS.

S. W. Straus & Co. Building Will Cost $1,250,000.

Plans were filed yesterday for the construction of the ten and twelve story bank, office and store building on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, to be occupied by S. W. Straus & Co. Warren & Wetmore, the architects, who prepared the plans, estimate the cost of the new structure at $1,250,000. It will have a frontage of 100.5 feet on the avenue and 180 feet on the street.

The site of the proposed banking building forms the southerly half of the old Windsor Arcade property that was destroyed by fire in March, 1899. It was rebuilt in 1902.

S. W. Straus & Co. leased the plot last May from the Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street Company for a term of thirty-two years. It was announced at the time that the entire project would involve a total outlay of $4,000,000.

FILM CELEBRITIES SUED.

Fairbanks, Pickford, Griffith, Chaplin and Mollie King Defendants.

Several suits against stage and motion-picture celebrities were filed yesterday in the Supreme Court. In one action the United Artists Corporation and Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, D. W. Griffith and Charles Chaplin, its individual members, were named defendants. In the other Mrs. Mollie King Alexander, known on the stage as Mollie King, was made a defendant.

Benjamin P. Shulberg, President of the Attractions Producing Corporation of 1,476 Broadway, was the complainant against the United Artists. In his summons and accompanying affidavits he said he was entitled to commissions, due by virtue of his services in bringing about the purchase of Pickford, Fairbanks and Chaplin films by Morris Greenhill, a London motion-picture producer. Supreme Court Justice Lydon signed an order requiring the defendants to appear before him for examination on Aug. 11.

The Fitzgerald Manufacturing Company, plaintiff in the suit against Mollie King, alleged that in April, 1919, it made a contract with her, paying $1,000 to bind it, whereby she agreed to assign to it the exclusive use of her photographs, name, testimonials and facsimile of her signature in connection with advertising an electric vibrator. The plaintiff said it subsequently learned that Miss King previously sold similar rights for use on calendars. The plaintiff asked $2,734 damages.

STELZLE ON LABOR ILLS.

Fears Conservative Attack on Liberalism More Than Agitators.

Charles W. Stelzle, who was director of relief during the unemployment period in Mayor Mitchel's administration and who long has been a union man, talked to the Rotary Club at its Hotel McAlpin luncheon yesterday on the cause and cure of radicalism. He said the essential ingredients of a cure for this and all sorts of "isms" were the development of confidence between employer and employe, mutual co-operation, willingness to confess error, opportunity for open discussion of all questions and, above all, absolute justice.

Mr. Stelzle said he feared ultra-conservative business men who talked of putting down radicalism and liberalism at all costs much more than he did labor agitators. The American workingman, he declared, had been awakened and was extending a challenge to the business men of the country. The destinies of the nation depended on how this challenge was answered.

SWAMPED BY ALIEN INFLUX.

Appeal to be Made for More Help at Ellis Island.

A demand for an emergency allowance to handle the floodtide of immigration now pouring through the gates at Ellis Island probably will be made upon the Washington authorities by Commissioner General of Immigration Anthony Caminetti as a result of a conference he held here yesterday with Immigration Commissioners Wallis of New York, H. J. Skeffington of Boston and Bertram N. Stump of Baltimore. The station here is handling about 83 per cent. of the influx, but Mr. Skeffington and Mr. Stump reported their own stations so short handed they could not accede to Mr. Wallis's request that clerical help be lent to him.

Mr. Wallis told his chief that he had 3,500 incoming immigrants yesterday and 3,000 "on the blackboards" the day before.

Ecrement Case Reopened.

Special Officer Hayes of the Ellis Island immigration station yesterday reopened the case of Arthur Ecrement, former member of the Canadian Parliament, so that his counsel, Eugene F. McGee, might have opportunity to offer evidence he claims to have to show that Ecrement was duly inspected by immigration authorities when he came to this country. Mr. McGee said he would take no further steps until the Secretary of Labor had ruled on the evidence already offered.

I., was killed by a Long Island train at the Bedford Avenue crossing, Bellmore, while on her way back from mass in St. Barnabas's Church yesterday. She was deaf and did not hear the train approaching. Her body was thrown 100 feet.

93 Years Old. Shingles House.

Josiah Smith, 93 years old, of Sayville, L. I., spent yesterday tearing the shingles off the roof of his son-in-law's home, preparatory to re-roofing the building. He will do all the work himself. Yesterday, despite the heat, he worked on the slanting roof of the house with the sure-footedness of a youth.

It was purchased from Isabella Anderson of Washington, D. C. POULTRY MAN TELLS OF THREAT TO SLAY

HE APPEARS AT INQUIRY

Asserts He Accepted $100-a-Week Position from "Trust" and Was Forced to Sell Business.

"You will be killed just like Barnet Baff," was the threat made by poultry dealers to Joseph Hasenfratz, formerly an independent poultry dealer, according to the man's testimony yesterday before Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, who is investigating the alleged Poultry Trust.

Hasenfratz testified that certain poultry men threatened to take his life because of the testimony he gave recently at the hearing before Commissioner Hirshfield when he asserted that he had been coerced and intimidated into disposing of his store to the "trust," from whom he accepted a position at $100 a week.

Hasenfratz also testified that he was forced to sell out because of threats that his credit would be ruined and he would be unable to buy poultry in the market. Health Commissioner Copeland and Markets Commissioner O'Malley were present when he told of the threats.

Morris Liebowitz, President of the Brownsville Retail Dealers' Association, testified that the "trust" was asking 12 cents a pound above the market quotation for poultry and 20 cents above for Spring chickens.

Another witness said that an independent dealer who sold out to the combination was employed at a branch at a salary of $150 a week and that the same branch had four employes, three of whom were managers at from $100 to $150 a week and one employe.

Commissioner Hirshfield became incensed when Simon Latoff, alleged to be on the "trust's" books as an "adviser" at $7,500 a year, failed to appear in response to a subpoena. Latoff appeared later, after the Commissioner adjourned the hearing, but he examined the man in his office.

Latoff testified that he leased a slaughter house at Far Rockaway last May from the receivers of Barnet Baff, but before he had an opportunity to open it he was able to dispose of it to the Hygrade Live Poultry Company, which was then in the process of organization. He received $500, he said, and was placed upon the payroll of the corporation at $150 a week as "adviser." He admitted he had little to do.

Latoff said he was to have been made manager of the Far Rockaway slaughter house, but because of business depression the slaughter house has not been opened, and will not open until September. Two weeks ago his salary was temporarily reduced to $75 a week, he added.

The hearing will continue at 10 A. M. today.

Mercer enclosed cars for all around use

Mercer enclosed cars have the combination of charming lines and comfort which is only possible when the body designer has a low chassis and an ample wheel base to build on.

Their low centre of gravity is also a powerful element of safety; likewise the unusual range of driver's vision permitted by their windshield and forward window design, and the superb brake action which assures against traffic collisions in the tight places.
